New York to Pacific and Chicago to Southwest Daily Service Wil Start in Six Months.

AIR TRANSIT ERA PREDICTED

Commerce Secretary, Conferring With the President, Sees Gain for Business, Aid in Defense.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—By approving the establishment of two airways under the new air act, the Transcontinental Airway from New York to the Pacific Coast and the Southwestern Airway from Chicago into the Southwest, President Coolidge today took the first step which marks the federal Government's entrance upon comprehensive plans for the development of commercial aviation and assures that in the next six months daily passenger, freight and postal air service will be maintained over these lines by private companies.

President Coolidge discussed with Secretary Hoover the possibilities of developing commercial aviation through Government aid in laying out routes and the physical sides of aviation, as provided by the recent law placing aviation under the Department of Commerce.

The belief was expressed by Secretary Hoover that America in three years would have the most complete air service in the world, with the first routes operating the same service as the railroads, apart from carrying bulky freight, in the next six months.

In addition to approving the first airways that will be chartered, lighted and developed by the Government, President Coolidge went over with Mr. Hoover the other routes that will be brought into the system as quickly as practicable.

Because the Government is operating air mail service over the routes now approved, Secretary Hoover found it most feasible to develop these first, as the Government can accomplish most by entering upon their development at once before expending efforts upon routes that are not so far advanced in lighting and landing places.

Will Name Two Committees to Aid.

Following their conference, President Coolidge announced that he would appoint two advisory committees to work with the Department of Commerce in the creation of the airways and in the making of rules for the licensing of regulation of pilots.

President Coolidge let it be known that airways would not be used by the Government except for postal service would be for commercial and private operators.

The first route approved, known as the Transcontinental Airway, starts at New York and goes to the Pacific Coast by way of Cleveland, Chicago, Iowa, Des Moines, North Platte, Cheyenne and Salt Lake City. At the last named point, branches run to Los Angeles and San Francisco. Later there will be a branch to the Northwestern Pacific Coast cities—Portland, Seattle and Tacoma. This branch will not be routed for many months.

The second airway, over which mail is to be carried by Government operation, one of the above, is known as the Southwestern from Chicago to Dallas by way of Fort Worth, Moline, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Routes to Be Developed Soon.

Other airways discussed upon which work will be undertaken within reasonable time, Secretary Hoover said, were as follows:

The Atlantic route, from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Raleigh, Savannah, Atlanta and Jacksonville to Miami. Over this proposed airway service is now maintained by private companies from Boston to New York, from Philadelphia to Washington and from Atlanta to Miami. These segments will be brought into the Atlantic route with Federal contracts.

Another route, to be known as the Pacific airway, will be chartered, running from Southern California to Portland, and touching all the chief cities between these points. Some service in no way complete, exists along this course through private operators.

The Government's plans also contemplate the creation of a Great Lakes airway, which will be a branch of the transcontinental, starting at Cleveland and going to Detroit and Chicago.

Another route is the Northwestern, forming a branch of the transcontinental, starting at Chicago and going to St. Paul and Minneapolis. There will be also a Mississippi Valley route from St. Louis to New Orleans.

Hoover Predicts Air Transit Progress.

These airways, with the branches which will radiate from central points, Secretary Hoover declared, would give the United States the most comprehensive air service in the world.

He feels that in three years at least this country should lessen its communication with distant points by four or five days and that the air service can be made to pay, due to the cheaper development of flying machines and the increasing use of the air by business men for mail and passenger transportation.

Secretary Hoover said that the pro-

Mussolini Drives Racing Car On Army Inspection Trip

After inspecting the anti-aircraft, infantry and artillery posts, reviewing the troops, watching target practice and making brief speeches, the Premier, again at the wheel, sped away for an undisclosed destination.

It is believed, however, that he will go to Riccione, where his family is spending the Summer, and then proceed to Umbria for manoeuvres.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—A conference of the greatest importance to the Catholic Church in Mexico, in which the highest dignitaries, including the Archbishops of Mexico and of the States of Jalisco and Michoacan took part, was held in the palace of Archbishop José Mora y del Rio today.

The whole situation in Mexico was canvassed, and after the meeting the participants declared that the position of the Church was absolutely unchanged in the matter of its opposition to the existing religious laws.

The possibility of Archbishop Mora y del Rio being brought before the Federal authorities to explain statements attributed to him in an interview for an American newspaper was also considered.

Later in the day, however, the Attorney General announced that no court action against the Archbishop would be taken. It was alleged yesterday that statements in the interview were violations of the religious laws.

Bishop Pascual Diaz, secretary and spokesman of the Catholic Episcopate, after the conference issued a statement on the position of the Church and the case of the Archbishop.

The statement asserted that no argument against the position of the Church was possible, since truth and justice were on its side.

The Archbishop was guilty of no offense, tht statement said, and added that the purpose of the Government was to place the blame for the existing situation on the shoulders of the Archbishop.

Spanish Woman Is Blamed.

Incidentally, the Episcopate asserts, much of the anti-Church legislation is due to the efforts of Señora Belinde Zarada, a well-known Spanish woman of radical views now in Mexico City.

For the most part the statement of the Episcopate is an answer to that of the Minister of the Interior, Alberto Tejeda, issued when the interview attributed to the Archbishop was turned over to the Department of Justice for investigation.

The Episcopate bluntly charges that the laws are intended to destroy Catholicism in Mexico, since the Church cannot survive without the liberty it enjoys in other countries.

The statement says:

"We do not ask more than the same liberty which the Catholic Church enjoys in other civilized countries."

Besides Archbishop Mora y del Rio, those who took part in today's conference were Archbishop Orozco of Jalisco, Archbishop Ruiz y Flores of Michoacan, Bishop Diaz and other prelates of subordinate rank.

Following the conference Archbishop Orozco received THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent and told of the disturbances in Guadalajara following the enforcement of the religious regulations.

He gave the number of killed and wounded among the Federal troops as forty-three and the number of Catholic civilians killed as five. He did not know how many military casualties represented deaths.

A 16-year-old girl stabbed to death an Indian soldier who, with fixed bayonet, sought to enter a church, he said.

In the opinion of the Archbishop the soldiers fired in the air and this ex-

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Aug. 13.—Six persons were killed and more than fifteen others were injured when the eastbound Shelter Island express of the Long Island Railroad was derailed at Calverton, five miles east of here tonight.

The two engines pulling the train jumped the tracks at a switch a short distance east of the Calverton station, wobbled ahead on the ties for about forty yards and then plunged off at right angles. They crashed into a factory building near the right of way and turned over. The engineer and fireman of the first engine were killed but the crew of the second engine escaped with cuts and bruises.

A Pullman car and a combination baggage and smoking car immediately behind the engine also jumped the rail, wheeled around and fell on their sides across the tracks.

Great excitement following the accident, which was believed to have been due either to an open switch or to rails spread through the undermining of the roadbed during the recent heavy rainstorms. Many women passengers became hysterical. Colonel M. G. Spink of the 62nd Coast Artillery, now at Camp Upton, L. I., brought 300 men with him to the scene and took charge of the rescue work.

He was born in Brooklyn forty-seven years ago and had been a member of the Stock Exchange since 1905. Mr. Fish was a member of the Union Club, the National Golf League and the Garden City Golf Club.

Woman Pinned in Wreckage.

Among the injured were Mrs. George A. Schuford, mother of the two children killed.

Mrs. Schuford was pinned in the wreckage of the Pullman car for five hours. Firemen, rushed there from Riverhead, and soldiers took that time to free her with acetylene torches. She was taken to the Southampton Hospital with her right leg injured.

Laura Conley, her negro maid, was also caught in the wreckage. She was extricated quickly, but it was found necessary to amputate her left leg. She was taken to the Southampton Hospital where it was discovered that she had also received other serious injuries and it was feared she would die. Also taken to the Southampton Hospital was Alex Delek, a trackworker for the railroad. He was standing near the switch when the train was derailed. His left leg was fractured when one of the derailed cars struck him.

Mrs. Shuford's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Angell of Brooklyn, who were accompanying her and her children to the Angell Summer home at Shelter Island, were seated near them when the car left the tracks and plunged into the building. Mrs. Angell escaped by climbing through a

Doctor Pleads Insulin Poison Made Him Drive as if Drunk

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Legal and medical history was made at one stroke today when a doctor, charged with being drunk while in charge of an automobile and with driving in a dangerous manner, pleaded that he was suffering not from drunkenness but from an overdose of insulin.

The prosecution alleged that the doctor while driving in London mounted a sidewalk, recrossed the road, ran into a lamp-post, rebounded across the road and came to a rest against a garden wall. A policeman spoke to him and he then drove straight across the road into the lamp-post which he had just hit. On the way to the police station he fell to the ground.

The doctor testified that he was suffering from insulin poisoning, due to an overdose, and he was supported by four other doctors, all of whom stated that the symptoms of insulin poisoning might easily be mistaken for symptoms of alcoholism. The Court, however, required him to pay $200 in fine and costs and suspended his license for a year.

TRAFFIC CRIPPLED 28 HOURS BY STORM

FIRE AT PERKINS ESTATE

The Long Island Railroad's service to and from Manhattan was paralyzed until 7:45 o'clock last night as a result of the storm which flooded the East River tunnels on Thursday afternoon. The railroad's 100,000 commuters, who had spent half the preceding night getting home by devious routes after the block in the tunnels, again encountered hardships when they started to business yesterday morning. They were detrained at improvised terminals in Woodside and Flatbush and from those points proceeded by subway, elevated railway, bus and taxicab to their destinations. They reversed the procedure in the afternoon rush.

At 7:45 P. M., more than twenty-eight hours after the tunnels were blocked by flood waters, Train 766 departed from the Long Island Station at Thirty-fourth Street and Seventh Avenue for Babylon, and simultaneously the Long Island Railroad announced that the tunnels were clear; that it had resumed normal schedules, and that it hoped to maintain them. The train to Babylon was the second to negotiate the tunnels under the East River. The first train sent through those tubes was the Sunrise Special, which departed for Montauk Point at 3:20 P. M. when only two tunnels were in operation and were being used by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to run trains from the Sunnyside yards into the Pennsylvania Station.

At 7:54 Train 149 from Babylon passed through the tunnels under the East River and rolled into the Long Island station, making the first westbound trip since the flood blocked the tunnels. Thereafter trains on the Long Island began running on schedules which rapidly were approaching normal.

Lightning Hits Glyndor.

During a renewal of the electric storm at 8 o'clock last evening lightning struck and set fire to the roof of Glyndor, the mansion on the 93-acre estate of the late George W. Perkins in the Riverdale section of the Bronx. None of the Perkins family was at home at the time.

Prompt action by servants and the fire department kept the blaze confined to the third floor, and the chief damage feared is water injury to the valuable furnishings. Many of these were taken out by the servants before the firemen arrived and others were protected by tarpaulins. The loss has not been estimated.

Cleveland E. Dodge, who lives in the neighborhood, assisted in removing the paintings from the Perkins home.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's westbound traffic was crippled all day by the flood in the tunnels which bottled up the Sunnyside yards where trains are made up. Delays of one hour and longer were announced by the Pennsylvania on all through traffic between New York City and the West.

Baltimore & Ohio trains, which also were bottled up at Sunnyside, caused delays in traffic between New York and westward points. The New Haven through trains between Washington and Boston, which use the East River tunnels and the Hell Gate Bridge, were blocked so that passengers had to be detoured.

In many parts of Greater New York, subway and trolley tracks and streets are still under water when the morning rush to Manhattan started. Normal operations were resumed on the rapid transit lines with difficulty, particularly when the Long Island Railroad began detraining its 100,000 daily commuters at the Flatbush Avenue and Woodside stations, whence the passengers continued toward Manhattan or Brooklyn by subway, trolley, bus and taxicab. The New York Telephone Company reported that the storm had put out of commission 13,000 telephones in the metropolitan area.

STATE REFERENDUM ON DRY ACT UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Justice Crain in Denying a Stay Finds Vote of Value to Test Prohibition Sentiment.

PRAISES LEGISLATURE'S AIM

Congress Will Consider Rum Question, He Says, and Will Be Guided by Public View.

COST ELEMENT ELIMINATED

Opinion Cites Voorhis Statement That Question Would Appear on Same Ballot With Fare Inquiry.

A sweeping decision upholding the constitutionality of the State law enacted this year, providing for a referendum at the coming election on a recommendation to Congress for the modification of the Volstead law, was handed down yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Crain in dismissing the injunction suit brought by Mrs. Helen M. Albert, as a taxpayer, to restrain the voting in the referendum. The suit was based on allegations that the law was unconstitutional and therefore the money spent for the election would constitute a waste of funds which affected taxpayers.

Justice Crain not only upholds the law in every particular, but decides that neither the plaintiff nor any other taxpayer would be affected because the cost of the referendum would be very slight and the money paid for it by the City of New York would be recouped from the State of New York. Justice Crain also points out the intense interest in the questions involved in the referendum, and holds that the various States have a right to determine by this means the sentiment of their residents and to submit such sentiments to Congress with recommendations for action. Mrs. Albert's action was brought in behalf of the New York City Women's Committee for Law Enforcement, her name being used at the request of officers of the organization.

Appeal Is Uncertain.

Miss Bertha Rembaugh, counsel for the organization, who spoke against the referendum bill before Governor Smith signed it, and who said the suit had been brought because of the honest belief of her organization that the law was not valid, said yesterday that she had not determined on an appeal, but that if one was taken she believed the case could be brought before the Court of Appeals in time for a decision before the November election.

At the outset of his opinion Justice Crain refers to the referendum proposal that the "Congress of the United States modify the Federal act to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment so that the law shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective States." The referendum law provides that the cost of the election is to be a charge against the State, which the State Controller is to pay after the various election boards have submitted their expenses.

Justice Crain refers to the affidavit of President Voorhis of the Board of Elections, which the Court says "is convincing," in its statement that "there will be but slight additional expense growing out of the question to be propounded under the statute assailed, because such question will be printed upon the ballot required to be used in connection with the mandatory referendum" dealing with the five-cent fare.

Justice States Question.

Justice Crain says:

"The question to be submitted means, shall Congress take from the statute a definition of what shall be deemed intoxicating beverage based upon a stated percentage of alcohol, and substitute for it a statement that, providing a given beverage is not in fact intoxicating, the degree under which it

MRS. GIBSON PICKS CARPENDER IN COURT AS SEEN WITH STEVENS AND MRS. HALL AT MURDER SCENE; LOST EVIDENCE FOUND

Mrs. Gibson's Story Impresses the Judge; Grand Jury Action May Be the Next Step

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 13.—Commenting upon the Hall-Mills hearing at which he presided this afternoon, County Judge Frank L. Cleary indicated that he had been greatly impressed with the evidence presented so far. Whether he will hold Stevens and Carpender for the Grand Jury he, of course, has not yet decided, but he did say that "no one could fail to be impressed by the testimony of Mrs. Gibson. I had never before seen her, but fancied her an uncouth person, illiterate. Instead she seemed to be a woman of intelligence who displayed no illiteracy in the excellent choice of words with which she told her story straightforwardly."

Judge Cleary said that "no Judge could disregard such a positive identification, and if further on in the hearing there is some corroboration of her identification the case would certainly warrant the consideration of the Grand Jury."

Judge Cleary said that to him the most dramatic incident in the afternoon's hearing was the revelation by Mr. Beekman that he had the lost records of the previous investigation in his possession.

SARATOGA CHARGES ASTOUND JUSTICE

Heffernan Declares the Bribery Testimony Against Officials Eclipses Gambling Issue.

HE ENDS HEARINGS THERE

Calls Prosecutor to Move for Inquiry Into Own Acts—Three Witnesses Held in Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Following a concluding statement, in which he arraigned conditions as disclosed in Saratoga Springs by the evidence, Supreme Court Justice Timothy J. Heffernan, appointed by Governor Smith to investigate charges of open gambling, today adjourned the hearings sine die.

Referring to the testimony of Jules Formel, convicted and sentenced as a common gambler during the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigation of 1920, to the effect that he was "fixer" between District Attorney Andrus and the gamblers, the Court declared that if Formel's story was true the District Attorney was unworthy to hold public office.

Calls on Prosecutor to Act.

"The gambling issue," the Court said, "is of minor importance in comparison to these charges. If public officials, if men who have sworn to uphold the Constitution and have sworn to enforce the laws, have become faithless to their oaths we are in a serious condition in Saratoga County."

He said that District Attorney Andrus on his own motion should take the charges to the Appellate Division for investigation.

James C. Fennel, Matthew J. Byrnes and Almeron F. White, jailed Wednesday when they refused to testify, were still in jail at Ballston Spa when Justice Heffernan left the court house, and he made it plain that he did not intend to relent. Referring to their case he said:

"These men cannot come in here defiantly, refuse to testify and go free. They are in jail and they are going to stay there if the public officials will see that the order is enforced."

Andrus Makes Only Reply.

Officials accused in the petitions of Peter A. Finley, on which Governor Smith ordered the investigation—not one of whom took the stand to defend himself under oath—were District Attorney Andrus, Sheriff Arthur G. Wilmot and Commissioner of Public Safety Arthur J. Leonard. The District Attorney, with the permission of the Court, made an unsworn statement in which he branded the testimony of Formel as untrue.

CHAUTAUQUA GREETS SMITH WITH CHEERS

TELLS OF PROGRESS MADE

Apathy of Voters, He Asserts, Has Held Back Needed Reforms for Years.

Special to The New York Times.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Speaking here today to about 6,000 persons in the Chautauqua Institution amphitheatre, Governor Smith suggested that the lack of public interest in governmental affairs which, he charged, was responsible for the lack of more rapid progress in government, was an indictment of rule by the people.

The Governor was speaking on State government. He had gone into the forthcoming reorganization of the State's departments and the proposed executive budget, and had dwelt on the non-partisan character of the effort that had been made for eleven years to bring about some such improvement. Then he quoted the figures of the last election at which the constitutional amendments authorizing the reorganization were voted upon.

"The figures for the entire State outside of Greater New York show that 681,648 people did not vote on these questions," said Governor Smith. "Now, if 681,648 people don't care enough to voice their view on a proposition of such importance as this, it seems to me that is in the nature of an indictment of popular government."

That was the keynote of the chief speech the Governor is to make on his tour through Western New York on a visit to many State institutions. It was received with vigorous applause by the crowd, the greater number of which were women. The Governor had received a very hearty welcome in the rather sedate atmosphere of Chautauqua, and his speech was frequently interrupted by applause.

Tells of Lecture Offers.

Introduced to the assembly by Arthur E. Bestor, President of the Chautauqua Institution, the Governor received first the "Chautauqua salute" and then was applauded. He hastened to disclaim any ability as a lecturer, and said that since it had been announced he was to appear here he had received three offers to go on the lecture platform, which he had promptly declined.

Governor Smith then turned to the topic of his address and made a comparison between progress in industry and in government over the last twenty-five years. The last quarter of a century, he said, had seen the automobile, the airplane, the motion picture, the submarine and the radio developed and electricity brought to far greater utilization. He added:

"But in that period government has not progressed at all by comparison."

He talked of the State reorganization program, going at length into the disadvantages of the old system and the advantages of the system which will be put into operation on Jan. 1. He dwelt on the present duplication of effort in State departments and the expense of vast field forces.

"If you were to look over the expense accounts in the Controller's office," he said, "you would find that all these men seem to be traveling north in the Summer time and south in the Winter."

With reference to the executive budget proposal the Governor spoke at some length, contending that though the Legislature makes appropriations at present, "the rank and file of the Legislature take no interest whatever in the appropriation bill, and many of them are much more interested in the fish and game laws."

Mr. Smith quoted President Coolidge's defense of the national budget, and declared "that is what we are trying to do in the State."

Urges Longer Term for Governor.

Then the Governor turned to another reform he has been working for years to accomplish, and said:

"It is a positive joke to elect a Governor of this State for two years. Unless he has served in the Legislature he does not know much about his duties during the whole of his first term."

It was natural, he went on, that Gov-

WOMAN'S STORY UNSHAKEN

Saw "Glistening Thing" in Broker's Hand, Then Heard the Shots.

MISSING RECORDS RESTORED

Brother of Former Prosecutor Beekman Gives Them Up—Attempted Sale Reported.

ANOTHER WITNESS JAILED

Detective Admits Police Work at Start Was Inadequate—Charlotte Mills on Stand.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," who is the State's principal witness in the revived investigation of the Hall-Mills murder case, took the stand at Somerville, N. J., yesterday and named the persons she swears were at the scene of the slaying of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills four years ago, near New Brunswick, N. J.

Rising from the witness chair, the former circus rider stepped down and walked to where Henry de la B. Carpender sat. Thrusting forward a stubby finger, she touched his arm and said that she had seen him, a "glistening thing" in his hand, standing beneath the crabapple tree. Then, she added, there was a report; then three others.

Mr. Carpender, a broker on the New York Stock Exchange, smiled. The "pig woman" resumed her seat. Easily she ran through her story of how she had witnessed the double murder while taking a ride that night on Jenny, her mule.

Names the Three Arrested.

The woman in gray, she testified under oath, was Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the dead rector. The bushy-haired man, whom she had hitherto mentioned only under that descriptive phrase, was "Willie" Stevens, eccentric brother of Mrs. Hall. She also pointed him out in court.

Mrs. Gibson, unshaken under cross-examination, made her dramatic identification at a preliminary hearing held for Mr. Carpender and Stevens. They were arrested at New Brunswick on Thursday and held without bail on the charge of murder. Mrs. Hall is at liberty in $15,000 bail. She is also charged with the murders. Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, appointed by Governor A. Harry Moore to conduct the new inquiry, placed before County Judge Frank L. Cleary the stories of witnesses which led to the arrests.

In the little stuffy courtroom of the Somerset County Courthouse, jammed to the doors by the curious, Senator Simpson called four witnesses. They were, in addition to Mrs. Gibson, Charlotte Mills, the 20-year-old daughter of the dead woman; Mrs. Louise Geist Riehl, former maid in the Hall household, and former County Detective George Totten. Then the prosecutor, whose voice had frequently rasped in anger, sprang a surprise.

Missing Evidence Found.

Before the hearing was adjourned until Monday, he placed on the stand Marcus Beekman, brother of the late Azariah Beekman, who investigated the case four years ago as Prosecutor of the Pleas for Somerset. In the first words of the examination of Mr. Beekman, the Senator cleared up the mystery of the missing records of the previous investigation of the crime, which he had been trying to find. He made Mr. Beekman admit that he had found the missing statements among his brother's effects two weeks ago. The Senator charged that only yesterday morning Marcus Beekman had sought to sell the evidence to The Daily Mirror.

Carpender and "Willie" Stevens heard every word that the State adduced against them. They leaned forward at crucial points in the stories of the witnesses, and mopped their brows in common with the rest of the auditors in the court room. Stevens kept twisting a handkerchief in his hands. The hands of both men shook under the tension of the scene.

As each witness finished telling his or her story in part—for Mr. Simpson did not disclose all the evidence he has from them—Timothy N. Pfeiffer of 120 Broadway, who piloted Mrs. Hall's legal fight in 1922, which ended when the Somerset Grand Jury refused to indict her, took over the cross-examination. Owing to the informality of the hearing, he was checked in his efforts to alter the stories, but drew from Totten admissions of the inadequacy of the police work at the start of the effort to solve the crime.

Charlotte Mills Testifies.

Following Mrs. Gibson on the stand, Charlotte Mills told a story that almost equaled the "pig woman's" in interest. She told how her mother and the clergyman had a "postoffice" for love missives in a book in the rector's church study. Speaking clearly and with no outward trace of emotion, she told of her mother's aspirations for self-betterment. Then, casting a quick glance at Mr. Carpender, she told how her mother had complained of seeming antagonism displayed to her by Mrs. Hall. The widow, according to Charlotte's recollection of her mother's statement, had given her "a killing look" the day before the crime.

Mrs. Riehl was the calmest of the witnesses and she snapped her replies

Duggan Completes Buenos Aires Flight; Huge Crowds Greet His Arrival Home

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 13 (AP).—Bernardo Duggan, the Argentine sportsman, who began a flight from New York to Buenos Aires on May 24, arrived at his destination at 3:53 o'clock this afternoon.

Arriving from Montevideo, Duggan and his companions completed a trip which carried them about 15,000 kilometers (9,376 miles) in actual flying distance. Their flying time was 114 hours.

Immense crowds gathered on the waterfront to welcome the aviators, who were escorted to the Government House, where they were received by President Alvear. They then went to Duggan's residence, where they were the centre of a great demonstration. A number of functions have been prepared in their honor.

Bernardo Duggan had hoped to make the trip in about three weeks, but poor weather, several accidents and a delay of several weeks in South America held up the flight.

The fliers left Miller Field, Staten Island, on the morning of May 24 and flew down the coast in easy stages, reaching Miami on May 26. They were forced back on their next hop to Havana, but resumed on the 28th, reaching Cuba the same day. At Port-au-Prince, Haiti, they were held up again when their plane was damaged in striking a pier. They reached San Juan, Porto Rico, on June 3 and continued south to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, where they arrived on June 11.

After leaving Paramaribo for Para, Brazil, they disappeared for a week. Extensive search was made for them, but it was not until June 20 that they were reported at Vigia in the State of Para. They had been forced to descend near the island of Maraca, off the Brazilian coast, and were picked up by a fishing boat.

Duggan immediately worked out plans for resumption of the flight, the plane being towed to Maraca for tuning up. On July 2, the flight was resumed, and the aviators made steady progress down the east coast of South America, making daily hops of 300 and 400 miles. They were again held up near Rio Grande do Sul for repairs, but persisted in the face of all obstacles until they reached their objective today.

Lieutenant Walter Hinton, United States Navy, who several years ago attempted the same trip, was six months en route and finished his flight only after his seaplane had been replaced and numerous other difficulties overcome.

Perfect Dummy Fails to Win Convict Freedom; Sing Sing Guard, Once Gulled, Detects Ruse

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The most perfect dummy ever made by a prisoner in the history of Sing Sing Prison failed to get George Peterson, a long-term burglar, his freedom tonight. The reason was that the guard, detailed for the after-supper check-up, was the same guard suspended for fifteen days without pay three years ago for being fooled by a dummy made by another prisoner in an attempt to escape.

This time, James Molitore, the guard, was not deceived and, discovering the prisoner's ruse, gave the alarm and not long after Peterson was captured hiding on the roof of the prison power house. Molitore was rewarded for his vigilance with a week's vacation with pay.

Peterson, sentenced to a ten-year term in Brooklyn early this year, made his plans for the escape carefully. Just how he constructed the dummy and got it into his cell without discovery, was not learned. Hiding in the yard when the prisoners were locked in the cell blocks at 6 o'clock, he planned to get away by scaling the river fence when the guards were removed at 10:30 o'clock.

Before this, however, he had put the dummy in place. It was a remarkable likeness of Peterson. The head was made of lime and asbestos, used in the prison. The face had been skillfully painted and in putting on the hair Peterson had been careful to leave a bald spot, which was a distinguishing mark on himself. The torso and thighs were made of rags, and two sticks of wood tied to shoe trees over which socks and shoes had been placed formed the legs and feet. As a crowning touch Peterson had crossed the left leg over the right.

When the guard makes his rounds he is supposed to get an answer from each prisoner, and Peterson had even prepared for this by being slow in his answers during the past few nights. But tonight another guard made the rounds at 6:30 o'clock. It was Molitore, and when he came to Peterson's cell, despite the "perfect" dummy, he was determined to get an answer. In 1923 James Regan had almost made an escape when Molitore did not insist on an answer from a dummy made by Regan.

Molitore wanted no more suspensions without pay. When no answer came he went into the cell, discovered that the figure on the bed was not the prisoner and gave the alarm. Peterson was caught on the power-house roof about 8 o'clock and as soon as the man had been locked in his cell Warden Lawes informed Molitore that he had earned the week's vacation with pay.

to the special prosecutor's questions. She denied statements attributed to her, which the State had regarded as aiding its case, and on the whole her testimony was favorable to the three defendants. Smartly clad in a Summer frock, with a white felt hat tilted rakishly at an angle, Mrs. Riehl let her eyes roam about the room, only occasionally allowing them to rest on Mr. Simpson as he asked her his questions in an emphatic way.

New Witness in Jail.

The hearing began at 2 P. M. Just before it got under way, it was learned that the new figure in the case, who came forward on Thursday, with the statement that he had been within seventy-five feet of the crabapple tree on the murder night, had been arrested as a material witness. He is Willard Staub, 27 years old, of 232 French Street, New Brunswick. Staub was held in default of $3,000 bail in the Somerville Jail. He is reported to have told the police that he left the Phillips farm before the murders.

The attorneys for the defendants, besides Mr. Pfeiffer, included Robert H. McCarter, former Attorney General of New Jersey, and T. H. Nelson, an attorney of Manhattan. Senator Simpson was accompanied by Inspector John Underwood, Chief Investigator Patrick Hayes, Major Mark O. Kimberling and Captain John J. Lamb.

Mr. McCarter said at the close of the hearing that no immediate action would be taken to release Carpender and Stevens on bail. Both were taken back to jail after the hearing.

At the opening of the hearing Senator Simpson told the Court:

"Your Honor, I move preliminary examination in the case of Henry Carpender and William Stevens, for whom you have issued warrants."

Judge Cleary said he had dispatched a deputy sheriff for the prisoners. After a wait of five minutes the defendants entered.

"Willie" Stevens Arrives First.

Stevens came in first. He appeared stouter than he was four years ago. His bushy black hair, peppered with white, was carefully brushed back. He peered oddly through the thick lenses of his glasses. The eccentric brother of Mrs. Hall wore a blue serge suit, a bat-wing collar and a black tie. He took a seat beside his attorneys.

Carpender was dressed in a steel-gray suit. He, too, wears glasses. He is about 50, rather florid of face and well built. As he slipped into a chair he flicked a pocket handkerchief out and passed it over his forehead. The action struck a glitter from a large gold ring, bearing an engraved bloodstone that he wore on the little finger of his left hand. He shook hands with Pfeiffer, McCarter and Nelson. Stevens paid no attention to the lawyers, but folded his arms over his chest and became absorbed in the ceiling.

TOTTEN THE FIRST WITNESS.

Mr. Totten was the first witness called. He is a tall, bulky man, with gold-rimmed spectacles through which his gray eyes seem enlarged. He was cool and collected under the first questions of Senator Simpson, who put them in a suave voice, which had almost a coax in it. When, however, Mr. Pfeiffer took over cross-examination, Totten began to shift in his chair and to pause and deliberate in his answers.

The lean figure of the defense examiner fairly quivered in the intensity of his questioning. Never once did he raise his voice above a conversational level. Now and then he permitted himself a smile, just the shadow of one.

The Assistant Attorney General asked Totten what his occupation had been in 1922. The witness said he had been employed as County Detective at that time. In response to questions he said he had received a telephone call on the night of Sept. 16, 1922, informing him that two bodies had been found under the crabapple tree on the Phillips farm. In question and answer form, his direct examination proceeded as follows:

Q.—What time did you discover them? A.—Saturday morning, Sept. 16, about 11:30. The bodies were lying on the ground, a man and a woman. The man's right hand extended to the left shoulder of the woman.

Q.—Were his glasses near the scene? A.—Yes.

Q.—What position were the glasses in? A.—On his nose, with a hat covering his face. The man also had a scarf partly around his neck.

Q.—How about the woman? A.—Her clothing was properly arranged. Her hat was on the side of her head.

Q.—What about the letters that were found between the bodies? A.—They were taken by the sheriff.

Q.—Was there any card at the man's feet? A.—I don't remember seeing one.

Q.—Were you there when the bodies were removed. A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Did you notice a cut on the woman's throat? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you call any one's attention to it? A.—Yes; Dr. Long, the county physician.

Q.—What did you say to him? A.—I merely called his attention to the wound, and he replied, "Don't talk too loud about that."

Q.—Where were the bodies? A.—East of De Russey's Lane.

Q.—Was it near the crabapple tree? A.—Yes.

Q.—Later, did you go to the residence of Stevens, this defendant? A.—Yes, with Mr. Beekman, the prosecutor.

Q.—Whom did you see there? A.—Mrs. Hall, Willie Stevens and Henry Stevens.

Talked with Mrs. Hall.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with Mrs. Hall with reference to Sept. 14? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she state what time it was during the evening that Dr. Hall went out? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she say at what time she went to bed? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she say anything about being out of the house before you asked her about it? A.—No.

Q.—How did this come up? A.—After Prosecutor Beekman finished talking to her I said, "Pardon me, Mrs. Hall, but I have information that somebody, either another person or yourself, entered the rear of the house at 2:30 o'clock Friday morning after Dr. Hall disappeared." She hesitated for a moment or two and then said: "Well, that's right.

Q.—Then she had said nothing before that time? A.—No.

Q.—You were the chief detective of the county at that time, were you not? A.—Yes, at that time.

Q.—Was any search of the Hall or Carpender house made at that time? A.—No. Not at that time.

Q.—When was it made? A.—I don't recall. I think it was a week or ten days later.

Q.—Prosecutor Stricker of Middlesex County had the matter under investigation at that time, did he not? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long did he remain in charge? A.—Until Mr. Mott took the case over. [This referred to Wilbur A. Mott, who was appointed special prosecutor.]

Q.—At that time did Prosecutor Stricker and Detective David submit to you the statements and exhibits in the case? A.—I don't recall just what was done at that time, but all the exhibits were presented to the Grand Jury.

Q.—Didn't you say in my office, under oath, that Prosecutor Beekman got them? A.—Yes—they were turned over to him.

Q.—How long is it since you have seen the exhibits? A.—I haven't seen them for over a year.

Q.—Was any signed statement taken from Mrs. Hall? A.—I don't think there was.

Cross-Questioning by Pfeiffer.

Senator Simpson, after a consultation with Inspector Underwood, said that he had no other questions to ask on direct examination at this time. Mr. Pfeiffer then got up, but before he could start, the special prosecutor interrupted.

"Is Mr. Pfeiffer a member of our bar?" he asked, directing his inquiry to Mr. McCarter.

"Yes," said Mr. Pfeiffer, answering the question himself, "and I have been introduced here."

The lawyer then took up his interrogation of the ex-detective. He began by inquiring whether other persons had not preceded Totten to the scene of the slaying. Totten said there had been "a number of people there when I got there," and named two New Brunswick policemen, Curran and Garrigan, as among those he had recognized.

Mr. Pfeiffer asked if the bodies of the rector and the choir leader were "in the same position as when found by Pearl Bahmer and Raymond Schneider." The witness smiled at the question and Senator Simpson leaped up with an objection. The prosecutor made the point that Totten could not testify to conditions obtaining before his advent. Judge Cleary sustained the objection. The cross-examination then proceeded as follows:

Not Told Bodies Were Moved.

Q.—Were you told by anyone that the bodies had been moved? A.—No.

Q.—It was your duty, was it not, to make an exhaustive investigation into this murder? A.—Yes.

Q.—Whose duty was it to take the articles found lying on the ground near the bodies into his possession? A.—Usually, the county detective or the county physician.

Q.—Did you take these articles? A.—They were given to Mr. Conkling, the Sheriff.

Q.—Did you warn him to be careful of the exhibits so that fingerprints or other evidence could be secured? A.—I told him to be very careful of them.

Q.—Did you say anything to him about fingerprints? A.—I did not make special mention of fingerprints, but I told him to be very careful.

Q.—When you returned to Somerville from the scene of the crime were you in the car with Mr. Conkling? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were these three or four reporters in the car with you? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Is it not a fact that the exhibits and other articles were handed back and forth between four or five persons? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Didn't you see them at all on the drive? A.—I don't recall that I did.

Q.—Do you know where Sheriff Conkling kept them? A.—I am not sure whether the Sheriff had them or whether he gave them to Dr. Long.

Q.—Did you give any orders that the bodies and exhibits should not be touched? A.—No.

Q.—Hasn't it appeared desirable to you, from your experience, to do so? A.—Yes, in some cases, and it might have been in this case. But we were right there at the county line and the bodies were in very bad shape. The body of the lady was particularly bad.

Q.—Who was in charge of the investigation there? A.—We were all there assisting.

Q.—You were all in charge and nobody was in charge? A.—I was in charge, with the county physician.

Q.—You said that you had some conversation with Dr. Long at that time regarding talking about the case. What was that? A.—As near as I can recall, he told me "Don't talk too loud; this case is very important."

Crowd Had Gathered.

Q.—Was there a large crowd there? A.—There were quite a few people there.

Q.—Was any effort made to keep the people away? A.—It was not necessary.

Q.—Did you observe how many bullet wounds were in the head of Mrs. Mills? A.—No.

Q.—Did you observe how many bullet wounds were in the body of Dr. Hall? A.—Not then.

Q.—Did you observe a calling card propped against the foot of Dr. Hall? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Have you tried to recall that point? A.—I have tried to refresh my memory from talking with other people, but I can't recall.

Q.—Did you discover any shells? A.—Yes, there were two shells found on the ground; Sheriff Conkling picked one up and a young man picked up another.

Q.—Was he a reporter? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Was it picked up at that time or several days later? A.—At that time.

Q.—Was the shell picked up by the young man the same as that picked up by Sheriff Conkling? A.—Yes, they were both .32 calibre.

Q.—What was done with the shell? A.—I believe it was handed to me, and I turned it in with the rest of the exhibits.

Q.—Were the shells side by side or separated? A.—They were separated—several feet apart.

Killed There, He Believes.

The witness was asked if he had formed the conclusion then that the murders had been committed where the bodies were found. He replied that it was "hard to tell," adding, however, that after an analysis of the soil had been made, he had definitely embraced the theory that the crime was staged beneath the crabapple tree. Mr. Totten said he had not been able to make a report on the time to Prosecutor Beekman for a day, owing to the official's absence from Somerville.

The lawyer then turned to the number of automatic pistol shells found at the scene. The witness was unable to say whether more than two shells had been found. Mr. Pfeiffer made quite a point of his poor recollection, taunting the former detective with his ability to recall some things and his inability to remember others.

Totten said he had been a county detective for twenty-eight years and, in response to further questions, he said he had made a "thorough search" of the scene of the crime. He then said that on the day of the discovery of the bodies he had gone to the home of James Mills, husband of the choir-leader, and had talked there to Mills and to Charlotte. He admitted he had made no search of the Mills home and also that he had not taken down their statements in writing.

The witness also failed to reduce to writing a talk he and Prosecutor Beekman had with Mrs. Hall and with Stevens in the Hall home the same day. Nor, he added, was any search made in the Hall home.

"I did," he said, somewhat plaintively, "all that I thought was required in the case."

Had Been Ousted by Bergen.

"Humph," said Mr. Pfeiffer, as he consulted his notes before continuing the cross-examination. The witness, answering more questions, disclosed that he had been asked to resign last April by Prosecutor Francis L. Bergen, when the youthful attorney took office.

"Where did you obtain employment then?" asked Mr. Pfeiffer.

"With The New York Mirror," said the witness.

"How did you come to get it?"

"My services were solicited by Phillip Payne."

"In person?"

"Yes."

"Through the introduction of Herbert Mayer, a reporter?"

"Yes."

"Do you know Mayer's record?"

"No."

"What was your salary?"

This brought Mr. Simpson to his feet with an objection. After a brief argument with Mr. Pfeiffer, the special prosecutor turned abruptly to Judge Cleary, who sustained the objection.

Totten then said he had left the employ of the tabloid newspaper and, when pressed on the missing evidence, told the defense attorney that he "believed that the State had all of the original statements." Senator Simpson, somewhat flushed at the contradiction of his charge of missing evidence, took Totten in hand for redirect examination.

"You said," began the Senator, "that the investigation in 1922 was conducted the same as any other. Name me one that had the victim buried without an autopsy—just one!"

"There were several," said the witness.

"If there were several, name one," demanded the questioner, with considerable heat.

The witness hesitated and then hitched about in his chair. He pondered for a while and then said:

"I can't."

"Is your memory poor?"

Uncertain About Affidavit.

The Senator then asked Totten if he had not made an affidavit saying that statements were missing. The witness was uncertain as to just what he had incorporated in the affidavit.

"In that affidavit," the Senator pursued, "you also said that you saw somebody wiping the glasses of Dr. Hall. The glasses had blood spots on them and you said that somebody was rubbing the glasses, the lenses, and saying 'these are not finger marks; these are blood spots.' Isn't that so?"

"No, I didn't say that," replied Totten. "You said 'rubbing.'"

Then ensued a wordy tussle between the prosecutor and the witness as to just what was said or left unsaid in the affidavit. Finally Mr. Simpson gave up, but told Totten that he would be recalled. He was then excused.

Mrs. Gibson was then called. She had entered the court room about fifteen minutes before and had gone to the witness's room. She was wearing a sky-blue dress, edged with white. A black satin hat was pulled down closely over her black, bobbed hair. She is short and broad. She walked with a peculiar, shuffling gait to the stand and was sworn. As she took her seat she glanced about the court but did not look straight ahead. Had she done so she would have encountered the absorbed stares of Carpender and Stevens. The latter had been lolling in his place during the examination of Totten, but he straightened himself and betrayed interest as the "pig woman" began her story.

Mrs. Gibson's Story.

Direct examination by Mr. Simpson:

Q.—Where do you live? A.—Hamilton Road, New Brunswick.

Q.—Where is that, Hamilton Road? A.—About three miles from New Brunswick. It is known as Gibson Farm.

Q.—How near is it to the Phillips farm? A.—Two miles and a half.

Q.—Do you remember shortly before the discovery of these bodies in this lane, the 14th of September, do you remember Thursday night? A.—Yes, sir, I do remember.

Q.—And how do you remember that Thursday night? Is there anything that fixes it in your memory? A.—Well, my mother moved from Bayonne to New Brunswick on that same night.

Q.—You were running a little farm there, were you? A.—Sixty-one acres.

Q.—Sixty-one acres? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And what did you raise on the farm? A.—Oats, corn, hay, wheat, hogs and chickens.

Q.—And before Thursday, the 14th of September, had you had any trouble with thieves before? A.—Several times.

Q.—Well, what trouble had you had with thieves? A.—Well, on Sunday night I had been robbed of some corn. They tore the corn right from the stalks, about twenty rows of it, and I had decided then that I would watch to see if I could find who was doing that. So I tied my dog to a tree about half way between Hamilton Road and my house. On Thursday night, the 14th, the dogs barked and I went out.

Q.—Have you any way of fixing the time that you went out? A.—No, I don't just remember what time it was.

Q.—Well, you went out then, this night, having heard the dogs bark? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—Well, I stood there a few minutes and listened. I walked up to where the dog was and then I listened and I did not hear anything, then he stopped barking and then I came back and sat in the swing. The bus went by.

Heard a Noisy Wagon.

Q.—The bus was going where? A.—To New Brunswick.

Q.—From where? A.—From Millstone. Then I heard a wagon going along the road from the direction of Millstone and it was a very noisy wagon, rickety, and the wheels rattled and I just could not help but hear it, and it stopped. It went on until it stopped right in my cornfield, about the middle of it. Then I had decided that that might be the man or whoever it was that robbed me before and I ran to the barn and saddled my mule and got on her and rode out to Hamilton Avenue.

Q.—Was this mule shod or unshod? A.—No, sir, it was not shod.

Q.—Then you rode on this unshod mule in which direction? A.—Toward New Brunswick.

Q.—Go on in your own way, and describe what you saw. A.—When I got near the wagon, was maybe thirty or forty or fifty feet, the wagon started up and I kept on behind, following it, and then the wagon turned into De Russey's Lane.

Q.—How far did you follow it before it turned into De Russey's Lane, about how far would you have to go? A.—Oh, about half a mile.

Q.—You were still following it? A.—Yes.

Q.—And when you got to De Russey's Lane you had passed about half a mile from where you started? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Go ahead; describe what happened. A.—It turned and went into De Russey's Lane and when he got into the lane my mule brayed, and then I was a little worried because I did not know who might be in that wagon and I stayed well behind; then we kept on going until we got near Easton Avenue, it might have been fifty feet.

Q.—Easton Avenue? A.—Yes.

Q.—That is, you proceeded on De Russey's Lane? A.—Yes.

Q.—Had you still the wagon in your hearing or had it gotten away by that time? A.—I still heard the rattle of the wheels.

Q.—Ahead of you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you were going toward Easton Avenue? A.—Yes, sir.

Auto Appeared, She Says.

Q.—Go on and describe what happened. A.—Then, after the wagon turned out, an automobile came into the lane.

Q.—Wait a minute. You say the wagon turned out. Where did he turn into? A.—Well, I could not just tell which way.

Q.—Well, from where you were following him? A.—It seemed like it was going to New Brunswick—in that direction.

Q.—Turned on Easton Avenue? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That would have brought it to New Brunswick? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You heard the sound of it turning out on Boston Avenue? A.—I did not hear much of it after it turned the corner; that is all I heard and the noise of the automobile.

Q.—Which direction was the automobile coming from? A.—That came from New Brunswick, by the lights.

Q.—Well, what did you see in the road, if anything, when the automobile stopped? A.—Well, the automobile came in and I thought it was coming on through, so I went to the side of the road and waited there. I thought it was coming right through the lane, and then while I stood there and the lights came in they started to back out, and there was a man and woman stood to the right.

Q.—Of the automobile? A.—To the right of where I was, but a little further down.

Q.—Well, how far from the automobile—this is after they had gotten out of the automobile? A.—No, sir. It might have been thirty or forty feet.

Q.—A man and a woman stood there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you pay any particular attention to them or did you just generally look at them? A.—Well, I looked at them because the light of the automobile kind of seemed so powerful and they were facing the road, the same as I was. They were waiting for the car to come through the Lane, just as I thought it was going to, and they stood side by side.

Q.—Go on, then what did you do? A.—Then, when the car backed out, it went away. I went on to Easton Avenue and then stood still a few minutes.

Q.—What were you doing at Easton Avenue? Waiting for this man, or what? A.—I just stood there listening. I thought maybe I could hear the rattle of the wagon; I didn't know.

Q.—Were you on the mule then? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—Then I looked around and I saw a sedan, a small car like a Ford sedan, standing over across the road.

Q.—Where was that standing? A.—That was standing on the corner of Easton Avenue facing Bound Brook.

Q.—And could you tell what color it was? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You could not tell whether it was a Ford, a Dodge, or what? A.—Well, it was a small sedan, a small car.

Q.—Then, having seen that, what did you next do? A.—Well, I turned around to come back.

Q.—Where? A.—Into the lane again.

Tied Mule to a Tree.

Q.—In Russey's Lane? A.—Yes. I intended to go home, but then as I came up through the lane I kind of got it in my head that this man was some one that lived in the colony in back; there was an Italian settlement back in through there and I thought because he had come on through past my place he came through all this De Russey's Lane, back in there again, and I thought perhaps he would come back in the lane again and I decided then that I would wait and watch, but on account of Jennie braying before, I thought I had better tie her back here so that if she would make any noise nobody could hear her, so I went back quite a ways and tied her to some small cedars.

Q.—In what direction did you go back with the mule? A.—Back of the Phillips farm, parallel with Phillips Lane.

Q.—That is, you went on the Phillips farm, parallel with Phillips Lane? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And tied the mule? A.—Yes, a way back.

Q.—What did you tie the mule to? A.—To some little cedars there.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—Then I walked back on foot.

Q.—After tying the mule you walked back; where were you going? A.—I was going to go to De Russey's Lane and stand and watch until whoever it was would come back, but I didn't get to De Russey's Lane.

Q.—How far did you get before your attention was attracted? A.—I might have gone thirty feet, or something like that, from where I tied the mule, or forty feet.

Q.—Can you indicate to us any object that was near there, any trees or stump? A.—Yes, there was a bunch of trees, then I got near a big cedar tree.

Q.—A cedar tree or a cedar stump?

Says She Heard Quarrel.

Q.—Then when you got near the cedar tree, what happened, what was it that first attracted your attention? A.—Then I heard a quarrel and voices.

Q.—Can you tell whether they were men's voices or women's voices? A.—Well, they was mumbling, I could not just tell, it was like a quarrel, mumbling, there were women there.

Q.—Were their voices low, quiet, pleasant or what? A.—At first they were loud.

Q.—At first they were loud? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you hear any particular expression like chair, horse, or letter, anything like that, did you hear anything that was said? A.—Well, somebody said, very much excited, something about letters.

Q.—Well, what could you hear said about letters? Was it, "explain these letters" or—? A.—Something like that.

Q.—Was it a man's voice or a woman's voice? A.—It was a woman's voice the first time.

Q.—How near the group were you at the time of her saying, "Explain these letters"? How near were you to the voice? A.—That I don't know; I might have been ten or fifteen feet.

Q.—Up to this time you could not see anybody? A.—No, sir, I could not see anybody; it was dark.

Q.—Then, did you keep going on? A.—No, sir, I stood still.

Q.—Then what did you see after you stood still? A.—Well, there was more mumbling and the voices seemed to get nearer, much clearer, and I saw a flashlight.

Q.—When you say you saw a flashlight, do you mean an electric light? A.—No, I saw a light; some one had a flash.

Q.—Like a pocket lamp? A.—Yes.

Q.—Like a pocket flashlight. A.—Yes.

Q.—You saw it flashing around. A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What was the next thing you saw? A.—Then I saw something glitter and I saw a man's face.

Q.—Whose face did you see? Can you pick him out in the court room? A.—This here man.

Points Out Carpender.

Q.—Pointing to Henry Carpender? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—As he flashed the light around something glittered in his hand? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—After you saw him with something glittering in his hand, did you hear any report? A.—Yes, right quick.

Q.—What was it you heard? A.—A shot.

Q.—Up to that time had you seen any woman at all, up to the time you saw her face? A.—Only later, not first.

Q.—After this, did you see any woman there, after you heard the report, the shot? A.—No, sir; I didn't, not then.

Q.—Did you see how many women were there? A.—No, sir; I could not see, it was dark.

Q.—Was there any other man there at the time? A.—I could not say, I just ran for the mule and—

Q.—Before you ran for the mule, when you saw the flashlight and heard the voices, did you see a colored man there or anybody that looked like a colored man. A.—No, sir.

Q.—Not at that time? A.—No, sir.

Q.—After you saw this man and heard the shots, what did you do? A.—I ran.

Q.—What did you hear after that? A.—Three shots afterwards; while I was mounting the mule I heard another three shots.

Q.—In your excitement did you lose a moccasin? A.—I stumbled over the stump; yes, sir.

Q.—What happened to you; did you lose your shoe? A.—I didn't know I lost it until I got home.

Q.—Well, did you get on the mule? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What did you do then, where did you go? A.—I ran right home.

Q.—On the mule? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Then, what did you find to be the condition when you got home? A.—When I stepped off the mule I got my foot wet and I found I had lost my moccasin.

Q.—Well, what did you do then? A.—I went in the house and stayed there a little while, then decided I would go back. I had the wagon in mind, and the corn.

Q.—And what did you do? A.—I went over to where I had the mule tied, thinking I might have lost it there, because I stumbled over that stump.

Q.—And what did you do, did you find your moccasin there? A.—No, sir, I didn't. While I was there I heard somebody crying.

Q.—Crying? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—I am not clear as to where you went when you were looking for your moccasin. Where did you go, to where you had tied the mule first? A.—To where I had tied the mule.

Q.—That is where you tied the mule so that he would not bray? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You went back there looking for your moccasin? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you find it? A.—No, sir, I did not.

Q.—Well, what did you hear? A.—Well, I heard somebody crying; I didn't know what it was.

Q.—Well, what did you do? A.—I just tied the mule there and I walked back to look around to see what I could see.

Q.—Where would that bring you; would that bring you to the place where you first stood? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Then what did you do when you first got there? A.—I looked through the bushes there and I saw a lady kneeling down or stooping down, I could not tell you.

Q.—Well, was she kneeling, crying? A.—She was crying.

Q.—And how long did you watch her? A.—Not very long.

Q.—Was the moon up? Yes, the moon was very bright.

Names Mrs. Hall.

Q.—Do you know who she is, have you identified her since? A.—I have seen her since that time.

Q.—Who is she? A.—Mrs. Hall.

Q.—How was she acting when she was kneeling down and crying? A.—Crying.

Q.—She was crying? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—At that time you could not see that these two things in front of her were bodies? A.—No, sir, I could not. I didn't know anything was there.

Q.—What did you see in front of her like shadows of trees? A.—Well, I thought they were shadows of trees.

Q.—You did not know that they were bodies? A.—No, sir, I didn't.

Q.—When you saw this lady crying could you tell how she was dressed? A.—Yes. She had a coat on like mine, a tan coat.

Q.—How long? A.—I could not tell. I didn't see.

Q.—Did you see what kind of a hat she had on? A.—No hat.

Q.—White hair? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And a tan coat? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you say, "Like mine." But we do not know what yours was like. A.—Well, mine is a little below my knees.

Q.—And you say you did not look at her very long? A.—No, sir.

Q.—When you looked at her was there any light here? A.—The moon was up, very bright.

Q.—The moon was up, very bright? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Now, after this night, were you taken anywhere to see if you could pick out the man you said you saw there that night when the electric flashlight was on his face? A.—Yes. One day in the station—the Pennsylvania Station.

Q.—Just describe what you did in the Pennsylvania Station. A.—I just looked around.

Q.—You stood at the window, didn't you? A.—Yes, I saw a man talking—I saw a crowd of men standing talking together and I just walked over and I looked around and I saw the man.

Q.—You saw this man? A.—Yes, sir, the man.

Q.—And who was with you, was Mr. David with you? A.—Yes, sir, Mr. David.

Q.—And you pointed him out to Mr. David, did you? A.—Yes, sir.

Identifies the Moccasin.

Q.—Is this your moccassin? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You did not find it yourself, did you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—But it was found? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Well, is that your moccasin? A.—Yes, that is my moccasin.

Mr. Simpson—I want that marked as an exhibit. (Marked Exhibit S-1.)

Q.—Now, let me take you back again to the first time you heard the mumbling of voices; how many voices did you hear? A.—There was a number of them.

Q.—So that this is the only man's face you saw there, but did you see any other objects that were there like men walking around? A.—I could not see; there was something moving, but I could not tell. I could not see; it was dark.

Q.—Well, was there anything there moving, like a colored man? Did you have the words "colored man" in your mind? A.—No, I thought the man in the lane was a colored man.

Q.—Who was the man you saw standing by the automobile in the lane? A.—The man and the lady in the lane the first time.

Q.—When you say the man and lady you mean the two that were revealed by the automobile lights? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You say the man with her looked like a colored man? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was he a heavy, thickset man? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you notice whether he had a mustache or not? A.—I think he did.

Q.—The woman you saw in the lane, did she resemble the second woman, the woman you saw kneeling and crying? A.—It was the same woman.

Q.—The same woman? A.—Yes, and the reason I didn't bother her, that I didn't want to bother her, was because I really thought it was a white woman with a colored man and something had happened to her that oughtn't to have happened, and I went about my business. I didn't feel sorry for her; I said it served her right to be there with that man.

Q.—The first couple you saw was this woman you now identify as Mrs. Hall? A.—Yes.

Mr. Simpson—That is all.

Mrs. Gibson Cross-Examined.

Cross-examination by Mr. Pfeiffer:

Q.—Mrs. Gibson, what is it you said makes you recall so clearly this night? Something about your mother? A.—Yes sir, my mother moved from Bayonne.

Q.—What is your mother's name? A.—Mrs. Cerranor.

Q.—Where did she live, in Bayonne? A.—I don't know where she lives now.

Q.—Where did she live at that time? A.—She lived on Avenue D.

Q.—Was she at your house at that time? A.—No, sir.

Q.—It was because she moved around that time that you recall this incident? A.—Not only that, but I recall that on Sunday I had the date, for I had it marked, where I had been robbed, that Sunday.

Q.—Well, what did that have to do with recalling this incident to your mind? Just explain to us how it happened to refresh your recollection. A.—Well, because she had moved on that day.

Q.—What date? A.—On the same night the murder was committed.

Q.—What night was that? A.—The 14th of September, 1922.

Q.—What time? A.—What do you mean?

Q.—What time? A.—What time? What time did my mother move?

Q.—No; what time were the murders committed on Sept. 14, 1922? A.—Well, somewheres around 10 o'clock, a little after 10 or maybe a few minutes before; I am not positive as to that.

Q.—Mr. Simpson did not ask you anything about the time of the night, did he?

Mr. Simpson—I object to that.

The Court—Sustain the objection.

Q.—You say about 10 o'clock. What do you mean, that you heard the shots fired or that you left the house, or what? A.—I left the house.

Q.—About 10 o'clock? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Before 9? A. Yes, sir.

Q.—How far is it from your house to the place where you heard the shots? A.—Two and one-half miles.

Q.—And did it take you an hour to go the two and one-half miles on your mule? A.—Yes, sir, it did, to follow the wagon. I could not move any faster than a walk and I had to keep back; then, besides that, I came back to the lane and walked back where the brush was.

Q.—When did the moon conveniently come out? A.—About the time I left, the second time.

Q.—The second time? A.—Yes.

Q.—So that when you saw figures—the first time you saw two figures in the road there was no moon? A.—No, sir.

Q.—And you identified them by their standing in the glare of the headlight? A.—Yes sir, I did.

Q.—Did they seem to move when the headlights—? A.—No sir, they waited for the car to go on through, the same as I did; they stood there.

Q.—And this man who was there, whom you say was a colored man; and this woman you say was a white woman whom you saw, or something, when the full glare of the automobile came upon them; they did not move, they stood right there? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How is it that you happened to go back the second time after you had gone home; how was it that you happened to go back to the scene of the murder? A.—I didn't know there were murders committed.

Q.—You heard shots? A.—That does not necessarily say that there is a murder. I have often shot a gun at my place to scare people away when there were noises and I didn't shoot anybody else and I have been living there almost fourteen years and I haven't had anybody say that I shot anybody.

Questioned About the Quarrel.

Q.—I am not accusing you of shooting anybody. A.—I don't think you are.

Q.—You said you heard angry voices? A.—Yes, I heard a quarrel.

Q.—You heard the angry voices before the shots? A.—Yes, sir, I did.

Q.—And you heard a quarrel? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You heard some mumbling? A.—I heard mumbling; I knew there was a quarrel by the excitement.

Q.—You heard somebody say something about letters? "Explain those letters." A.—Something about letters, I could not say what it was.

Q.—And very shortly after that you heard one shot and then three shots? A.—One shot, and then while I was mounting the mule I heard three more.

Q.—And it did not occur to you that there might be a murder committed? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Never thought of it? A.—Never thought a murder had been committed until this—

The Court—You have answered the question, why not just say yes or no?

Q.—When you left your house the second time it was not because you had heard shots after the quarrel and you thought there might have been a murder; it was merely to get your moccasin, which is now marked Exhibit S-1? A.—Exactly, to get my moccasin, and I might catch the thief yet; I was determined, because I had been robbed so much.

Q.—Mrs. Gibson, where was it that you identified Mrs. Hall? A.—In the prosecutor's office.

Q.—In his room? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Where? A.—It was in the office.

Q.—Who else was in the room at the time? A.—Several people.

Q.—Were you in the room before Mrs. Hall came in the room? A.—No, sir, I was not.

Q.—Mrs. Hall was in the room when you came in? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did she have on a coat? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—She had been asked to put on a coat by the prosecutor, hadn't she? A.—I believe so.

Q.—That was the same coat you say you saw her in that night? A.—No, sir, It was not.

Q.—Another coat? A.—Yes, sir, another coat.

Q.—Anything like the one you saw her in that night? A.—No, it was a real light gray, and this coat was a tan coat.

Q.—And what did you say when Mrs. Hall came in the room? A.—I didn't say anything.

Q.—Did you go out of the room then? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Or did Mrs. Hall go out of the room? A.—No, I went out.

Q.—You mean you did not point to her or anything while you were in the room? A.—No, sir.

Q.—How many women were in the room? A.—Only the one.

Q.—Only Mrs. Hall was in the room? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And your point was to identify the woman, wasn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—And the identification was made with one woman in the room—that is clear in your mind, is it—or with one woman other than yourself? A.—I didn't go in to identify the woman at the time. I went in to make a complaint that I had lost corn. Somebody stole my corn and I was making a complaint to see if I could get it.

Q.—When do you say you went to the prosecutor's office the first time? A.—I don't remember the date.

Q.—About how long after these incidents occurred that you speak of on the night of September the 14th? A.—Some little time.

Q.—It was several weeks, wasn't it, Mrs. Gibson? A.—I am not sure of the time. I never—I don't just remember that.

Not Sure of a Date.

Q.—Your memory is extraordinarily good on conversations that occurred at midnight, 10 o'clock at night and in the moonlight? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Don't you know approximately how long it was after Sept. 14 before you went to the Prosecutor's? A.—I could not say; I am not sure; I would not say when it was.

Q.—Do you know whether it was one week, two weeks or one month? A.—I guess it might have been two weeks or three weeks, something like that, I don't know.

Q.—When did you learn that two dead bodies had been found at the place where you heard the disturbance that night? A.—In the Sunday paper.

Q.—You mean Sunday, Sept. 17? A.—Yes, I guess that would be it.

Q.—Did you put two and two together and connect the finding of the dead bodies with the quarrel and the shots you had heard? A.—Well, I didn't quite think of that; I didn't think anything at that time.

Did Not Know Neighborhood.

Q.—It never occurred to you, is that right? A.—Well, I didn't think of anything. The truth of the matter was this: I didn't know where I was when I did go up there; I was not acquainted with the neighborhood; I have never been down there before in my life, and I didn't know where I was at the time—I knew where I was, but I didn't know who owned the property, who lived on it or anything else.

Q.—You have done a good deal of night riding in the course of your life time, haven't you? A.—Well, no, I have not done a good deal of it.

Q.—Haven't you been out quite frequently on your mule Jennie? A.—Yes, when my hogs have gotten away I have hunted them up on the mule, but not at night.

Q.—You say this was the first time you had ever made a night expedition in your life on a mule? A.—Yes, this is the first time; I am a very poor hand to go out nights, anyway.

Q.—Why, are you afraid?

Mr. Simpson—I object. I submit that this is not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Sustain the objection.

Q. Now you say that when you first saw persons there, you saw two persons in the road, one of whom was Mrs. Hall, is that correct? A. Yes sir.

Q. Who was the other person? A. I do not know, it was a tall, heavy set man, I thought it was a colored man.

Q. In the course of the many persons you have been asked to identify since this occurrence, have you been able to identify this particular person? A. This man,—that is the man there. I don't know who that is, but that is the man who was in the lane.

Mr. Simpson—The man with the glasses?

Mr. Simpson—Are you speaking now of Mr. Willie Stevens or Mr. Henry Carpender?

The Witness—Willie Stevens.

Mr. Simpson—Willie Stevens is the man she says was in the lane that looked like a colored man.

Q.—You did not tell Mr. Simpson that, did you?

Mr. Simpson—She never saw him, as I understand it, since that night.

Mr. Pfeiffer—May I ask that the witness answer the question instead of the Prosecutor.

Mr. Simpson—I object to that.

The Court—That is right, Mr. Pfeiffer; it was not asked at all.

Q.—Is this the first time you ever saw Mr. Willie Stevens? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You heard the shots some time later, after you had seen these two figures? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Then you heard three pistol shots? A.—Yes, when I was going for the mule I heard three more.

Q.—Did you hear anything said just before, between or after you heard the pistol shots? A.—When the first shot was fired, yes, I heard two women; one screamed and the other said, "Oh, Henry!"

Q.—What? A.—I don't know what.

Q.—"Oh, Henry." Is that all? A.—That is all; that was it.

more, and I think she ought to have the man picked out in all fairness. "Did you tell Beekman? Did you tell Stryker? Did you tell Mott?"

The Court—Of course, technically speaking, that would be so.

Mr. Simpson—She may not know what a prosecutor is.

Q.—Do you know what a prosecutor is? A.—Do I know what a prosecutor is?

Q.—Yes. A.—Well, I do and I don't; I don't know how to answer it.

Q.—Did you make any statement to Mr. Stryker, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Mott, Mr. Toulin, Mr. McCran, Detective Totten, or Nevatto, or Mason, or David, or to any one about four years ago when this case was under investigation, that you remember, that you were present at the scene where two bodies were subsequently found, and saw Mrs. Hall there bending over, crying, at about 1:30 in the morning?

Mr. Simpson—I am going to object to that, but I think it ought to be made clear that he is bound by her answer. He is making her his own witness. I don't object to the question.

Question repeated.

A.—I might have, I am not sure.

Q.—Well, you decline to make such a statement now, don't you, because you do not remember whether it was 1:30?

A.—I don't remember the time.

Q.—Mrs. Gibson, you have been arrested a good many times for assault, haven't you?

Mr. Simpson—I object.

A.—No, sir. Never have been arrested in my life.

Mr. Simpson—She may show a previous conviction of crime but not any arrest.

Q.—Have you ever been convicted of a crime? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Mrs. Gibson, did you live in the City of Trenton? A.—Yes, sir, I did.

Mr. Simpson—I object; that certainly may attack her credibility. That is where the Legislature meets, but I do not think it is at all binding upon her in this inquiry, because this is not a trial. If she has something to follow it up with, I do not object to that, but the mere fact of the residence in Trenton, why, the Chancellor visits there and the Attorney General and a lot of people. Of course, I don't know what Mr. Pfeiffer is going to follow it up with.

The Court—I will permit the question.

Q.—Did you live in Trenton? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—How long ago? A.—About fourteen years ago.

Q.—And under what name did you live there?

Mr. Simpson—I object— A.—Under the name of Mrs. William Easton.

Mr. Simpson (continuing) —the question assumes that she lived under a name other than Gibson.

Mr. Pfeiffer—She has just said she did.

Mr. Simpson—I object and ask that the answer be stricken out, because many professional people live under names other than their own; there is nothing in that to attack credibility.

Q.—Mrs. Gibson, what was your name before you were married? A.—My name?

Q.—Your maiden name? A.—It was Leitner.

Does Not Know Birthplace.

Q.—And will you tell us where you were born? A.—Where was I born?

Q.—Yes. A.—I could not tell, I don't know where I was born.

Q.—In the United States? A.—Somewhere in the United States, Kentucky I believe, if I am right. I was told so, anyway.

Mr. Simpson—That is all any of us have been told.

Q.—Were you ever engaged in any occupation?

Mr. Simpson—I object to the question—entirely beside the mark; she is a farmer.

The Court—What is the relevancy? What difference does it make?

Mr. Pfeiffer—I want to find the history of this witness.

The Court—What difference does it make, her profession?

Mr. Pfeiffer—I think it may all tie in.

Mr. Simpson—She might have been a circus rider.

Q.—Let me ask you the question the Senator suggests. Were you ever a circus rider? Yes, sir, I was.

Q.—With what company. A.—That I do not remember.

Mr. Simpson—I object to all this. What difference does it make whether it was Forepaugh's, Barnum's, Huber's? What difference does it make?

Mr. Pfeiffer—Nothing further.

Redirect examination by Mr. Simpson:

Q.—Counselor Pfeiffer asked you about being over in the Prosecutor's office and identifying the lady there; what Prosecutor was that? Was it in Middlesex? A.—In New Brunswick.

Q.—What happened? Were you taken into a room and asked to identify anybody, or what happened? How did you come to pick this woman out? A.—Nothing; I wasn't to pick anybody out.

Q.—Then what do you mean? A.—I went there to make a complaint about corn I had lost, and I saw this same woman sitting there talking.

Q.—To whom? A.—To some of the men there.

Q.—And what did you say; did you say "This is the woman I saw?" A.—No, I didn't say anything then.

Q.—Well, when did you tell that this was the woman? A.—After that.

Q.—After you had seen her there? A.—Yes.

Q.—You saw her sitting in the office when you went there to make a complaint? A.—Yes.

Q.—There has been some talk about you not having gone to the police? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You did not make a statement until you found some boy was accused of the crime? A.—Yes, sir; that is so.

Q.—You found some boy was accused and you knew the boy was not guilty? A.—I didn't know anything about that, but I knew there was a man had a gun in his hand.

Q.—And you went to tell that to the police? A.—Yes, sir.

When Mrs. Gibson left the stand she went over to one side of the court room and took a seat to listen to the other witnesses. She passed Carpender and "Willie" Stevens en route, but did not look at them.

CHARLOTTE MILLS CALLED.

The next witness was Charlotte Mills. Her progress from a rear seat in the court room to the stand was the occasion for a great turning and twisting among those in the court room. The girl, still but a school miss in appearance, appeared unconscious of the stir she provoked. She was hatless and her blond bobbed hair was in the first flush of a "permanent" wave.

She wore a simple dress, beige in color. A string of small pearls was about her slender neck. As she took the stand her rather large dark eyes fastened full on Mr. Carpender. Then they darted to Stevens. She averted her face quickly. Her examination was as follows:

Q.—You are the daughter of Eleanor R. Mills, who was murdered on Sept. 14, 1922? A.—I am.

Q.—When did you learn of the murders? A.—On Saturday, Sept. 16, from a neighbor who lived next door.

Q.—When did you last see your mother alive? A.—At 7 P. M. on Thursday, Sept. 14.

Q.—That was the last time you saw her alive? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know anything about the relationship between your mother and Dr. Hall; did he call at your home frequently? A.—He called often. The relationship between my mother and Dr. Hall——

Q.—It was proper? A.—It was quite proper.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with your mother about letters she had written to Dr. Hall or he had written to her? A.—My mother said to me that she was not likely to be with us long, because of her health, and that if anything happened to her there were some letters she wanted me to take care of. They were in a study of Dr. Hall in the church. This conversation was about two months before her death.

Identifies Mother's Letters.

The prosecutor then produced several letters and handed them to Miss Mills. He asked if they were in her mothers' handwriting. The girl looked intently at the missives. It was at this point that she gave the only sign of emotion. Her lips tightened and it seemed as if the tears were about to come, but she held herself in check, and identified the letters. The examination continued:

Q.—Did you know of a stove in the church where your mother put letters for Dr. Hall and where he put letters for her? A.—I did not know of a stove, but I did know of a book in the rector's study in the church where letters were left.

Q.—Did your father get $500 for certain letters? A.—Yes, but the money was returned some time later.

Q.—Do you know anything about your mother putting a clipping on Dr. Hall's desk in the church—a clipping telling about a divorce of a minister, a Dr. Tyson or Dr. Percy Grant? A.—Yes, she put this clipping on the rector's desk on Thursday evening, the same night of the murders. It was from The New York World and it told about Dr. Grant, an Episcopal minister.

Q.—When was your mother operated on? A.—In February, 1922.

Q.—When did she come home? A.—A few months later.

Q.—Did she ever say anything about the visit of Dr. and Mrs. Hall to the hospital? A.—She said that Dr. and Mrs. Hall had called at the hospital. Dr. Hall, she said, knelt at her bedside and after offering a prayer, said to Mrs. Hall: "Frances, if anything happens to Eleanor I will kill myself."

Dr. Hall Wrote Prayer.

Q.—What else did your mother say? A.—She said Dr. Hall wrote a prayer for her at the hospital. Afaterward he put it on the table face down and left the room. Mrs. Hall was still in the room. When the doctor came back he noticed the paper had been partly taken out of the envelope. Later he told my mother that Mrs. Hall must have read it and knew all.

Q.—Where are all the letters? A.—My aunt, Mrs. Bachart of Paterson, took all of them.

Q.—Did your mother ever meet Mrs. Hall at social affairs? A.—Yes, she met her at a card party at the church. Then once my mother went up to the Hall home. She was fond of flowers and she went into the Hall garden. Mrs. Hall invited her to take a cup of tea on the porch. My mother said that the tea tasted bad and she took only a few sips of it. When she came home she felt ill and went to bed. She vomited severely. She was ill for several days."

The Senator then asked Charlotte about Felix Di Martini, a private detective whose agency was retained by Mrs. Hall in the previous investigation to solve the mystery of her husband's death. The girl said that she had been "trailed" by the private detective for "two years after the bodies were found."

"Everywhere I would go, I'd find him there," she explained.

She then said that Di Martini had questioned her several times in an apparent effort, as she put it, to find out if she had any theory as to how the crime had been committed. Miss Mills said that she had told Di Martini that she knew nothing about the crime itself and preferred not to discuss other angles of the mystery with him.

Mr. Pfeiffer's cross-examination of Charlotte was brief. He asked her a few questions about her answers to Mr. Simpson and then inquired whether she had not received a "sympathetic note" from Mrs. Hall shortly after the crime. When the witness said she had received such a note the defense attorney concluded his cross-examination.

BEEKMAN BRINGS LOS PAPERS

Mr. Beekman was then called. The announcement of "Mr. Beekman" surprised everybody in the court, and the defense lawyers turned one to the other inquiringly. The brother of the dead Prosecutor proved to be a thin, sallow man. He was dressed in dark clothes. His voice was exceedingly low-pitched and as he gave his evidence he had to be cautioned time and again to raise his voice. He carried the missing papers, wrapped in brown paper, to the stand.

After a few preliminary questions, Beekman was asked how he had found the papers.

"By accident," he replied. "I took them from an office across the hall from my late brother's, two weeks after his death."

"Why didn't you turn them over to us?" Senator Simpson asked. "You knew we have been looking for those papers."

"I didn't know what they were until a week ago," he said.

"Well, you knew a week ago, then, what they were. Why do you bring them today?"

"You may have thought something a week ago the contrary to which you think today," was the reply.

"Never mind what I think," Senator Simpson flashed back. "It's what you think. Why do you bring them here today?"

"Because I think differently about them," said Beekman.

"What is your home telephone number, Mr. Beekman?" asked Senator Simpson, suddenly changing the course of his questions. Beekman told him.

Denies Offer to Sell Records.

"And do you know what Plainfield 2276 is?"

"No."

"Did you make any calls today?"

"Yes."

"You have a telephone at home?"

"I told you I did."

"Did you call from home?"

"No, from a drug store in Grant Avenue."

"And whom did you call?"

"I called my lawyer."

"Whom else did you call besides the lawyer?"

"I don't know that I did make another call."

"I did not."

"You admit you called from the drug store?"

"Yes."

"And did you make another call besides one to your lawyer?"

"I might have."

"Well, whom did you call?"

"Is it necessary to tell?"

Senator Simpson gasped. "Of course it is," he thundered. "If you are interested in seeing justice in this case, if you are interested in clearing yourself of any suspicion of crookedness in this thing, you should be glad to tell. Will you tell whom you called?"

"I don't care to tell," was Beekman's reply.

At this point in his examination Beekman began to shift nervously in his chair. Occasionally he cast an appealing glance at the Court. Timothy M. Pfeiffer, of counsel for Mrs. Hall, who had conducted the cross-examination of other witnesses, conferred hastily with his colleagues. Senator Simpson had finished his examination. Opposing counsel did not cross-examine Beekman.

Addressing the Court, Senator Simpson said: "Your Honor, I want the witness to take these papers under the escort of an officer to the State Police Headquarters, where an inventory should be made of the contents of the package and a receipt be given the witness so that he may not have an opportunity later to think that he turned over to the prosecution matter which we have not received."

The Court complied, and Inspector Underwood and Captain Walsh were designated for the purpose.

FORMER MAID TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Riehl then testified. Senator Simpson, who had characterized the former maid as a hostile witness when he examined her last Tuesday, adopted more belligerent tactics when he questioned her. In part, the questions put to her and her responses were as follows:

Q.—Did you answer a telephone call on the early evening of Sept. 14? A.—Yes.

Q.—It was from Mrs. Mills, was it not? A.—Yes, I think it was.

Q.—It was for Dr. Hall, and you called him? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where was Mrs. Hall? A.—When I leaned over the bannister to call to Dr. Hall she was standing in the lower hall and had picked up the telephone.

Q.—Did you hear the conversation over the telephone? A.—I heard Dr. Hall say "That's too bad, too bad," or something to that effect. He went out the back way and he passed me as he went out. He said to me something about it being a nice evening.

Q.—Didn't he say, "Are you waiting for him?" meaning your fellow? A.—He said, "Are you waiting for him?" and I said, "Which one?"

Q.—Did he carry anything in his hand? A.—No.

Q.—Did he have a coat on, a light overcoat? A.—No.

Awakened by Dr. Hall.

The witness said that she went to bed that night some time between 9 P. M. and 10 P. M. She was awakened by "the rumbling of the shutters." In reply to Senator Simpson she explained that the noise of the shutters being raised usually indicated to her that Dr. Hall was up and planned to make a trip into New York City. He made the noise in order that she might get up and serve his breakfast in advance of the regular breakfast hour.

When she came downstairs, however, the witness testified she found "Willie" Stevens poking about in the dining room.

Q.—Did he say anything to you? A.—He said, "Something happened last night, but don't tell Frances that I told you."

Q.—Frances was Mrs. Hall. A.—Yes. Mrs. Hall came down and had breakfast with Mr. Stevens. She said that Dr. Hall had not been home the night before and that she didn't know where he was. She cried.

Q.—Did you tell Detective David that you saw Mrs. Hall go to the Carpender house after Dr. Hall left home Thursday night? A.—No.

Q.—Do you remember Mrs. Hall cleaning her car with a vacuum cleaner Friday morning? A.—No.

Q.—Did you send a coat to Philadelphia to be dyed for Mrs Hall? A.—No.

Lawyer Supplies Information.

Mr. Pfeiffer then arose and said: "I'll be glad to tell you, Senator; it was Mrs. William Bearman."

Mr. Simpson thanked the defense lawyer and then asked Mrs. Riehl:

"Did you hear Mrs. Hall answer the telephone Saturday, the day the bodies were found?"

"Yes, about 11 o'clock in the morning somebody called up. She said, 'Mr. Hall is out of town for a few days.' Then she said, 'Don't tell me anything over the phone.'"

"Did you hear her say anything over the telephone on Friday night?"

"Yes, I think she told some one that 'It must be Mrs. Mills, she is the only one he is familiar with.'"

"Whom was she talking to?" "I think it was Mr. Florance," replied Mrs. Riehl.

Mr. Florance is former State Senator W. Edwin Florance of New Brunswick. He was Mrs. Hall's attorney early in the case, but never took, at least publicly, an active part in the investigation.

Mrs. Kiehl then told how Mrs. Edwin Carpender, a cousin, had broken the news of the murder to Mrs. Hall. This was on Saturday, Sept. 16, several hours after the bodies had been found. The former maid said that Mrs. Hall exclaimed, "I knew it" or "I know it," the maid was not certain which, and that the Hall cook, Maria Gildea had remarked "he was murdered."

The maid said that Mrs. Hall said "No, no, no, we don't know yet." After a few other questions the special prosecutor turned to Mr. Pfeiffer with the remark: "You may cross-examine. The defense lawyer, however, did not avail himself of the opportunity, and Mrs. Riehl left the stand.

THE HEARING ENDS.

Judge Cleary who had noted that it was a few minutes past 5 o'clock called Mr. Simpson up for a consultation. Mr. McCarter was also consulted and then the adjournment until 10 A. M. on Monday was announced.

"Willie" Stevens and Carpenter were led back to jail, where Mr. Pfeiffer and his associates talked to them for a short time.

Carpender and Stevens were comfortably located in a detention room on the third floor of the Somerset County jail, adjoining the cell block, and were not locked in a cell. The room was a large one, the full width of the building, and contained two double beds.

They had a number of visitors during the day, most of whom were relatives. Warden James Major would not disclose the names of the visitors, but among them were Mrs. Carpender, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Carpender, a brother and sister-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carpender.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Carpender came by automobile from their Summer home at Gloucester, Pa., bringing with them books and magazines and two suit cases filled with clothing. Mrs. Carpender said she would send over a card table today. She said the room occupied by the two prisoners was much better than she had supposed it would be in a jail, but added that she thought it needed more furniture.

Get Meals From Hotel.

The two prisoners did not have to eat prison fare, but received their meals from the Somerset Hotel across the street. Soft boiled eggs, toast and coffee constituted their breakfast. For luncheon they had veal chops and tomato salad. Last night they dined on canteloupe, pot roast and blackberries.

Senator Simpson was another visitor to the jail. He went there upon his arrival in Somerville for the hearing. He asked the warden where the prisoners had been confined since their arrest and when told the two had been in the same room he expressed amazement. He quoted the warden as saying:

"I used my own judgment in putting Carpender and Stevens in one cell. I was not told by Captain John J. Lamb of the State troopers, the arresting officer, that I was to separate the prisoners."

The Senator said that he thought it rather unusual to put prisoners on a murder charge in the same cell. He said he would not make any official request that Carpender and Stevens be placed in separate cells, at least not until the adjourned hearing was finished.

On his way back to Jersey City the special prosecutor said unless something unforeseen occurred he would be able to compiete the presentation of his case Monday. He declared he wanted to put on a witness or two to corroborate the story told by Mrs. Gibson.

He added that he would keep his investigators at work trying to find the automatic pistol with which the murders are alleged to have been committed. He praised the work of the detectives in tracing the telephone call which, according to Inspector Underwood, resulted in the much-sought for Beekman papers turning up at the last minute. He regarded the missing papers as very important and will devote a good deal of his time today to going over the documents.

The Senator said that over the weekend he would again go over the records in the case, especially the Beekman papers. He said he is anxious to put his evidence in the case on public record through the courts and should it be necessary, will put on the entire fifty-seven witnesses that have been questioned by the police.

MRS. GIBSON PIVOT OF HALL-MILLS CASE

'Pig Woman,' Often Assailed for Her Story in Murders, Still State's Strongest Card.

Throughout the first and the present investigation of the Hall-Mills murders the picturesque figure of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," has stood out. She was the pivot of the investigation conducted four years ago.

Since the night when, according to her story, she rode into the very heart of the murder mystery astride her mule Jennie, Mrs. Gibson has been the State's strongest card, and now, four years later, her story of what she saw of the murders—the flash and report of a pistol, a woman's hysterical "Please don't" and the kneeling form of a woman in gray near whom was a bushy-haired man—still lacks corroboration.

On the contrary, it has been denied as "impossible" by Mrs. Nellie Russell, a negress and neighbor of the "pig woman," who said Mrs. Gibson was in her shack at the time of the murders. But despite the failure of the Grand Jury to believe her, despite Mrs. Russell's statement and the denial by Mrs. Hall that she was at any time near the crabapple tree under which the bodies were found, Mrs. Gibson has stuck to her story.

Mrs. Gibson is a sturdy type. She was long accustomed to look after her own farm and pigs and to go after thieves who tried to steal her corn and her shoats. On one occasion, exasperated by attacks upon her credulity, she fired a shotgun in the general direction of reporters who were seeking an interview with her. She said afterward she had fired in the air to frighten them.

Mrs. Gibson asserts that she is a Bible-reading Christian and that her actions and story in connection with the Hall-Mills murders were the result of her desire not only to see justice done, but also to protect the innocent.

Mrs. Gibson was born in Hoboken. She is now 56 years old. She was one of eleven daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eisleitner and was christened Mary Jane. Mrs. Gibson attended public school in Hoboken until she was 13 years old, then went to work in a pencil factory there. A year later she rented a store in New Brunswick and began raising chickens in her backyard. Six years later she ran a vegetable farm in Deans, a New Brunswick suburb.

She started her first pig and chicken farm in Secaucus, N. J., in 1894. In that year she married Frederick Kesselring, a cooper. Their several children died and Kesselring disappeared. In 1903 she sold her place and moved to Newark, N. J., where she operated a rooming house. Later she took a private house and sent for her mother, three brothers and two sisters, whom she helped to support by working in a dressmaker's shop.

In 1906 she left her family and opened a second-hand furniture store in Trenton, N. J., moving four years there she adopted two children, a boy and a girl. In 1910 she moved to Bayonne, N. J., and ran a poultry store. She lived with her sister, Madeline Williams. After two months with her sister she moved to New Brunswick and started her now famous pig and chicken farm. She was said to have adopted the name Gibson because the farm had been owned by William Gibson thirty years before she bought it.

PAID BY MRS. HALL TO LEAVE, HE SAYS

Man in Military Prison With Dickman Asserts He Got More Than $500.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 13.—New allegations in the Hall-Mills murder case were made today in the Alcatraz Military Prison by Albert Curtis, who charges that Mrs. Hall gave him money to leave the United States after her husband and Mrs. Mills had been killed.

Curtis was a friend and confidant, he said, of Henry L. Dickman, then a State trooper in New Jersey, who has said "a woman" paid him $500 to leave the State with inside knowledge of the case.

Both Dickman and Curtis are prisoners at the United States Army disciplinary barracks on Alcatrez Island—Dickman for desertion and Curtis for forgery. They were arrested here after their arrival from New Jersey.

"Mrs. Hall did not kill her husband and his girl," Curtis said today. "She only hired some one to do it. I know all about the affair. I was surprised when Dickman told me that he only got $500. I got more than that."

The police of this city were requested today by Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the murder case, to obtain statements from Dickman. He said the War Department had offered to return Dickman to New Jersey and that he would ask for such action immediately.

Curtis and Dickman were reticent when questioned at Alcatraz today. They admitted that they had been friends in New Jersey when Dickman was investigating the murder. Curtis would not explain how he obtained his information, but said he had received more money from Mrs. Hall than Dickman got. Both men left New Jersey when the investigation was under way, Dickman leaving unclaimed two months' salary as a State trooper. The men roamed the West three years and were both arrested about three months ago on old army charges.

Colonel Morrow, in charge of the disciplinary barracks, refused today to discuss what action was being taken to return the prisoners to the East, but it was learned that preparations are under way.

GIVES UP RECORDS IN HALL-MILLS CASE

Brother of Dead Prosecutor Is Said to Have Offered to Sell Them to Newspaper.

TRAP SET TO OBTAIN THEM

Marcus Beekman Surrenders Missing Papers—Denies He Tried to Dispose of Them.

A carefully devised trap had been set for Marcus W. Beekman, brother of the deceased former Prosecutor, Azariah Beekman yesterday when, accompanied by George W. Allgair, a lawyer of Somerville, he walked into Branch State Police Headquarters at Somerville, N. J., in the afternoon and surrendered statements of witnesses Senator Alexander Simpson had been searching for since the investigation into the Hall-Mills case was revived.

The trap was set by Police Inspector John Underwood of Jersey City following a tip that Beekman at 10 o'clock in the morning had called up The New York Daily Mirror offering to sell papers of vital importance to the case.

According to the investigators Beekman, although he has a telephone in his home at 115 Lafayette Place, Plainfield, entered a telephone booth in William W. Galloway's drug store at 200 Grant Avenue, Plainfield, a short distance from his home, and called a number. Before making the call he asked Mrs. Aleta Williams, a clerk in the store, to change a quarter. He then made his call and talked for several minutes.

Inspector Underwood confirmed the report that the call was received by The Mirror. At the office of that newspaper, he said, instructions were given to trace the number from which the call was being made and before the conversation ended the number—Plainfield 2276—had been ascertained. Inspector Underwood was apprised by The Mirror of Beekman's extraordinary offer and the inspector sent Lieutenant Ciechieuch and Lieutenant Torpey of Jersey City, and a State trooper to Plainfield. Mrs. Williams, the drug clerk, recalled the stranger for whom she had changed a quarter and her description fitted that of the former Prosecutor's brother, but the detectives, uncertain of the identity, proceeded cautiously. Beekman's house was under guard and telephone calls to State headquarters from time to time advised Inspctor Underwood of the situation.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 13.—Marcus W. Beekman, brother of the late Prosecutor Azariah Beekman, explained here tonight that the missing documents in the Hall-Mills case which he returned to the authorities in Judge Cleary's Court, in Somerville, this afternoon, had lain in his attic, part of a quantity of junk, until a week ago.

Mr. Beekman would not deny that he had communicated with The New York Mirror by telephone this morning in an attempt to negotiate a sale of the documents to that paper.

"I didn't sell them," he replied in answer to a question, "so I didn't commit any criminal act. As long as I didn't do that I guess I'm free to right to telephone to whom I please."

Explaining his possession of the papers, Beekman said that at the time of his brother's death all his personal effects were taken to the home of another brother, Fred F. Beekman, also of Plainfield, and that all the papers in his office were gone over by Judge Cleary. Certain valueless effects in the prosecutor's private office were moved to a vacant room across the hall pending final disposal, he said, and these effects, which included broken chairs, musty books and several packages, Beekman said he finally removed to his own attic where they have been ever since.

Among the effects which had lain in his attic, Beekman said, were two packages done up in heavy manila paper which he had never opened or inspected. A week ago, he explained, aroused over the excitement attendant upon the reopening of the Hall-Mills case, and over certain aspersions which, he said, had been cast on his dead brother, he opened the two packages. The first contained an assortment of old picture frames. In the second were the missing papers.

"I did not sleep much during the week since I opened the package until today," he said, "because they worried me and I did not know what was the right thing to do with them. Finally, today, I went over to Somerville and consulted my attorney, Mr. Allgair, and he advised me to return them, as I have done. I think now I have done the right thing, and a number of people over in Somerville this afternoon congratulated me."

DENIES SHE RECEIVED CASH.

Mrs. Riehl Says Old Ground Was Untouched in Her Examination.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Just before she was taken from her home to appear at the hearing in Somerville this afternoon, Louise Geist Riehl told reporters that her examination before Prosecutor Simpson had been "far less thorough" than that before Prosecutor Beekman four years ago.

"There was only one question that he asked me that I had not been asked before, and that was whether or not I had been present when the murders were committed," she said. Her statement, made out and signed by her last week at Prosecutor Simpson's office in Jersey City, covered fifty typewritten pages.

Mrs. Riehl also denied having made statements concerning sums of money received as the price of her silence on matters pertaining to the murder investigation. Besides the charges made by her husband, Arthur B. Riehl, in his annulment petition filed in Trenton on July 8, statements that she had admitted receiving a large sum of money have been attributed to her mother's neighbor, Paul Habedank of Davidson's Mills, whose farm joins the little place owned by the Geists.

Habedank has been quoted as saying that Mrs. Riehl and her mother said that the daughter had received a large sum of money shortly after the murders. Mrs. Riehl declared today that she had not spoken "three times to Habedank in four years." Habedank himself said much the same thing. The farmer declared that he had not seen Mrs. Riehl to talk to her since the murders.

Mrs. Henry Carpender has been at Gloucester, Mass., since the beginning of the investigation, and it was said today that she was expected to remain there for the present. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carpender and their two young daughters left for Maine earlier in the week, and at the house it was said that it was improbable that they would return at present.

struck down by lightning and a third whose death was due indirectly to the storm, and to the list of injured the names of two men who were struck by lightning and probably fatally injured.

Americo Gallo, 13 years old, of the Elizabeth (N. J.) Orphanage, who was at a Boy Scout camp at Feltville Lake, two miles from Summit, N. J., was reported yesterday to have been instantly killed by lightning on Thursday. The Boy Scouts were swimming in the lake when the storm broke. They were called out by Scout Executive Aaron W. King of Elizabeth, and the boy was killed when a bolt struck the ridge pole of his tent, under which he was drying himself.

Mrs. Ellen O'Connell, 74 years old, of 1,244 Madison Avenue, was instantly killed when she fell to the street from a fourth-story window which she was trying to close when the storm suddenly hit the city.

Henry Wagner and Patrick Gant of South River, N. J., are in South Amboy Hospital at South Amboy, N. J., probably fatally burned by a stroke of lightning. They were working on a steel cable aboard a Government dredge lying in the South River near South Amboy when the cable was hit by lightning.

The metropolitan district had not completely taken stock of the damage caused by the 4.51 inches of rainfall which fell in the period ending at midnight on Thursday, but the losses undoubtedly will run into many millions of dollars. The unusual meteorological disturbances brought only a short period of relief from the heat and humidity, which continued until the mercury touched 87 degrees at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the humidity was 78.

Eleven Pumps Clear Tunnels.

Ten emergency pumps and one Interborough Rapid Transit Company car pump were used to force the water out of the Long Island Railroad's East River tunnels, and they emptied the tubes at the rate of 38,000 gallons a minute. The pump crews worked night and day with the same feverishness as crews at the pumps of a foundering ship. Not a train was run through the tunnels from 9 P. M. on Thursday to 1:58 A. M. yesterday.

The East River tunnels were under an average of forty-six inches of water for their entire length. Even with the enormous capacity of the eleven pumps, the crews made headway slowly.

Tunnel No. 4 was reported clear of water at 6 A. M. and tunnel No. 3 was reported clear at 11 o'clock. Tunnels 1 and 2 were not emptied until late in the afternoon, and the Long Island Railroad did not resume full schedules until 7:45 P. M.

While efforts were being made to empty the East River tunnels the Long Island inaugurated shuttle services on Long Island. One terminal was established at Woodside, where Manhattan-bound passengers were detrained so that they might continue to their places of business by transferring to Interborough trains on the Corona division.

Thousands of commuters and other passengers of the Long Island were detrained at the Flatbush Avenue Station in Brooklyn, whence they continued by various surface and underground lines to Manhattan. During the interruption of service in the East River tunnels the Long Island diverted to Brooklyn eleven trains which ordinarily would have been run into the Long Island Station at Thirty-fourth Street and Seventh Avenue between 7:30 and 8:45 A. M.

Police Called to Prevent Mishaps.

The congestion at the Flatbush Avenue and Woodside stations became so great that the police reserves of several precincts were sent to preserve order and to prevent accidents. In order to lessen the congestion at Woodside some trains were run into the old Long Island Railroad terminal in Long Island City.

When it became apparent late in the afternoon that the Long Island Railroad would be unable to resume its schedules for the evening rush, notices were posted at all platform gates advising passengers to go by subway to Flatbush Avenue and to Woodside for trains to all points on Long Island.

The State Transit Commission, following a conference with officials of the Long Island, announced that the railroad had agreed to put on sixteen extra trains from Woodside and eleven additional emergency trains from Flatbush to care for the homeward bound commutation traffic.

To afford better connections for commuters all Long Island trains were stopped at Jamaica, and all steam trains on that road from Long Island City were stopped at both Woodside and Jamaica. The Transit Commission also announced that both the Interborough and the B. M. T. had consented to run additional trains to Flatbush Avenue and Woodside to handle the commutation traffic.

Tracks Under Water and Mud.

Trolley operations on Queens Boulevard between Long Island City and Jamaica were suspended until 11 A. M. by the Manhattan and Queens Traction Corporation because the tracks in some places were under two or three feet of water or were in that depth of mud in places where the floods had receded.

Pedestrians and automobile traffic congested Queensboro Bridge, and policemen were stationed there to help keep the crowds in order. Throughout Long Island City residents reported that they had spent the entire morning pumping or bailing out their cellars. A telegraph pole at Grand and Ely Avenues, Long Island City, fell upon an automobile owned and driven by David Polizio, 801 Ely Avenue, Long Island City. The car was crushed, but Polizio escaped injury.

Flood waters at points covered the tracks of the Flushing and Grand Street trolley lines in Brooklyn and caused delays in operations that ranged from fifteen minutes to a half hour because cars had to be rerouted.

A shoring in an excavation for the extension of the Fourteenth Street subway on Bushwick Avenue, south of Boerum Street, was undermined by the rain and about twenty-five feet of a cement retaining wall collapsed. The excavation was filled with nine feet of water which it was feared would undermine the foundations of residences on the west side of the avenue. Bushwick Avenue trolleys were detoured through Humboldt Street to Flushing Avenue, and motor traffic was rerouted the same way by traffic policemen.

Residents throughout Ridgewood reported that their cellars had been flooded, and Ocean Parkway between Brighton Beach Avenue and Neck Road, Brooklyn, was under water in many places. Motor cars which plunged into the water until their ignition systems were short-circuited, were stalled in the flood, which also put electric light and telephone service out of commission in spots. In that section of Brooklyn the Street Cleaning Department faced an enormous job of clearing away limbs of trees and other wreckage that had been blown or washed into the streets.

Emergency Gangs Clear Tracks.

Numerous emergency gangs were sent out by rapid transit companies to repair the damage of the floods and electrical storms. Near the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens they had to clear the tracks of the Brighton Beach elevated line, in an open cut at that point, of the fragments of a retaining wall which had collapsed. While the tracks were being cleared, a shuttle service was operated between the Prospect Park and Fulton Street stations.

As a precaution against accidents, the B. M. T. sent out pilot trains to cross the Williamsburg Bridge just before the morning rush hour. They proceeded cautiously in order to test the signal systems which might have been put out of commission by seepage into conduits. All signal trouble was located and eliminated before the rush began.

In a survey of the damage to telephone service in the metropolitan district the New York Telephone Company found that it had sustained the "worst damage to telephone lines which has been experienced since the disastrous storm of June, 1924." The company's announcement of the results of its survey follows:

"Nearly thirteen thousand telephones in the metropolitan area, Northern New Jersey and suburban Long Island were temporarily out of service, as the wind swept down individual drop lines or rain water penetrated, in a few instances, into underground cables.

"Brooklyn and Queens were the heaviest sufferers, with 5,000 stations affected. Suburban Long Island reported nearly 1,100 more telephones out of service, while Manhattan and the Bronx suffered comparatively little, there being only about 250 stations affected in these two boroughs. In Westchester 1,400 telephones were affected, while the New Jersey division reported 5,000 stations, with the principal damage done in Paterson, Jersey City and Elizabeth.

"Telephone officials late this forenoon said that a check-up of the traffic had not been completed but that the number of telephone calls made yesterday during the late afternoon and evening exceeded by many thousands the calls normally made.

"In view of the heavy damage to telephone lines on Long Island and in New Jersey it may be several days before repairs can all be completed and service completely restored to normal, although hundreds of construction men are working day and night to accomplish this end."

Thunderstorms have continued to visit New York City and other parts of the metropolitan district since the succession of electrical and rain storms of Thursday, but they have not been of such magnitude. Due to the continued unfavorable weather the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., again delayed the flight of the dirigible Los Angeles to the mastship Patoka in Chesapeake Bay. If the weather is favorable the flight probably will be made today.

The Heat Wave's Record.

Hour.	Tmp.	Hmdy.	Hour.	Tmp.	Hmdy.
Midnight	71	..	9 A. M.	75	89
1 A. M.	72	..	10 A. M.	75	89

8 A. M.	74	92	5 P. M.	82	78

One death from the heat was reported in the Greater City in the course of the day, in addition to three cases of heat prostration.

An unidentified man, about 45 years old, collapsed at Delancey and Chrystie Streets last evening and died before the arrival of an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital. He was five feet seven inches tall, weighed 135 pounds, had gray hair, gray mustache and was portly. His clothing consisted of white shirt, blue trousers and black shoes and socks. In one pocket was a counterfeit 25-cent piece.

Two men who were overcome by the heat and taken to Bellevue Hospital were Louis Francisco, 26 years old, 112 East 108th Street, and Max Schnabel, 30, a taxicab chauffeur, who said he lived on South Ninth Street, Brooklyn.

BOLT HITS PERKINS ESTATE.

Servants Save Valuable Furnishings in Riverdale Mansion.

Lightning at 8 o'clock last night struck and set fire to Glyndor, the forty-room mansion of the late George W. Perkins on the 93-acre estate in Riverdale. This property was the largest item in Mr. Perkins's realty holdings and after his death was appraised at $1,107,003.

Mrs. Perkins, who inherited all the real and personal property, had left Glyndor in the afternoon to visit George W. Perkins Jr. at Cold Spring. The fire was discovered by Otto Hobert, a houseman, who notified the other servants, called the Fire Department and also notified John Sutherland, superintendent of the estate.

George O'Neil, night watchman; Ralph Halsey, a chauffeur, and two maids, Thelma Anderson and Hilda Erickson, immediately joined Hobert in removing the valuable house furnishings. Before they did this, however, Halsey and Hobert, assisted Ida Johnson, a servant who was ill in her room on the third floor, to escape, and Halsey also carried out Gypsy, Mrs. Perkins's pet spaniel.

Mr. Perkins had owned a number of paintings, although none of great value, and most of these were removed to the cottage of the superintendent. Among them was a painting of Mrs. Dorothy Perkins Freeman, a daughter. Firemen spread tarpaulins throughout the house to protect the furnishings as much as possible from damage by water, but nevertheless it seeped

KELLOGG AND K. OF C. CONFER ON MEXICO

BOYLAN CALLS FOR BREAK

New York Representative Says Calles Has No More Right to Recognition Than Russia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, and D. J. Callahan, Supreme Treasurer, today discussed with Secretary of State Kellogg the religious conflict between the Catholic Church and the Calles Government in Mexico.

The Knights' officials presented to the Secretary the resolution passed last week in Philadelphia by the Supreme Convention of the order calling upon the United States to put an immediate end to the alleged mistreatment and expulsion of American Catholics in Mexico by the Government of that country.

Although the conference lasted for nearly an hour, neither Secretary Kellogg nor Mr. Flaherty would discuss what took place beyond saying that the petition had been received and filed in the State Department.

Secretary Kellogg left Washington late today for New York, and on Monday and Tuesday will visit President Coolidge at White Pine Camp and lay before him all information assembled by the State Department on the status of American relations with Mexico.

Representative Boylan, Democrat, of New York, who introduced a resolution in the House recently calling on the United States to sever diplomatic relations with Mexico, today issued a statement again calling upon the Administration to break with that country.

His statement follows, in part:

"It is high time for our State Department to adopt a manly and straightforward policy toward Mexico.

"Mexico is following the same path that Russia took. Mexico shows no more concern for the moral sentiment of the world than Russia did. Mexico has no more right to recognition by civilized Governments than Russia had.

"Only two courses are open to the Administration: Express its satisfaction with Soviet Russia by recognizing that country, or using the same moral influence in Mexico by breaking relations with that erring Republic."

Hint of No Action Being Likely.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—Representatives of the Knights of Columbus who called today on Secretary Kellogg are believed to have gained a definite impression that the "hands-off" policy of the Government regarding Mexico's domestic religious difficulties is to stand unchanged.

At the same time, however, property and personal rights of all Americans in Mexico will continue to be protected whenever there is an attempted invasion of rights granted by treaty or conferred by international or Mexican law.

The State Department continues to be flooded with communications on the religious question. Many, but not all of them, come from Catholic sources and are either specific or general protests against conditions in Mexico under the new religious laws.

A substantial number are said to be declarations in support of the Government's policy of non-interference unless the rights of an American citizen should be adversely affected.

Diplomatic exchanges on Mexican oil and land laws and the case of J. H. Grande, Los Angeles fruit dealer under arrest in Mexico City, marked time today.

Coolidge Ready to Meet Knights.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—It was made plain here today that President Coolidge would be glad to see the committee of the Knights of Columbus who conferred with Secretary Kellogg today in Washington if the committee desires to clear up any matters.

WILL MEET SHEFFIELD ON MEXICAN SITUATION

Good-Will Union Offers to Aid in Seeking Settlement of the Religious Controversy.

In an effort to lend their offices to aid in clearing up the controversy between the Mexican Government and the Catholic Church, a special committee from America's Good Will Union, a local organization with offices at 15 West Thirty-seventh Street, will confer with James R. Sheffield, Ambassador to Mexico, in this city during the last week of August, according to information made public yesterday by former Judge Alfred J. Talley, President of the Association for the Protection of Religious Rights in Mexico.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former Senator Fred W. Kavanaugh and Gustavus A. Rogers comprise the special Committee. Ambassador Sheffield, who left Mexico yesterday, has already notified the Good-Will Union, in response to its request for a conference, that he would be glad to confer with the committee, but would be unable to set a date until he arrives at the Hotel Plaza at the end of the month.

In a letter to Mr. Talley the hope was expressed by Mr. Rogers that the conference would lead to some "effective, if unofficial, service which we might render." In his communication Mr. Rogers declared that religious intolerance in Mexico was intensifying the same sort of intolerance in this country, thus providing another reason for a speedy adjustment of the Mexican situation.

The recent "good will mission" to Mexico, Mr. Rogers added, was in no way connected with America's Good-Will Union. The latter organization is the one which, through its director, the Rev. Edward L. Hunt, made numerous attempts to bring about an adjustment between employer and employes during the recent subway strike.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—The German pilot Kegel landed his glider sixty kilometers from the starting point in the Rhoen meet today, thus establishing a new world's record for distance and more than doubling his previous record set in the Moscow meet.

Wind conditions were favorable for distance flying. This year's meet was unsuccessful until today owing to adverse weather conditions.

FISH ASSAILS WADSWORTH.

Declares Senator's Advocacy of Dry Amendment Repeal Is "Buncombe."

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of the Twenty-sixth Congressional District, who has been mentioned frequently as a possible Republican candidate for Governor of New York, fired a broadside against Senator Wadsworth and his stand on the prohibition issue in a statement received here today.

"When Senator Wadsworth advocates the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment he is advocating something that every thinking man and woman in the United States knows to be political buncombe and sheer hypocrisy," says Mr. Fish, and he adds that "the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is as far off as the moon, and Senator Wadsworth has as much chance of hitting the man in the moon with a bow and arrow as he has of obtaining the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"As there are thirty-six dry States, six doubtful and six wet, and it takes only thirteen dry States to block or prevent any repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," the Representative says, "there cannot be any repeal of the prohibition amendment for a hundred years, and probably never. We must face facts and not shoot at the moon to try to fool the wet voters.

"As for myself, I never voted in the Legislature or in Congress for prohibition, but, as it is part of the Constitution, I believe it is a duty of the State to pass a State enforcement law. The Republican Party, both in the State and in the nation, is committed to upholding and enforcing the law, and upon this platform President Coolidge was elected by an overwhelming majority."

INDIGNANT AT FEVER SCARE.

Ship Lines' Officials Criticize Health Authorities for Frightening Havana.

Officials of the steamship lines whose vessels were detained on Thursday at Havana because of a report that a case of yellow fever had developed in New York expressed their indignation yesterday that the United States health authorities should have sanctioned such an alarming statement, based solely on the diagnosis of a case in Roosevelt Hospital on July 3, which later was found to be false.

The United Fruit steamer Metapan, which arrived at Havana Thursday, was not permitted to land passengers unless they went through the detention camp. A number of the passengers decided to do so, and the Metapan left later for Kingston, Jamaica.

Officials of the Ward Line said yesterday that the Orizaba arrived at Havana from New York on Thursday evening and the fifty passengers for that port were detained on board all night. They were permitted to land yesterday after the Cuban officials had been notified by Washington that the report of a case of yellow fever was an error.

ON TRAIL OF DURANT GEMS.

Authorities Trace Man Who Knows Where $75,000 Stolen Jewels Are.

Special to The New York Times.

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 13.—After the questioning of fifteen employes and former employes on the estate of W. C. Durant, the automobile manufacturer, at 180 Ocean Avenue, it was announced today that the county authorities were on the track of a man who knows what became of the $75,000 worth of jewelry stolen on Aug. 1 from the Durant home. The jewelry, it was made known, consisted of seven pieces, and was stolen from a safe. A list of the missing pieces is to be made public tomorrow.

It was learned on good authority that a reward would be offered for the arrest of the thief and the recovery of the jewlry.

5 NEW WITNESSES IN THE OBERST TRIAL

EX-POLICEMAN TELLS STORY

Says He Saw Flight From Liccione Bank—Defense Promises a Few Surprises Also.

The prosecution uncovered five "surprise" witnesses at the trial of the Oberst gang in the Bronx County Court yesterday before Judge James M. Barrett and the new jury. The five witnesses, one a woman, were introduced in an effort to link the gang with a blue Hudson sedan in which the police allege the gang escaped after an attempt to rob the Liccione private bank at 590 East 187th Street on July 22 at 11 A. M. The sedan is in the possession of the authorities, having been found abandoned a few hours after the raid. Meanwhile the defense intimated yesterday it would offer "surprise" witnesses of its own before the trial was much older.

The five new witnesses yesterday were Philip Di Pola, a former Larchmont (N. Y.) policeman, who said he was passing the bank at the time of the getaway; George Hollyer and Carl Schmidt, night and day managers of the Grand Central Terminal Garage, who said the sedan had been stored there the night before, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lovegrove, from whom members of the Oberst gang rented a rendezvous at 223 West Fourteenth Street, and where, according to the police, the Liccione "job" was planned an hour or so in advance.

Three Describe Sedan.

Di Pola, Hollyer and Schmidt described a sedan which practically tallied with the car held by the police, but they could not identify any of its occupants. Mrs. Lovegrove testified that a blue sedan was parked in front of the West Fourteenth Street address when Peter Mahoney, Philip Oberst and Leo Hecker joined Francis Kerrigan there thirty to sixty minutes before the attempted robbery in the Bronx. All four, who with Bernard Frankel comprise the five defendants, soon departed, she said. When she looked out, Mrs. Lovegrove said, the sedan "was gone." But she was unable to identify the automobile closely enough to establish it as the one used at the bank.

Di Pola, who is now a process server, said he was walking through 187th Street, near Arthur and Hughes Avenue, when he heard shots at the bank, and saw six youths run out and jump into the sedan at the curb. One was still standing upon the running board when the fleeing car flashed past, with the chauffeur making all speed. He said all the passengers wore glasses with colored lenses, with which other witnesses had said all the robbers were provided. With professional instinct he turned to take the license number of the sedan from the rear plates, but he could catch only "6 F-8—" before it was out of sight.

Objects to Defense Questions.

Judge Barrett sustained objections of District Attorney John E. McGeehan when Edward J. O'Brien and James A. Turley, defense counsel, attempted to ask Di Pola if he had a business interest in the good-will of public legal officers.

George Hollyer said a Hudson sedan, "6-F-8516-N. Y.," was stored at the Grand Central Terminal Garage at 241 East Forty-first Street by two or three young men early on the morning of July 22. Albert Henderson, Assistant District Attorney, showed by Hollyer's record book that the hour was 2 A. M. Police have learned the car was stolen from a West Forty-first Street garage shortly before. Mr. Henderson asked Mr. Hollyer whether any of the defendants had been in the car.

"I couldn't positively identify any of them," Mr. Hollyer said.

Carl Schmidt, who relieves Hollyer at the garage at 7 each morning, said the same car had been taken from the garage between 9 and 11 that morning.

"As far as I can remember, two men took it out," Mr. Schmidt said. He added that they had tendered the car check and $1 for a fee and had also given him a fifty-cent tip.

Both Hollyer and Schmidt identified the car by a police photograph. Both were dismissed without questioning by the defense.

The morning session was largely devoted to repetition of previous testimony of employes of the Liccione bank and others who had been eyewitnesses.

Because of the heat, Judge Barrett adjourned the trial until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

VANDERBILT GEM BOXES YIELD FINGER PRINTS

Police Are Not Very Hopeful These Will Reveal Robber of Newport Home.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 13.—Fingerprints found today by the police on the boxes that contained the jewels stolen from the Breakers, the home of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, may lead to the arrest of the thief.

"We secured several fingerprints," said Chief of Police Sweeney, "but owing to the time that has elapsed since the robbery, we are not very hopeful as to what these will produce."

The police learned the robbery did not take place on Saturday night, as has been supposed. Instead, it took place on Sunday night, when General and Mrs. Vanderbilt also gave a dinner party, or early Monday morning.

This was made known by Harry Parsons Cross of Providence, who with former Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York has been retained to represent the Vanderbilt family.

Mr. Cross in a statement issued tonight said no servant or no one else connected with the estate was suspected by General and Mrs. Vanderbilt.

"We believe the robbery was the work of professionals," said Mr. Cross.

All of the articles taken and still missing were personal property belonging to Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Grace.

CAUSES TROOPERS' ARREST.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—Sheriff Howard Cloud today served writs charging assault and battery with intent to kill and false imprisonment upon Troopers Robert Woodward, Guy Parkhurst, Roy Stevens and Wilmer Kline of the Hammonton Station of the State Police. Bail will be set for the troopers by Supreme Court Commissioner John F. X. Ries.

The charges were preferred by Fred Zernick of Moss Mill Road, Galloway, who demands damages of $75,000 on each of three counts. He was arrested by the troopers on July 28 on charges that he and his wife, Frieda, were sniping at workmen on a real estate development near their home and that they resisted arrest.

FUERSTEN GUILTY, SENTENCED TO CHAIR

Jury Including Woman Convicts "Mad Musician" of Murder for Mrs. Vickers's Death.

TO DIE IN WEEK OF SEPT. 20

Defendant Says Victim Taunted Him for Not Buying Diamond Ring for Her.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 13.—Paul W. Fuersten, once leader of the Camden Philharmonic Orchestra and known as "The Mad Musician," was convicted this afternoon in the County Court of murder in the first degree for shooting Mrs. Harriet Vickers to death on June 29 and was sentenced by Justice Frank S. Katzenbach to die in the electric chair in the week of Sept. 20. The jury of eleven men and one woman was out little more than an hour and agreed on the second ballot. It had spent two days listening to testimony.

Fuersten was unmoved when the verdict was announced. The expression on his face never changed. After his sentence had been imposed he was taken back to the county jail, and it was announced that he would be taken to the State Prison at Trenton tomorrow morning. As he was led from the court room by Under-Sheriff James E. Hewitt he said in an emotionless voice:

"Oh, brace up," Hewitt replied. "You can't tell."

The case was submitted to the jury after a dramatic session which included not only Fuersten's own appearance on the witness stand but that of Miss Kitty Vernon, the "mystery woman," whom he had accused of breaking up his love affair with Mrs. Vickers.

Fuersten was on the stand almost two hours. He was born in Germany in 1882, he said; received a college education there and came to America in 1903. After living in Pittsburgh, Pa., nearly fifteen years he came to Camden. He met Mrs. Vickers, he said, when he rented a room in her home five years ago. He lived there two years. Of the shooting, he said:

"I don't know what made me do it. I was dizzy. I don't think I was mentally right. I can't explain it. I shot her, but I don't know why. I had been drinking."

"Harriet taunted me," he said, almost in a whisper at another point. "She reminded me that I had failed to give her a diamond ring on which I had paid a deposit in Philadelphia. She said she could get a man who could give her many diamonds."

When Miss Vernon, who had worked as a waitress with Mrs. Vickers, was on the stand, Fuersten's counsel tried to get her to admit that Fuersten had opposed her associating with Mrs. Vickers. "I never heard anything of the kind," said Miss Vernon.

Fuersten's counsel told the jury that he did not expect an acquittal and asked for a verdict that would not carry the death penalty.

Road Inspector, 17, Only Temporary.

Special to The New York Times.

BABYLON, L. I., Aug. 13.—Superintendent of Highways Wolfe of the town of Babylon said today that the appointment of Joseph P. Warta Jr., a 17-year-old high school student, as Inspector of Roads was only temporary. Considerable agitation was aroused among the townspeople over the appointment because of the youth and inexperience of Warta. According to Mr. Wolfe, the youth is acting as a substitute for Joseph Jackson, the regular inspector, who is ill.

WHITTEMORE BURIAL TO BE HELD MONDAY

His Family Claims Body and Remains in Seclusion as Crowds Gather at Home.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13.—The body of Richard Reese Whittemore, robber and slayer, who was hanged in the Maryland Penitentiary early this morning for the murder of a prison guard in the same institution, was brought to the home of his brother, Rawlings V. Whittemore Jr., at 1318 West North Avenue, later in the morning. The funeral will be held from the house on Monday.

Mrs. Whittemore, widow of the dead man, and Whittemore's father were waiting at the home when the body arrived. The widow became hysterical and it was some time before she was quieted.

A crowd gathered in front of the house. Several of the more curious attempted to gain entrance, but they were informed that no one would be admitted, not even the dead man's friends. There were many women in the crowd and some of them were carrying babies in their arms.

Whittemore died "game" as he had promised, and after the hanging the undertaker found pinned to his prison shirt a picture of his wife which had been torn from a newspaper.

A short time before he was led to the gallows Whittemore gave a Bible which he had been reading in his cell to a guard on duty there.

"There isn't much I can give any one," he said, "but I want you to have this Bible as a gift from me."

The guard accepted it, thanked Whittemore and asked him how much of it he had read.

"I finished 182 pages," replied the slayer. "I wish I had time to read it all, but"—he shrugged his shoulders by way of finishing the sentence.

Dr. Frank Powers, the prison physician, said Whittemore had been calm up to the end. He was smoking when the guards came to bind him. Before this took place, Whittemore shook hands with each of the guards and with Warden Brady, whom he thanked for his kindness.

FOILS ARREST BY SLEEPING.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—From Strasbourg comes a story today of how detectives were cheated of their quarry by sleeping sickness or by a first-class faker.

Ever since December the police never left the door of the bedroom of an 18-year-old youth, Georges Beek, "wanted" on a charge of forging a check. When, seven month ago, the detectives came to arrest the young man, he collapsed and fell into a trance in which he has remained ever since, apparently gaining only a sufficient amount of consciousness to partake of occasional nourishment.

Doctors who are constantly watching at the bedside confess that they are absolutely puzzled and cannot reach a decision whether the case is genuine or whether Georges Beek is an exceptionally clever and unusually tenacious faker.

FINDS FRAUD ABROAD AGAINST AMERICAN

SUIT MAY BE HEARD IN ITALY

Defendant Corporations Reported to Be Subsidiaries of Banca di Roma.

The visit of a Brooklyn importer, who was a native of Russia, to that country in 1922 to sell foodstuffs cost him $231,000, according to a report filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Enos S. Booth, appointed referee last March to make an accounting between Samuel Droschnicop of 788 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, and the Sindicato Orientale di Commercio and the Mundus Societa Italiana di Commercio, both said to be subsidiaries of the Banca di Roma, the largest financial institution in Italy.

Pursuant to the order by Justice Wagner that the two Italian concerns must account, the referee finds that after their representatives met Droshnicop in Russia and induced him to go into partnership with them, under an agreement by which he was to ship them American foodstuffs and they were to send him products from Batum in Transcaucasia, they defrauded him in the amount of the judgment recommended.

I. Gainsburg, who represented Droshnicop at the hearings before Referee Booth, said yesterday that if the report was confirmed in the Supreme Court and judgment for the $231,000, with the costs of the proceeding, was ordered, he expected it would be necessary to sue on the judgment in Italy, but that he expected no difficulties on that score because of the present legal amity between nations, including the United States and Italy, by which one country recognizes judgments obtained in the courts of another and authorizes proceedings to enforce them.

The referee, after considering all the transactions, finds that the defendants owe Drosnicop $266,822 and that he is indebted to them only $35,807. He says:

"I am of the opinion that the defendants deliberately set about to defraud the plaintiff out of his goods and money by trick and device."

PUSHES PREPARATIONS FOR MURDER JURY

To expedite the trial of Eugene Pierce, the negro who on Wednesday morning last shot and killed Detective John M. Singer with Singer's own pistol in Police Headquarters, Judge Mancuso of General Sessions went yesterday to the office of the Commissioner of Jurors and supervised the drawing of a special panel of 100 talesmen. On the preceding day the Judge had remanded Pierce to the Tombs without bail pending trial on Aug. 23 next, after Assemblyman Maurice Bloch and Senator Thomas I. Sheridan, counsel for the accused slayer by appointment of the Court, had entered a formal plea of not guilty to a first degree murder indictment.

"It actually will be possible to begin the trial on Aug. 23," Judge Mancuso said as he granted a motion of Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers for the drawing of the special panel. "Counsel for Pierce have offered no objection to the proceeding, but it will not be possible to begin the trial sooner, because, after the talesmen have been notified, they will have to be granted five business days to arrange their affairs in anticipation of the possibility of their being called to serve on the murder jury. The talesmen will be notified of their selection for the special panel at once."

E. P. WESTON DISAPPEARS.

Relatives Believe That Cross-Continent Walker Is Lost Here.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Anxiety is felt for the safety of Edward Payson Weston, 88 years old, the walker who twice has crossed the country on foot. Relatives reported to police they have not heard from him since Tuesday morning, when he left the home of his niece, Mrs. Anna O'Hagan, 625 West Indiana Street, for a trip to New York.

Friends in New York say they have not heard from the aged walker. Mrs. O'Hagan had asked the New York police to search for him. She fears he may be in a hospital unable to give his identity, or may be wandering about suffering from amnesia.

Last June he was found wandering aimlessly about the east side of New York. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he was identified by news clippings he carried telling of his achievements.

At the Missing Persons Bureau of the New York Police Headquarters it was said last evening that no request had been made to search for Edward Payson Weston.

BISHOPS STAND FIRM AGAINST CALLES LAW

By L. C. SPEERS.

Says Church Stands for Peace.

Archbishop Orozco, who was speaking with the authority of the Episcopate, declared that the Mexican priesthood was misrepresented in a recently published statement that, in the event of intervention by a foreign power in the affairs of Mexico, the priests would take up arms. The Church is now and always has stood for peace and against bloodshed, and therefore the alleged statements could only be intended to hurt the priests of Mexico in the present crisis, he said.

The episcopate had never so much as referred to the possibility of armed conflict growing out of the controversy in this republic, the Archbishop said.

"I fail to understand why efforts are made to put such words in the mouths of the servants of God," he added.

The question of the attitude of the priests in the case of intervention never arose, he declared.

"The Church always seeks peace, as shown by the efforts of the Holy Father at the outbreak of the great war in 1914 to bring about peace, when he offered mediation to end hostilities between the European nations," the Archbishop continued.

"In this struggle our efforts are along the lines of peace, and there has never been any talk of using any but peaceful measures."

Reports 390 Arrested.

Altogether about 390 people were arrested in Guadalajara as a result of the Government's efforts to enforce the religious laws, Archbishop Orozco said. They were now being released one by one because the Government could not make out a case against them.

The boycott was successful in Guadalajara and in the surrounding country, he declared. Many Catholics were using candles instead of electric lights as protest and everywhere people were refraining from the purchase or use of luxuries.

The boycott was reported generally successful in the States of Guanajuato, Jalisco, Michoacan and Colima.

Text of Bishops' Statement.

The statement of the Episcopate follows:

"Before all, we wish to show in our observations that we do not want to provoke an unfruitful discussion, but we wish to make known the principles and reasons which will demonstrate on whose side are truth and justice. Against the facts there can be no arguments.

"Señor Tejeda does not wish to confess that there is a conflict, when the whole world can see there is one. To prohibit the priests from exercising their creed is something that directly injures the people, and the Minister of the Interior, Señor Tejeda, knows well the effect that is being produced in all parts of the country.

"Toward the fundamental principles of the Constitution we are as respectful as any one. We admit the separation between Church and State, but when the secondary laws seek to subject the Church to the State, in the most flagrant contradiction of the fundamental laws, we cannot, without being traitors to ourselves, admit it. The exercise of this right no Government can with reason call rebellion.

Law Was Not Enforced.

"If the Catholics did not accept the legal methods for the reform of the Constitution of 1857, that was due, among other reasons, to a prudent agreement among Government powers that those laws would remain written only because it was understood it was convenient to make them for the welfare of the nation, and, in practice, the Church, although very poor, could multiply its schools, colleges, religious associations and works of charity to such an extent that some one said that if Juarez had returned to life and had seen the results of his work he would have died of the rabies.

"The same thing occurred with the Constitution of 1917, and it was less necessary to try to effect reforms of the Constitution when we saw that its author, Señor Carranza, was the first within a year of passing the Constitution to reprove its anti-religious articles and to propose their reform.

"They have tried to throw the blame for the actual situation upon the declarations of the Archbishop of Mexico. In the first place, by judicial decision, it was shown that in these declarations there was no crime to punish. This was published in the press.

"Moreover, all the world knows that the Anti-Clerical League, captained by Señora Zarrada, is responsible for certain legislation of an anti-Church nature, and that Señora Zarrade has other legislation pending.

"One month before the statement of the Archbishop, Señor Tejeda, issued orders to the priests of San Felipe de Jesus that, as they were foreigners, they must leave Mexico.

School Stand Is Defended.

"Señor Tejeda charges the priests of Tabasco with directly requesting the Chief Executive of the nation to use his influence for the withdrawal of the law which forces the priests to marry instead of seeking a legal remedy by demanding a judicial stay.

"If this be true, it would not have cost Señor Tejeda much trouble to have issued an official circular to the priests of Tabasco, pointing out just what legal remedies they were entitled to invoke, as is the custom of all governments wishing to serve the people.

"Señor Tejeda states that the law does not oblige fathers of families to send children to public schools, as the Archbishop affirms. But if, on one side, as Señor Tejeda alleges, the law imposes education, and, on the other, orders that this education must be non-religious in all schools, even in the private and Catholic schools, we fail to understand how Señor Tejeda can assert the contrary to the statement of the Archbishop.

"Señor Tejeda sustains the claim that the actual legislation does not violate the rights of the people to their churches. We still believe that it does violate these rights because it gives the Executive ample power to dispose of them, as has been done, without trial and without admitting a defense or the reasons involved.

"And while the priests who had charge of the administration of the churches were stopped through the decree of July 2 from the exercise of their rights, that same decree prevented the faithful from receiving the sacraments to which they have a right.

"In matters of hygiene and public order, there is no necessity that the State should own the buildings.

Treasures of Church Defended.

"Referring to the charge that the clergy used the riches of the churches to provoke a revolution, that cannot be proved by Señor Tejeda, and the vulgarity of reproving with such jealousy the splendor of the faith, the richness of the churches and the so-called luxury of the prelates is answered with the unanimous approbation of the people of all epochs, who have seen all this, and who themselves are the ones who have created these necessities and customs, which agree with what mankind owes to God and His ministers.

"The registration of the ministry is a substitution of the ecclesiastic power by the civil power. The Pope, the Bishops and the Catholic people have disapproved this registration as contrary to the principle of separation of Church and the State, which is a basic principle of our Constitution.

"Speaking kindly, the Constitution and the law in religious matters are intended to destroy Catholicism in Mexico, making impossible the life of the Church because the Church cannot live without liberty, and we do not ask more than the same liberty which the Catholic Church enjoys in all civilized countries."

REGRET IN MEXICO AS SHEFFIELD LEAVES

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—Ambassador Sheffield left here this evening on his way to the United States. Despite his statement that he is only on a vacation, most of the American colony here believe he will not return. There was genuine regret at his departure, and hundreds went to the station to wish him bon voyage.

Mr. Sheffield, who started life as a poor boy, was once a member of a labor union, and at a recent luncheon he amazed Luis Morones, Minister of Industry and Commerce and head of the Regional Confederation of Labor, by his thorough knowledge of the labor situation and its aims.

During the luncheon Señor Morones remarked that the majority of Americans in Mexico were rich and could not understand the efforts of the poor laboring classes to obtain better conditions.

When Señor Morones declared that unless one had experienced the condition of the workers he could never get a real grasp of the labor situation in Mexico, Mr. Sheffield, reaching slowly into an inside pocket, drew out a card of a steam boiler engineers' union and extended it to Señor Morones, saying:

"Although now serving my country as Ambassador, I started life as a working man."

Mr. Sheffield told Señor Morones that in the United States the labor unions helped the workers directly and were not merely political organizations.

The railway station was crowded tonight by friends come to bid Mr. Sheffield and his family good-bye. Gifts of flowers and sweets were showered on them as they boarded the train for Vera Cruz, whence they will sail for home.

CALLES IS ACCUSED OF BOLSHEVIST AIMS

Former Mexican Consul General Says Gift of Church to Labor Men Reveals True Intent.

Ignacio Maran, former Mexican Consul-General at Hamburg, Germany, and a grandson of Ignacio Mariscal, former Mexican Ambassador to Washington, in commenting on the action of President Calles in turning over a seized Catholic Church to a Mexican labor union, said last night:

"The Associated Press telegram dated Mexico City, Aug. 12, states that President Calles has confiscated the chapel and grounds of the San Andres Church in Vera Cruz. He gives the building and grounds to a labor union for use as offices and headquarters.

"This is the basic Bolshevist intent hidden behind the so-called religious issue. This and no other has been and is the object of Calles in his persecution of the Church, of capital, land owners, oil companies and all other elements which have contributed toward the economic development of Mexico.

"This is the result of his promises and inducements held out to his communist and Bolshevist aids ever since his pre-election campaign and his later numerous illegal and unconstitutional attacks on all existing rights, both foreign and national, in the republic of Mexico.

LET AMERICANS SEE GRANDE

Mexicans Transfer Jailed American to New Prison.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13 (AP).—Jail authorities today permitted members of the United States Consulate staff to see J. H. Grande of Los Angeles, Cal., who had been held incommunicado for several days on a technical charge of fraud growing out of the sale of bananas.

The Mexican officials told the Consulate that the American's trial had not been held earlier because Grande himself wanted to await the arrival of documentary evidence from Los Angeles. No explanation was given as to why he had been held incommunicado.

Grande was transferred tonight from Police Headquarters to Belem Prison.

In the presence of United States Vice Consul Lewis, Grande gave the police officials a statement declaring his innocence of the charge that he took improper commissions for bananas he sold in Los Angeles for the Mexican Banana Company.

MISQUOTED ABOUT MEXICO.

Consul Did Not Blame Church for Death of Madero.

Mr. Elias did not say this, but that the murder of Madero lay morally at the door of Huerta.

PREDICTS TRIUMPH OF CHURCH LIBERALS

Dr. Dieffenbach Tells the Politics Institute a New Luther Is Awaited.

HITS ANTI-EVOLUTION LAWS

He Declares That Their Wide Success Would Lead to a State Church Here.

WORLD SANITARY CONTROL

Dr. Krimsky Says Modern Life Makes Such a Movement an Urgent Necessity.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 13.—The Rev. Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach of Boston, editor of The Christian Register, credited with being in a large measure responsible for making religion and theology "breakfast table talk in the homes of the common people," declared at the Institute of Politics today that Tennessee's ban against the teaching of evolution was in effect the establishment of a State church. A State church in Tennessee, he declared, meant that Tennessee was virtually "a monarchy in the heart of a democratic country."

The successful spread of the Tennessee anti-evolution legislation to other States, in the opinion of Dr. Dieffenbach, would be the equivalent of establishing a State church in the United States. As a State religion belonged only to a monarchy, he said that the success of the anti-evolution movement would give this nation the character of a monarchy, with Fundamentalism the State religion. However, he had no fear of such a rule and predicted the triumph of liberal principles.

Dr. Dieffenbach's views were expressed at the general conference on public opinion and world affairs conducted by Arthur S. Draper, assistant editor of The New York Herald Tribune. Dr. Dieffenbach discussed the Church and public opinion, Sir James Colquhoun Irvine, President of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, spoke on radio and public opinion, and Dr. Joseph Krimsky of Brooklyn, N. Y., read a paper on public opinion and public health.

The general strike in England was defeated by science, said Sir James, indicating that science has made it possible for the mdoern State to carry on independently of trade unions in the face of industrial upheavals such as general strikes.

Mr. Draper said the radio, motion pictures and platform speaker wielded little influence in the formation of public opinion as compared with that of the teacher and preacher.

"In my judgment we shall hear a great deal in the next eighteen months regarding tolerance," he said. "This country is soon to undergo a severe test. We shall have an opportunity of learning just how tolerant we are as a people."

Predicts a "New Reformation."

Dr. Dieffenbach, in expanding his remarks, in an interview asserted that the conflict between Modernism and Fundamentalism would admit of no compromise and would eventually result in a liberal interpretation of the Bible.

"All the churches are doing everything they can, as evidenced in the recent Baptist Convention and the Presbyterian General Assembly, to keep this issue quiet, hoping that by sitting on the lid they will make the issue pass away," he said. "But it will not, it cannot pass away. Some of these days there will come a great leader, a new Martin Luther, who will hazard his fortunes, take his ecclesiastical life in his hands, break the bonds of authority and bring a new Reformation. It will be the most glorious day in modern times. It is impossible for the churches to have peace or unity until a real settlement is made.

"I do not know a single eminent figure among the Modernist leaders who has been brave enough to declare and stand fast for the glorious liberty that belongs to the children of God. They all intimate it, but in their utterances they keep safe within their church law. I admit that were they to be forthright and tell the truth about the spiritual fallibility of the Bible they would take their lives in their hands. We would then discover that the age of martyrdom is not over."

In another part of his address Dr. Dieffenbach said that religion was becoming "big news," and that it was coming to be recognized as a factor in world change. As an example of the power of religion in the field of industry, he recalled the interchurch report on the steel industry and its effect in ameliorating the condition of the workers in the steel mills.

Mr. Draper condemned "loose talk" about the press and said that the newspapers were sensitive to public opinion. Editors welcomed friendly criticism, but resented sweeping generalizations. He sketched briefly the relations between the press and the churches in this country and said that at the present time the large daily newspapers in New York reported fully all national church assemblies, and concluded by saying that church news was occupying more and more space in the newspapers.

Foresees World Health Control.

Dr. Krimsky, an authority on questions of public health, spoke of the necessity of ridding the popular mind of the idea that on health matters one man's opinion was good as another's and even better. Health was no longer the private concern of an individual or family, but of the community and nation.

Pointing out that in these days of rapid intercommunication between nations the health and sanitation of every country became the concern of the whole world, Dr. Krimsky said that with the rapid increase in aerial travel the interdependence of the nations would necessitate an international supervision and sanitary control over sanitary measures and safeguards.

Speakers at the round table conducted by C. H. MacDowell of Chicago on potash and phosphates were J. T. Burroughs of the International Agricultural Corporation and Charles J. Brand, Executive Secretary of the National Fertilizer Association.

Plants require a balanced diet just as humans, said Mr. Brand. He pointed out that phosphorus was as necessary for crops as vitamins were to people, and said it was becoming increasingly necessary for the farmer to consider his problem from this viewpoint.

"Soft corn makes hard politics," said Mr. MacDowell, and he said that one reason for the recurring crops of soft and largely unmarketable corn was the decreasing deficiency of phosphorus in the soil. He explained that phosphorus controlled the maturity of most farm crops and that large sections of the United States were deficient in this material.

Public Opinion a Power in China.

That public opinion in China today existed independently of the proportion of literacy and has proved a tremendous force in molding Chinese affairs, was the apparent consensus today at the round table of China conducted by Henry K. Norton of New York.

The speakers included C. C. Batchelder, former American commercial attaché at Peking; Major Gen. V. Yakhontoff and Colonel R. H. Dunlop of the United States Marines.

At the round table of inter-American affairs conducted by Dr. Leo S. Rowe there was a discussion on the questions involved in the relations between the United States and Mexico.

Dr. Rowe said the Mexico of today was differeent from that of the Diaz period, as the laborers "have become conscious of their power and are demanding for themselves an increasing share of the national product, a situation which brings with it a series of complex and baffling problems the Mexican Government is compelled to face and for which a solution must be found."

The Chinese judicial code was discussed by Edwin G. Norman, a lawyer, at the round table on "International Problems Arising From the Diversities of Legal Systems," conducted by Dr. Arthur K. Kuhn of New York, President of the American branch of the International Law Association. Dr. Kuhn said that the Chinese code was well advanced and progressive.

Sir James C. Irvine, the noted British scientist, delivered a lecture tonight on "Chemistry in World Progress," describing the advances made by chemistry in recent years.

WHEELER FROWNS ON ANDREWS'S POST

Dry League Leader Says He Would Not Accept the Office of Enforcement Chief.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A statement today by Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, that he would not accept the job as head of the Federal prohibition forces if it was offered to him gave added interest to the speculation in political circles here over the repeated reports that General Lincoln C. Andrews, now chief of the Government enforcement unit, wants to quit and is staying only in deference to the Administration's wish that he remain at his post until after the Congressional elections in November.

Mr. Wheeler was critical of the manner in which the enforcement of prohibition was being handled, and expressed the belief that effective work would be virtually impossible until the present system of divided responsibility was ended and real authority given to the officer actually in charge. He added that there were many persons available capable of properly enforcing the laws and that the task was "a challenge to any red-blooded citizen."

The statement by Mr. Wheeler was in reply to an inquiry sent to him at Shelby, Mich., by The Washington Evening Star, which pointed out that the office had made of its incumbent a target of criticism from both wets and drys.

"It is contrary to the policy of the Anti-Saloon League for an official of the league to accept a political appointment or use the churches which support the league for personal political gain. I am convinced that I can serve the cause of prohibition and its enforcement better in the position I now have," said Mr. Wheeler

TORCH EXPLODES, 4 HURT.

Workmen on Brooklyn Building Burned as Walls Catch Fire.

Four workmen were severely burned yesterday by the explosion of a gasoline torch in a house in course of construction at 2,305 East Twenty-second Street, Sheepshead Bay. The men were James Brown, 400 Tremont Avenue; Isidor Cohen, 132 East Thirty-fourth Street; James Jurezer, 73 East Ninety-sixth Street, and John Healy, 154 Fourth Avenue, all Brooklyn.

Brown was using the torch when it exploded. The other men were at work in the same room, the walls of which caught fire. Other workmen put out the flames. The four men were taken to Coney Island Hospital.

Bail Fixed for Alleged Bomber.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP).—Bond of $5,000 was fixed today by County Judge W. F. Blanton in the case of Kempton Greene, Hialeah Civic Organization promoter, arrested yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to dynamite the home of H. A. Hamp, President of the Hialeah Chamber of Commerce. The arrest was made on a warrant sworn out by Hamp.

FORMER DRY AGENT FREE OF RUM CHARGE

EVIDENCE LACKING, HE SAYS

Bribe Theory Unsubstantiated, Aid Reports—One Witness Is Dead and Another Missing.

A liquor conspiracy indictment returned more than four years ago against Herbert G. Catrow, formerly Assistant Prohibition Director for the State of New York; the Hill & Hill Distillery Company and five others was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Louis Burns upon motion of United States Attorney Buckner.

The indictment alleged that the defendants had conspired to defraud the Government through the improper issuance of whisky withdrawal permits in December, 1921. Horace G. Hitchcock, Assistant United States Attorney, who investigated the findings in the true bill, reported to Mr. Buckner that there was no evidence that the defendants had received a bribe or acted improperly in issuing permits or otherwise. Others named in the indictment included Samuel P. Steckler, head of the Progressive Drug Company, 1,838 Park Avenue; David F. McGowan, Benjamin Silver, Walter Ruby and Frank Fallon.

Based on Barnes's Testimony.

The nolle prosequi papers filed by Mr. Buckner said, in part:

"The real case was predicated upon the testimony of one William H. Barnes, who testified that he knew Catrow, Fallon and McGowan; that some time around Dec. 28 or 29, 1921, McGowan handed him $17,500, telling him that this money was to procure the signatures to the papers permitting the withdrawal of 1,000 cases of whisky by the Progressive Drug Company. He gave $15,000 to Fallon and retained $2,500. He did this because Mr. Fallon had previously asked him if he knew anybody who had a permit and wanted to withdraw whisky, and if he did to get the applications made out and he (Fallon) would get them properly signed.

"Barnes acted as the intermediary. He knew McGowan and McGowan had a purchaser. Barnes testified before the Grand Jury that McGowan gave him four applications for the withdrawal of 250 cases each, and that he handed these to Fallon. He stated, however, that he did not notice the name of the vendee and that he could not identify the Progressive Drug Company permits as the ones which passed through his hands.

"Catrow himself appeared before the Grand Jury voluntarily and waived all immunity. He admitted he knew Fallon and had considerable negotiations with Fallon due to the fact that Catrow was then a member of the House Committee of the National Republican Club and Fallon represented Faber & Co., cigar merchants.

Bribery Not Charged.

"The indictment as drawn seems to charge merely a conspiracy to issue permits without conforming to all office rules and to some extent to the regulations. Bribery is not charged in the indictment as a part of the conspiracy. The real case, of course, was predicated upon the alleged bribery. The case depends upon the testimony of Barnes, corroborated mainly by the irregularities in the issuance of the permits.

"As Barnes cannot specifically identify the Progressive Drug Company withdrawal permits as the ones which passed through his hands, and as Barnes can only show a payment to Fallon, there is a decided weakness in the case against Catrow on the theory of bribery.

"One agent whose testimony is material is now dead. The whereabouts of of one important witness are now unknown.

WARNS DRY AUTHORITIES.

Black Says Poison Liquor Deaths May Bring Manslaughter Charges.

Should death result from drinking a beverage made from denatured alcohol, the prohibition authorities may be subject to a charge of manslaughter in the second degree, Representative Loring M. Black said in a statement issued yesterday. In such a case, according to Mr. Black, the warnings issued by prohibition enforcement officials against drinking that kind of beverages could be used as evidence against them.

Second degree manslaughter is defined in Section 1,042 of the Penal Law of the State as homicide "committed without a design to effect death by any act, procurement or culpable negligence of any person, which, according to the provisions of this article, does not constitute the crime of murder in the first or second degree, or manslaughter in the first degree." It is punishable by a maximum sentence of fifteen years in prison and a fine of $1,000.

Mr. Black said that when death is traceable to such poisoning the State should act to punish all persons responsible, including officials of the Federal Government.

Trapped Leopard in Montclair Turns Out to Be Only a Rat

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 13.—All Montclair was startled for a time today not because it was Friday the 13th but because the news spread that a "funny-looking animal" had been captured in one of the town cat traps. In some parts of the town the dog catcher, Jim Thomas, has traps set to catch stray cats.

Thomas rushed madly to the trap, in the rear of the home of Mrs. Lucy McKinney, 189 Montclair Avenue, thinking the animal might be the escaped leopard. Alas! it was only a rat.

RESERVES DECISION ON BUS FRANCHISE

NEW FIRM TO MAKE BIDS

Lawyer Says His Company Seeks Lines and Asks to Be Made Co-Defendant With City.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor Jr. of Mount Vernon reserved decision in the fight of the Yonkers Railroad Company, a subsidiary of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, for an injunction restraining the City of Yonkers from selling at public auction on Aug. 20 franchises for fifteen bus routes, following a hearing here today.

The hearing marked the entrance of Robert M. Clark, attorney for the Merchants' Community Bus Transit, Inc., who wished to appear either as a friend of the Court or as a co-defendant with the City of Yonkers. His company desires to submit bids for the fifteen routes.

Alfred E. Davidson, general attorney for the Third Avenue Railroad Company, opposed the sale of permits, declaring that the proposed routes parallel nineteen of the twenty-three miles of trolley routes in Yonkers; that the wording of the ordinance under which the franchises are offered for sale was such that his company was automatically barred from bidding; that any concern submitting bids would be barred from later making any protest against any route before the Public Service Commission, and that the terms of compensation that the successful bidder would give the city were not equitable.

Arthur C. Hume, Yonkers Corporation Counsel, said that the Third Avenue Company or its subsidiary, the Yonkers Railroad Company, had its remedy before the Public Service Commission, where it could oppose the granting of certificates of necessity and convenience. He charged that the trolley company was not bringing the matter to court in good faith, and said that the company had said that it would use every means within its power to prevent any bus franchises being sold, unless the franchises were worded in accordance with its wishes. This was denied by Mr. Davidson.

Try to Cap Volcano's Crater.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 13 (AP).—German engineers are engaged in the unique task of trying to cap the crater of the volcano Masaya, near the town of Masaya. They also are trying to force chemicals into the crater to neutralize the poisonous gases which are being emitted and which are causing considerable damage to crops.

THORNE AND ELLIOTT CAN STAY IN CANADA

ARRESTED IF THEY RETURN

Westchester's District Attorney to Wait for Men Accused by Miss Anderson.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—District Attorney Arthur Rowland of Westchester County today dropped his fight to extradite from Montreal, Canada, Philip C. Elliott and Richard Thorne, who are under indictment here on charges preferred by Miss Violet C. Anderson of New York, a show girl. He was informed today by the State Department in Washington that the crimes with which the two are charged are not included in the extradition treaty existing between the United States and Canada. If at any time the two are caught in the United States, it was said, they will be brought to trial.

Fleeing to Canada when it became known that the Westchester County Grand Jury was hearing Miss Anderson's story and that it probably would indict them, Thorne and Elliott were arrested and held by the Canadian authorities at the request of District Attorney Rowland early in July and have been taken before Extradition Commissioner Choquet in Montreal on several occasions.

Conflicting opinions given to Mr. Rowland as to whether the men could be extradited caused a delay in the case until last week, when Commissioner Choquet announced that he would adjourn the case for the last time. First Assistant District Attorney Walter A. Ferris went to Albany and thence to Washington to obtain extradition papers when it was reported a week ago that the men could be brought back from Canada. When the State Department's ruling arrived today Mr. Rowland immediately notified Commissioner Choquet. The men are accused of second degree assault and a statutory offense.

Miss Anderson charged that after a dinner party on June 3, at which she, Thorne and Elliott were guests, the men took her for an automobile ride, and at a lonely spot in a wood at Harrison they took her from the automobile, stripped most of her clothing from her and flogged her with leather belts. Later they took her back to her home in New York.

Mr. Rowland said today that he was preparing a description of the men and would forward it to the police of border towns, with a request for the arrest of the men on sight.

FALLS IN SUBWAY, KILLED.

Brooklyn Attorney Became Ill While Waiting for Wife in 14th St. Station

While waitiug to meet his wife in the Fourteenth Street station of the west side subway at noon yesterday, Joshua R. Bennett, 46 years old, an attorney, of 64 Brooklyn Avenue, Brooklyn, fell in front of a northbound express train and was killed. Before the train arrived in the station he was seen to stagger and it is believed that a sudden illness caused him to fall.

One car of the train passed over the body before William Harris, the motorman, could bring the train to a stop. Several women in the crowded station became hysterical. A patrolman, with the aid of subway employes, extricated the body after fifteen minutes' work.

Mr. Bennett, who had an office at 740 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, came to new York several years ago from Giddings, Texas. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marechal Nell Bennett, and a daughter, Miss Gwendolyn B. Bennett.

WOMEN SMOKERS WIN VICTORY ON HOMERIC

Liner Takes Sign Off Smoking Room and Allows Them to Enter, Since They Won't Stay Out.

When the White Star liner Homeric sailed at 12 o'clock last night for Southampton via Cherbourg the usual notice hung outside the smoking room door. "This room is for gentlemen only," was missing. Officers of the ship when questioned said it had been found impossible to keep the women passengers out of the place.

When P. A. S. Franklin crossed over to Liverpool on the Celtic the women took charge of the smoking room in the first-class and had a graphaphone playing there. They appealed to Mr. Franklin to have the ban removed on the ground that the woman paid the same fare as the men and had equal rights to any part of the first-class accommodation.

Anthony Christianson, manager of the White Star Line First Cabin Department, at 1 Broadway, said last night that he could not say whether the custom would be adopted on the Majestic and Olympic. There had been many complaints from the men passengers for the last two or three years that the women occupied the seats in the smoking room.

BULGARIA PREPARES REPLY.

Note to Protest on Raids Will Suggest League Settlement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SOFIA, Aug. 13.—The Bulgarian Cabinet yesterday examined the collective note from Yugoslavia, Greece and Rumania asking for the suppression of revolutionary organizations and the prevention of border raiding.

The Bulgarian note in reply is expected to be ready in three or four days. It will make known in advance, it is understood, the consent of Bulgaria to a settlement of the dispute by the League of Nations.

Meanwhile, it is hoped that the great powers, who have already intervened with advantage, may exert their influence again to prepare the ground of reconciliation.

The note will be amicable in tone. Attempt will be made to refute the accusations leveled at Bulgaria, and the measures of supervision on the frontier, voluntarily adopted by the Government, and the difficulties with which it is confronted for reasons beyond its control, will be explained.

TESTS ONE FONCK MOTOR.

English Mechanic Runs Engine for First Time in This Country.

George Honnour, the English mechanic who came all the way from the Jupiter Motor Factory in France to test the three Gnome-Rhone-Jupiter radial motors on which Captain René Fonck, French ace, is depending to carry him in his huge Sikorsky plane from Westbury, L. I., to Paris, managed to get the middle motor started yesterday at Roosevelt Field although the electric motor which will start the three has not been completely installed.

After the motor had run for some time Honnour expressed satisfaction with its performance and said he thought the first test flights could be made early next week.

Although all three motors, each of which is of 450 horsepower, were run for five hours in France, yesterday was the first time that any of them had been tested in this country.

MISS CANNON KEEN FOR CHANNEL TRY

EXPERTS ENCOURAGE HER

Movement for Monument to Miss Ederle Both in France and England.

BOULOGNE, Aug. 13.—"I am told I want pluck, endurance and luck," said Lillian Cannon today regarding her plans to swim the English Channel. "I know I have the pluck and endurance, but shall I have the luck?"

"Gee, I never want to see Gris-Nez again if it means waiting all this time," she said. "People at home don't realize what it is. They hear of the English Channel and think it is only a strip of water. It is not until they repeatedly are told that they realize it is no kid's game.

"Well, I'm ready and I hope to hop off Sunday. How I wish I was in the water now! But I must wait until the weather is finer," added Miss Cannon, wistfully gazing toward Dover.

It has been decided that the start shall take place at the first favorable opportunity from Sunday on. If Sunday, the start will be two hours before dawn, catching the Ederle course.

Miss Cannon is well supplied with expert advice. Besides Weidman there are Burgess and Wolff disengaged, and they have placed their services entirely at her disposal, promising everything to insure sucess.

In the event of doubtful weather the services of Miss Ederle's tug, the Alsace, are possible. Then Miss Cannon must have La Morine, which is also equipped with wireless.

A large party of journalists and friends will get accommodations, forming many amateur glee parties and encouraging the swimmer. It is hoped that she won't be troubled with sharks, as have some others. A small accompanying boat patrol close around the swimmer will keep guard.

Great interest is taken here in the attempt. It is felt that what one has done another can do. Burgess says he sees no reason why she should not put up a good fight. A good course has been worked out and Captain Corthes of the Alsace has supplied chart markings of the Ederle course, which will be followed as far as possible.

"Oh, for Sunday night," were Miss Cannon's last words in saying goodnight.

Gertrude Ederle's success seems to have increased, not diminished, her keenness. Wolff, who has been carefully watching her last few days' training, says, "She is not so large of bud, but she has a good, steady stroke, which means a lot."

Miss Cannon has not been swimming much lately, but has been taking careful exercise and massage and eating and sleeping well, and is in the healthiest condition.

There is considerable diversity of opinion regarding the site of the proposed memorial to Miss Ederle. When first mooted, a monument at the starting point, opposite the Hotel Sirene at Gris-Nez, was talked of. It is a prominent position and is passed by tourists on the way to the beach. Mayor Vincent of Calais, who lives here, favors the scheme, and a movement is afoot to collect the necessary funds from Americans in France under the guidance of Consuls Corcoran at Boulogne and Smith at Calais.

Kingsdown, England, on the other hand, contends that a monument should be erected there, where Miss Ederle landed. It is possible that two memorials may be erected—one here and one in England.

The Channel Swimming Club of England, which gave a great challenge cup before the war to the first Channel victor, the winner being Burgess, and also erected the Webb memorial at Dover, is being asked to give the Ederle scheme consideration at an early meeting.

MISS EDERLE HEARS OF DEATH OF AUNT

BISSINGEN, Germany, Aug. 13 (AP).—Gertrude Ederle's triumphal visit to the home of her grandmother here has been overclouded by news of the death of an aunt in the United States on the day of her brilliant Channel swim a week ago. The news had been withheld from Miss Ederle so as not to spoil her pleasure over the honors accorded her in France and Germany. Last night a relative here inadvertently told it.

Miss Ederle sobbed and remained in seclusion all morning. She appeared for only a moment to review a parade of village school children.

Motion picture operators and reporters besieged her grandmother's house vainly today. An exhibition swim in a lake near by also has been called off.

Miss Ederle has declined an offer of the South German Broadcasting Station to speak for ten minutes for a large remuneration. She refused a similar offer in Paris.

Miss Ederle arrived last night, accompanied by her father and two sisters, after a triumphal passage through Stuttgart and neighboring villages. The village Magistrate welcomed her, the firemen's band played native airs and a choir sang folk songs.

When Gertrude saw her grandmother, who is 75, she jumped from the automobile, rushed up and hugged and kissed her.

"I never dreamed the name of Ederle would achieve world fame."

Then the entire Ederle clan, comprising most of Grandmother Ederle's twenty-one children and her fifty grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, held a reunion inside the inn.

Gertrude greatly amused her relatives with her quaint mixture of Swabian dialect, into which she occasionally threw high German and English words.

The coming of Miss Ederle had kept the town in a state of feverish excitement. There were meetings of the Town Council and incessant rehearsals of the singing society, forty-eight strong. A brass band was commissioned for the occasion from a neighboring town.

Graves's Victory Conceded.

ernors should seek re-election, and this took part of their time and must influence them in the second year of their term.

"I will say frankly," he added, "that it is not at all unusual for appropriations in the second year to be made, not with reference to the best interests of the people of the State, but with regard to what will make the best political argument about election day. I have never put the interest of the party to which I belong ahead of the interest of the people of the State."

Governor Smith said it was unwise and unfair to elect a Governor in a year when national issues, such as the tariff, were uppermost in the minds of the voters. He quoted Joseph H. Choate as supporting this idea when the municipal elections were by law set for years other than those of State elections.

"By holding the State elections in years other than those of national elections," said the Governor, "you compel both the great parties to put forward their best material and you prevent second-rate men getting a free ride into the Executive Chamber behind some great national issue."

The reason it had taken eleven years to get the progress in Government that is now about to be attained, he said, was that the people themselves were not sufficiently interested and he called attention to the fact that Elihu Root, in the constitutional convention, had made a personal appeal for the very thing now being brought about years later.

Sees Some Progress Made.

In the main, the Governor said, he was satisfied that progress had been made now in New York State, and that, by comparison with the other States of the Union, it was "out in front." He insisted, however, that more public interest was necessary, and, comparing the State Government to a great business corporation, with the Governor as President, the Legislature as directors, and the public as stockholders, he said:

"If the stockholders do not take a little more interest it will be impossible to bring this business of the State Government up to that state of efficiency which pertains in other great business enterprises."

After the meeting the Governor was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Chautauqua Institution at the Golf Club here. He and his party then left for Buffalo, where they will remain tomorrow.

The party made a late start from Jamestown this morning and stopped at the Summer home of Frank Mott on the shores of Lake Chautauqua for luncheon. There the Governor's son and his wife and Catherine Smith left the party and went in for a swim, motoring direct to Buffalo afterward.

Jamestown, in a measure, made amends this morning for its apparent lack of hospitality last evening, and scores visited the Jamestown Hotel to meet the Governor personally, while a large crowd gathered in the street and gave the Governor a round of cheers as he left.

who was back of the petitioner, Finley, in the present investigation was told by Finley just prior to adjournment. He was recalled at his own request. He said:

"Dr. Sullivan, who came in here as a character witness against me, was the prime mover in this prosecution of gambling. Time and time again he told me and other men that he wanted it started. He was a prime mover and my bosom companion in the Tax Payers' Association. Leary took him away with the bait of a $2,500 a year job."

Appointed Milk Inspector.

Sullivan, known as an anti-Leonard, anti-Leary man in local politics for several years, recently accepted an appointment from Commissioner Leonard as milk inspector at a salary of $2,500 annually, his duties being to enforce the milk ordinance recently adopted here. Sullivan is a veterinarian. Following is the complete text of Justice Heffernan's closing remarks:

"Gentlemen: The way I feel about it is this. There are only two issues here. First, whether or not gambling has existed in Saratoga Springs during the time set forth in these charges; that is, during 1925 and 1926. The second is whether or not these three respondents knew, or should have known in the exercise of due diligence, of the existence of such places if they did exist. As I look at it, those are the two issues. Those issues are entirely for the Governor. I am not the tribunal to pass upon it at all. I merely report this evidence with my conclusions.

"I want to say that I have been shocked at some of the things that have been shown here. Other issues have come in, not part of the case at all. I was shocked when three witnesses came into this court and under some one's advice willfully and contumaciously and deliberately refused to testify. I do not think they have helped anybody's case, nor do I believe that justice should be flouted in that way.

Demands Respect for Law.

"So far as I can accomplish it I am going to see that men cannot come into a court of justice and refuse to give evidence and escape punishment. I think we ought to have some respect for the law, for constituted authority, and respect for the Court, and especially lawyers.

"I think the advisers of these men have a good deal to answer for. They perhaps thought they would succeed in having these witnesses walk into court and refuse to answer questions and walk out free men. That was not my notion of it, and as a result they are in Ballston Jail, where they are going to stay, if the public officials will see that the order is enforced.

"Now, so far as the charges against Mr. Leary and Mr. Andrus are concerned, Mr. Leary invited them. I do not know why he did it as to himself. It was not in issue here. I do not understand just why Mr. Andrus invited it. His explanation now is that he did not expect it. I assume he did not, as it has nothing to do with these charges.

"The gambling issue of minor importance, it seems to me, in comparison with these charges. They are the most serious questions of fact. If public officials, if men who have sworn to uphold the Constitution and have sworn to enforce the laws have become faithless to their oaths we are in a serious condition in Saratoga County or in any other county of the State. And especially if a District Attorney of a county, charged with the enforcement of the criminal law, is willing to sell his influence, is willing to have fixers, bribers—willing to use people of that type—then it is a very serious situation, and for your sake, Mr. Andrus, I hope that that charge is not true.

Reputation of Bar at Stake.

"I hope for the sake of the bar of the State of New York that it is not so. I would be loath to feel that a public official, a District Attorney, a man educated in the law, trained in the high ideals of that profession, sworn to uphold its best traditions, should deliberately prove so faithless to his oath of office as to do those things.

"It seems to me, Mr. Andrus, in your behalf, these matters should be investigated by a proper tribunal; that it ought to be investigated by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on your own motion and on your own application.

"Now, if those charges are true; if any part of those charges are true, as to that taking of a bribe or the taking of money for his influence, then I think you must concede that a man who would do that is not fit to remain in public office, not fit to remain a member of the bar of the State, not fit to be an officer of justice; and for those reasons I hope those charges are not true.

Lawyers Should Be Examples.

"If we men as lawyers are not willing to enforce the law, if instead of enforcing it we are going to flout it, if instead of upholding justice we are going to do injustice, if instead of suppressing crime we are going to protect it, then what can we expect of the people? It is our duty, the duty of the Judges and the lawyers to do it. They should be the exemplar. Every lawyer should be the exemplar in his community, and a lawyer who is not that type is not fit to remain a member of the bar.

"I shall report the evidence to the Governor when I get the testimony and I shall make such recommendation as I think the evidence warrants. Then the Governor will be the ultimate tribunal to pass upon the case."

STATE REFERENDUM ON DRY ACT UPHELD

may contain alcoholic properties without being deemed violative of the Eighteenth Amendment shall be for the determination within their respective boundaries of the respective States. Such a modification would be equivalent to the omission to define by Federal statute what shall be deemed a beverage, the manufacture and production of which would constitute a violation of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"The question proposed, as thus literally construed, is futile, because Congress could not constitutionally do that which those voting in the affirmative would by such vote suggest that it should do. The purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment was to make the prohibition of the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of beverages which are intoxicating uniformly operative and efficacious throughout the United States, and to cast upon Congress the duty of defining the prohibited beverages, and of enacting such regulations and sanctions as were essential to make the amendment operative when defined.

"Before the adoption of the amendment, and since its passage, it has been in the power of the States to pass laws operative within their respective borders, and enforceable through their courts, making penal and punishable the manufacture, sale and use of given beverages, and in that connection to define without regard to Federal enactments what shall within such State statutes be deemed an intoxicating beverage. Congress cannot abrogate its power to define for purposes of enforcement through the Federal court what shall be deemed an intoxicating beverage and confer upon the States the right to define for purposes of enforcements through Federal tribunals what shall and what shall not be deemed a violation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"It does not, however, follow that because the question to be submitted, literally taken, suggests an expression of opinion as to whether Congress should do that which it cannot constitutionally do, and that the putting of it when so viewed is futile, that the law assailed is unconstitutional. Its constitutionality does not depend upon utility or futility, its folly or wisdom. It depends upon whether it is within the Constitution of the State, in reality a legislative act, and whether if it be one, it is in terms outside of the powers conferred upon the Legislature.

Finds It Complete Law.

"The act assailed is an exercise of legislative power because it confers rights and imposes duties which, but for it, would not exist. It gives to the qualified voter a right, at a given time and in a prescribed way, to indicate his views upon a designated question—a right which but for it he would not have. It is a complete law, for it leaves nothing unprovided for necessary to the accomplishment of the purpose for which it was enacted."

Referring to the importance of the question, Justice Crain said that few persons would deny "that for centuries the intemperate use of intoxicating liquor has been an evil, and few, if any, will deny that this evil is present in the United States today." Commenting on the effect of habitual drunkenness the Court said:

"Its blighting hand for the past 150 years has produced in our land houses without windows, gardens without fences, fields without tillers, barns without roofs and children without clothing, principles or morals. A recognition of the evil and the purpose to curb, if not to suppress it, have led to the enactment of many laws and ordinances, and to differing policies of legislation as between different localities and States, and at times to opposing stands by equally conscientious and high-minded persons, denominations and parties. The momentous character of the issue and the earnestness and zeal of the partisans of conflicting theories of legislation have led to intensity of feeling and at times to lamentable misunderstandings and bitterness."

Justice Crain refers to the arguments advanced for and against the present Volstead law, and in concluding his opinion says:

"It is in no sense the province or duty of a court to waive the merits of legislation, but it may be said that there is excellent reason to believe that the law assailed will in reality serve an important and beneficial end in that it will be the medium for the ascertainment of the sentiment of the people not merely on the subject of prohibition but more specifically on the question as to the modification of the Volstead act.

Sees Value in Discussion.

"The Volstead act is not an unchangeable or unrepealable statute. The power that made it can repeal it and remake it, and the discussions which are sure to follow as a result of the proposed submission will lead to an intelligent and thoughtful consideration by the people as to what, if anything, can be done, and as to what, if anything, should be done respecting a problem of complexity and a matter of vital importance.

"Prohibition referendums, or what virtually will amount to referendums, are promised on a state-wide scale in eighteen States in next November's elections. They are already assured in New York, Wisconsin, Colorado, Montana and Nevada. In New York and Wisconsin they were provided for by legislative enactment. In Colorado, Montana and Nevada the petition method was used. In Missouri a referendum petition is being circulated now. In California there is a prospect that the Legislature will follow the example of the Legislatures of New York and Wisconsin.

"To grant the plaintiff's present application would defeat the commendable purpose of the Legislature and run counter to the desires of a vast majority of our people. Regardless of the form in which the question on the ballot is put, the referendum provided for in the law, and now made available to the people of the city, is a nonpartisan attempt to learn the views of the voters on the subject of the enforcement of prohibition. According as they vote they will express approval of the law as it stands or evidence a view for its change. For, disregarding form, it is known to all that the way in which the change shall be made, if any change is made, will be a matter for the thoughtful consideration of Congress, and that that body, while acting in obedience to the Constitution, will give due weight to properly authenticated popular sentiment. These considerations lead to the denial of the plaintiff's motion for a temporary injunction."

SOUTHAMPTON HAS A STREET CARNIVAL

Women of the Summer Colony Make Merry in Aid of Village Fund.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN GUESTS

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 13.—Agawam Park was a scene of merry-making yesterday afternoon and last night while the costume street carnival of the Southampton Village Improvement Association was held there. The park was enclosed by a fence that was barricaded with boughs, which, with their leaves, served as roofs for the booths.

Barkers invited the wandering crowds to have cooling drinks and ice cream cones, have their palms read, buy hot dogs and try their luck at shooting arrows, tossing hoops over prizes and winning lucky numbers on the wheel of fortune.

The youngsters of the Southampton Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children were guests of the association during the afternoon and reveled in "Wonderland," where there were ponies and donkeys to ride and various games. Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Mrs. John W. Kiser and Mrs. Harold M. Wall had charge of a haystack where presents might be found by burrowing. Mrs. John Peck was in charge of the games.

Handed Out Prizes.

Grenville Walker and Pelham Stevens handed out prizes to those who shot with bows and arrows balloons fastened in a tree. Jack de Milhau, Pierre Irving, William Ladd and Peter Jackson, dressed as plumbers' assistants, did a flourishing business in the "Hoop-La" booth, of which Mrs. Louis du Pont Irving was Chairman.

Ice cream and orangeade were in demand at a booth presided over by Mrs. Andrew R. Shiland, who had Mrs. Albert F. Jaeckel and Miss Helen Schwenk as assistants. Mrs. James B. Drew sold hot dogs and Miss Adelaide Corwith silk floss candy. Leland Burnett had charge of the "Beano" booth and was ably assisted by Mrs. William Frankenback, Mrs. Howard B. Morris, Mrs. William I. Lafon and Miss Helen Frankenback.

The prize booth was in charge of the Misses Florence Edwards, Evelyn Sumner, Helen McLaughlin and Evelyn Cartwright. Miss Ella de Milhau and Miss Elizabeth Barry in "hayseed" costumes sold ducks, chickens and pigeons.

Mrs. George Dewitt was in charge of the "Kandy Kids." Assisting her were the Misses Margaret Torry, Marguerite Corwith, Lois Stetson and Gwendolyn Smith, all of whom contributed some of the tempting wares they sold. Miss Agnes Keyes also contributed fudge.

Mrs. Finley Peter Dunne, assisted by Miss Peggy Dunne, Mildred Lee and Fonanda Sheesley, twirled the wheel of fortune.

At the Baby Show.

Mrs. Stuart Duncan Preston had charge of the baby show. The infants who won silver cups were: First, Richard Keen Anthony, 8½ months old, and second, Mildred Lewis, 4½ months.

Mrs. E. Y. Edwards and twelve women of the village had a large booth from which they served a buffet supper between 5 and 8. They sold homemade cake all afternoon.

Gypsy fortune tellers assisting Mrs. Frederick Van Lennep were Mrs. Charles H. Higgins, Mrs. William Halsted Vander Poel, Miss Marjorie Drew, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Miss Genevieve Clendenin and Princess Rospigliosi.

Mrs. Edward P. Mellon and Mrs. Albert B. Boardman had a "poker hand" booth. Contestants who threw darts at cards on a board and were lucky enough to strike a good poker hand received prizes.

Mrs. E. Stewart Davis Jr., in a hobo costume, conducted a "floating island." Cold drinks, bananas and other refreshments were dispensed by Mrs. William Thaw 3d, Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson and the Misses Virginia Thaw, Mary Alice Waller and Gladys Graham, all wearing chefs' caps and big aprons, some of red oilcloth and some of white.

Boxing Matches by Boys.

Tony Duke and Jeff Potter, Denny Vander Poel and Bobby Glaenzer, Tommy Shevlin and Grosvenor Nicholas and other boys took part in the boys' boxing matches in the afternoon, under the direction of Walter C. Monaghan.

The country store was a great attraction. It was stocked with everything from lettuce to silver cups. Its postoffice was most realistic. Mrs. John Elliott was postmistress. Assisting Mrs. Claflin Breeze, owner of the store, were Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, Mrs. George Vietor, Mrs. J. Couper Lord, Miss Eleanor Lamson, Miss Louise Vietor, the Misses Adelaide and Eleanor Hutton and many others.

A bit of comedy was enacted late in the afternoon when Joshua and Samantha (E. Stewart Davis Jr. and Miss Zella De Milhau) drove into the park in a buggy, bringing the key of the city, which after a long search fell out of Samantha's umbrella. The key was presented to the distinguished visitor of the day, who appeared to be a dignified elderly French count. He proved to be William I. Lafon, a young man of the village, President of the Lions Club.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Miss Victoria Stephens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Stephens of New Rochelle, and James M. Gahan, son of James P. Gahan of New Rochelle, were married this morning at 10 o'clock in St. Gabriel's Church. The Rev. Father Klug of St. John the Evangelist Church, New York, performed the ceremony.

Miss Edna Stephens, a sister of the bride, and Miss Theresa Armbuster of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., were the bridesmaids. Stephen Loughman of New Rochelle was the best man. The ushers included John Victory, Morris Ahearn, a cousin of the bridegroom; Herman Kamph and Leon Creaturo, all of New Rochelle.

The bride is a graduate of the New Rochelle High School. The bridegroom attended Columbia University. After a motor trip to Canada the couple will reside in New Rochelle.

ASSAILS CITY'S TAX PLAN.

Browne Says 1927 Budget Could Be Cut $38,000,000 by Mandamus.

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, declared yesterday that any taxpayer could compel the City Administration by mandamus proceedings to reduce the proposed 1927 budget by $38,000,000. Mr. Browne said that the State Constitution limited the city tax on real and personal property to 2 per cent., exclusive of the direct State tax and the tax for city debt service.

He declared the city illegally calculated this 2 per cent. on valuations one year ahead, basing the 1927 budget on 1926 assessments instead of those of 1925, and that it illegally issued each year about $18,000,000 in special revenue bonds for city and county expenses outside the 2 per cent. limit.

"The legal function of the Board of Estimate, as contained in its title," he said, "is to estimate its income and apportion such income among its several activities. Instead of doing this it makes appropriations for its several activities and trusts to luck and 'kite-flying' to provide the necessary income to meet such appropriations."

HONOR DR. FELIX ADLER.

New Yorkers Visit His Adirondacks Home on His 75th Birthday.

A "pilgrimage" to St. Hubert's, in the Adirondack Mountains, was made yesterday by friends of Dr. Felix Adler and members of the New York Ethical Culture Society to felicitate Dr. Adler on his seventy-fifth birthday. Visitors went from-near-by mountain resorts as well as from this city to Dr. Adler's Summer home, where informal exercises were held.

This year also marks the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Ethical Culture movement, which was founded here by Dr. Adler, with about one hundred charter members. The movement has since spread to several of the larger cities in this country and to European countries.

Fairfield Hunt Club Horse Show.

The third annual Horse Show of the Fairfield County Hunt Club will be held on Sept. 2, 3 and 4 on the club grounds in Westport, Conn. Captain John Tupper Cole of the United States Military Academy at West Point, William T. Koch and General Charles I. Debevoise of New York will be the judges.

A RUSSIAN EVENING DRAWS EAST HAMPTON

300 Colony Members Enjoy a Program Given at the Maidstone Club.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST HAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 13.—The Russian evening given by the women's committee of the Maidstone Club tonight was one of the most delightful affairs held there this season. The large ballroom was decorated to resemble a Russian village street, the boxes along the sides representing cottages. The boxholders were Mrs. William H. Woodin, Mrs. W. C. Dickerman, Mrs. Harry Hamlin, Mrs. Francis Newton, Mrs. Robert Appleton, Mrs. Scott McLanahan, Mrs. Clarence Alcott, Mrs. John F. Erdmann, Mrs. E. H. Graves, Mrs. C. T. Shoemaker, Mrs. Joseph H. Seaman and Miss Birch Mahaffey.

More than 300 of the colony were present. Beside the hostesses of box parties, patronesses included Mrs. George Ethridge, Mrs. Albert Herter, Mrs. E. Clifford Potter, Mrs. Harold O. Barker, Mrs. George McAlpin, Mrs. Winthrop Gardiner, Mrs. William S. Jenney, Mrs. John V. Bouvier Jr., Mrs. Ogden Edwards, Mrs. Samuel Price Wetherill and Mrs. Matthew C. Fleming.

Others were Mrs. Carlisle J. Gleason, Mrs. Rodney Burnett, Mrs. William M. Leslie, Mrs. Edward C. Chisholm, Mrs. Eltinge F. Warner, Mrs. Wallace Reid, Mrs. Ellery James, Mrs. W. W. Benjamin, Mrs. Carl F. Wolff, Mrs. John N. Cole, Mrs. Samuel T. Skidmore and Mrs. James Zeveley.

The ushers and program girls, in Russian peasant costumes, were the Misses Judith Hamlin, Maude Bouvier, Patsy Graves and Betty Jenney.

Dinners were given at the club by Mrs. Scott McLanahan, Mrs. Henry R. Sutphen, Mrs. Paul Iaccaci and others early in the evening. Others of the colony gave dinners at home, taking their guests afterward to the club.

The program was arranged by Bernardo Olshansky, baritone, who sang several groups of Russian songs, accompanied in most of them by Ralph Douglass, pianist. In two he was accompanied by the Balalaika Orchestra, which also delighted the audience with several selections, nearly all by modern Russian composers, and played for the dancing by Vitale Fokine and Mme. Maria Fokina.

Proceeds from the affair will be used for the club's music fund, which will also benefit from a treasure hunt on Aug. 28 and a fancy dress ball on Sept. 4, the latter to be given by the women's committee. The committee includes Mrs. George Ethridge, Mrs. Harry Hamlin, Mrs. Hamilton King, Mrs. Francis Newton, Mrs. Robert Appleton, Mrs. Edward S. Perot Jr., Mrs. John N. Cole, Mrs. Clarence A. Alcott and Mrs. James W. Zeveley.

Entries for the horse show to be held on Aug. 21 by the East Hampton Riding Club, of which James R. McMann is Secretary, nave closed. They include Summer colonists from all the Hamptons.

A. P. MOORE OPERATED ON.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (2 A. M.)—Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburgh, former United States Ambassador to Spain, was said tonight by officials of the American Hospital at Neuilly to be resting fairly well and doing better. The opinion was expressed that there was no cause for alarm but that it would take some time for the former diplomat to get on his feet again.

Mr. Moore was taken to the hospital yesterday when the Majestic boat train reached Paris. He was suffering from what appeared to be an acute attack of sciatica. He had been under treatment during most of the trip from New York and came ashore on emergency crutches. The American Hospital attendants met the train with a stretcher and swiftly transferred the patient to the hospital.

PARIS, Aug. 13 (AP).—It is learned that Alexander P. Moore, former American Ambassador to Spain, whose removal to the American Hospital at Neuilly was ascribed to sciatica, underwent a more or less serious operation on the knee for removal of the effects of an old injury. Dr. Charles S. Bove, who performed the operation, said today his patient would be confined for at least a fortnight.

TAFT MUCH IMPROVED.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Quebec, Aug. 13.—A decided improvement in the condition of Chief Justice Taft, former President of the United States, was reported by Dr. McNaughton of Montreal from Murray Bay this evening. The Chief Justice has so far recovered from his latest heart attack that today he was able to take a little exercise in the vicinity of his villa. It was also stated from the Summer resort that his complete recovery is now only a matter of time.

It is not probable, however, that the Chief Justice will leave Murray Bay before the middle of September to resume his judicial duties in Washington.

GEORGE A. GLYNN SINKING.

Slight Hope for Ex-Chairman of Republican State Committee.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—Slight hope is held for the recovery of George A. Glynn, former Chairman of the Republican State Committee, who is ill in a hospital at Watertown, according to a dispatch received here today. Mr. Glynn was taken to the hospital more than a week ago and on last Friday underwent an operation. His condition showed improvement after the operation, but since has taken a turn for the worse and he is reported sinking gradually. Physicians attending him at the Good Samaritan Hospital report his condition as very low.

LONG HAIRED BEAUTIES WIN

Only Third Prize Goes to Bobbed Girl in Red Head Contest.

Bobbed hair was not popular with the judges of the red head bathing beauty contest at the Luna Park pool, Coney Island, yesterday. The winners of first and second prizes—Miss Winfred Ford, 19 years old, a stenographer of 1,445 University Avenue, the Bronx, and Miss Dorothy June, 19, of 147 West Forty-eighth Street—had long tresses. The winner of third prize, Miss Ruth Belle Jewel, 18, of 372 Chestnut Street, Brooklyn, had a curly bob, however.

Thirty girls entered the contest and a crowd of several hundred looked on,

Pirate Dissension Results in Ban on Carey—Miss Wills May Not Defend Title

MAX CAREY OUSTED IN PIRATE UPHEAVAL

League Leaders, at Height of Pennant Race, Suspend and Ask Waivers on Captain.

ADAMS AND BIGBEE OUT

CLARKE THE STORM CENTRE

Players Accused of Leading in Move to Oust Former Pilot From Bench—Traynor Now Captain.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13 (AP).—The unconditional release of Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee and the suspension of Captain Max Carey without pay indefinitely were announced tonight at the Pirates' headquarters after a meeting of the players with club officials to discuss dissension in the ranks.

Club officials said waivers would be asked on Carey and that he would be shipped immediately to any club claiming him. Pie Traynor was named captain to succeed Carey.

The shake-up followed a movement, led by the three players, to oust from the players' bench Fred Clarke, Vice President of the club and advisor to Manager McKechnie.

With the champions leading the National League pennant chase at this vital stage of the race, Sam Dreyfuss, Treasurer of the club and son of the owner, Barney Dreyfuss, who is in Europe, decided late today to go to the bottom of the affair at once. When the players arrived from the East on a special train they went to Forbes Field, home of the Pirates, where a meeting was held. Before the session young Dreyfuss said: "I'll do all the talking."

Clarke Demanded Showdown.

The release of the veterans, Adams and Bigbee, and the passing of Carey from the Pirate picture, was Dreyfus's reply to charges of some players that two men—Clarke and McKechnie—were bossing the club. The drastic shake-up came after Clarke had announced he would not return to the bench until heavy penalties had been inflicted upon the offenders.

Revival of internal strife in the ranks of the players dated from the recent loss of a double-header to Boston, the Braves blanking the Pirates twice. Carey, in a statement, said he had heard several players comment adversely on the presence of Clarke on the bench. He approached McKechnie and after telling the manager of the criticism, he said, McKechnie appeared to favor the captain's stand.

It was decided, Carey said, to put it up to the players. Carey explained that in acting as he did, he, as captain of the team, was a spokesman for the dissenters. He said he felt he had the majority. Reports have it that a vote of the players later showed only six men voting against Clarke, the three involved in tonight's action and three others, as yet unnamed.

Clarke, learning of the movement, demanded action. Cooperating in the management of the club with young Dreyfus he stood in the pasition to get action. He said he was surprised and pained to learn of any such movement, since it hurt the club's chances to gain a second world's championship and seriously affected the morale of the players.

His every suggestion, he said, had been made in good faith, with the idea that it would help win ball games. McKechnie upheld Clarke. He spoke of their friendly relations on the playing field and commended Clarke highly for his assistance in managing a championship nine.

Two Are Former Clarke Products.

Sports writers, close followers of Pirate fortunes for years, pointed with surprise to the fact that Carey and Adams were named as leaders of the ousting movement. These men developed into big league stars under the watchful eye of Clarke who, while playing-manager of the Pittsburgh team in years gone by, stepped down from his centrefield berth to give Carey his chance in the big show.

Adams likewise was developed by Clarke and, in the Pirate-Detroit world's series of 1909, it was Clarke who sent the Babe to undying baseball fame by placing him on the mound in the crucial contests. The Babe received credit for winning the series but in the background stood the man who brought him up and developed him—Clarke.

Carey, in explaining his part in the anti-Clarke movement, made it plain that there was nothing personal; that he had the interest of the club at heart.

After winning the pennant of 1909, Clarke went West to handle his personal business. Last year, while the Pirates were in a slump, rumor had it that Clarke was to purchase an interest in the club. As the Pirates lost ground in the race, Clarke was named as Vice President and Barney Dreyfuss placed him in uniform on the bench, where he was to give McKechnie the benefit of his baseball knowledge. Soon after Clarke took his seat the team started forward and after a victorious fight in the National League went on to a world's championship by downing Washington.

Dreyfuss Makes Statement.

At the meeting Dreyfuss, delivering the decision agreed upon by himself, Clarke and McKechnie, said:

"I have been chosen to do the talking. It is very distasteful to me. We are here to deal with what we think was an unwarranted step on the part of three members of the club. We cannot see how this group of men could give their proposition due thought and then continue with it. Clarke, McKechnie and myself came to a quick conclusion that any attempt at an insurrection of players must be put down at its inception.

"We engage players to play and to stay in condition on and off the field. Clarke, McKechnie and I each have our separate and distinct duties to perform. Those tasks cover a multitude of responsibilities, but we cannot tolerate that which has happened in our ranks.

"After considering the matter with extreme care, we have come to the following conclusion with regard to the three involved:

"Charles Adams, unconditionally released.

"Carson Bigbee, unconditionally released.

"The Pirate officials found it very hard to take this action on these players, who were the oldest in the point of service, but it was our only way out.

"The management of the club believes that the players who are loyal in every way will continue to hustle in every way with the idea of keeping the team on top, where it belongs.

"And, furthermore, if the opportunity comes to purchase stars who will help the Pirates, the Pittsburgh management will spend unlimited sums to add to the efficiency of the club."

Carey, in a statement this afternoon, said that he had no apology to make for his part in the affair, adding that he was acting as a spokesman for what he thought was a majority instead of a minority of the players.

"No team can thrive under two managers," Carey said in commenting on the situation. "That is not said with any special reference to Fred Clarke," the Pirate captain said, "for he and I are good friends. But it is a general baseball proposition that holds true on any club."

Carey said that after the team lost a double-header to Boston, McKechnie suggested that a meeting be held to discuss the welfare of the club, but that he called it off a half hour before the meeting time.

"Later Clarke came to the clubhouse and said he would not appear again on the bench if he were not wanted," Carey added. "The next day a vote was taken by the players as to whether he should be asked to retire. That is all there is to it."

Inability of the Pirates to reach Forbe Field on time despite the chartering of a special train caused postponement of today's game with Chicago. The game will be played off as a doubleheader Sept. 9. The Pirates were held up by the storm in New York.

The Pirates have acquired two new outfielders, Eddie Murphy of the Rochester Club, formerly with the Athletics, and Fred Brickell of the Wichita Club of the Western League. Murphy will report today and Brickell next Wednesday. With the arrival of Brickell, the Pittsburgh roster will have one more player than League regulations permit. One player will be released but the management has given no indication as to who will be let out.

Little Surprise Caused Here.

With reports of dissension emanating from the Pirates' camp at frequent intervals during the past few weeks, the drastic shake-up given to the team by Pittsburgh officials yesterday did not cause much surprise in local baseball circles. Indeed, what has surprised critics most has been the tenacious manner in which the Pirates have clung to the lead despite internal troubles.

The first indication that there were serious difficulties within the ranks came about a month ago when, during a series with the Giants at Forbes Field, Manager McKechnie publicly censured Yde, Gooch and Moore for indifferent playing and later traded Moore to the Braves. This seemed to have the desired effect, for the Pirates continued to press forward and went into the lead about a fortnight ago. Fighting for their second successive National League pennant, the world's champions are now two full games ahead of the Cardinals.

The three players who drew the wrath of the club officials yesterday are all veteran players of the team. Babe Adams is the dean of all major league pitchers, and with the exception of two years has been with the Pirates since 1909. He was released by the Pirates in 1917 to St. Joe and in 1918 was transferred to Kansas City, but in 1919 he was recalled by the Pirates and has been with them ever since. In 1921, at the age of 39, he had another great year, winning fourteen games and losing five. He is now 44 years old.

Max Carey is another who for many years has been regarded as a Pirate fixture. He came to the Pirates in 1911 from South Bend and has been with them ever since. He has been one of the leading base stealers in the National League for many years, topping the league in this department in ten seasons. This year, however, he was taken ill during the training season and has been far below his form. He is 36 years old.

Carson Bigbee, who is 31, came to the Pirates in 1916 from Tacoma and also has been with no other major league team during his career. He was an effective hitter in 1921 and 1922, but fell off in recent campaigns and hit only .238 last season.

HOMERS HELP YANKS HALT LOSING STREAK

Two for Gehrig and One for Combs Contribute to Walter Johnson's Downfall, 7-5.

RUTH ALSO HITS TIMELY

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—If Miller Huggins could find some pretext for fining each one of his lagging pitchers $200 or thereabouts every day or so from now on the winning of the American League pennant by the Yankees might be accomplished by a comfortable margin and with some cash left in the cash register of Ed. Barrow up at the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 26.

After meeting the managerial wrath of Huggins on Wednesday when he tossed a ball against the grandstand after being dragged from a losing game, Waite Hoyt came back this afternoon and downed Walter Johnson in one of the toughest battles of the year. The score was 7 to 5 and Hoyt had to pitch every inch of the perspiring way to win the last game of the trip. The Senators will be at the Stadium for two games tomorrow.

It's hard to beat a team which has the winning habit, and it's hard to get a team, which has been losing, back into the paths of righteousness. When Walter Johnson walked out to warm up before the game, Bucky Harris suddenly having shifted his plans because of three straight victories over the Hugmen, there were few who thought the Yanks could escape a fourth drubbing, especially when it was noted that Hoyt was to do the pitching for the Yanks. But two sterling members of the Yankee entourage took care of the case of Johnson, and Hoyt unexpectedly came through.

Babe and Lou Do Damage.

If this proves to be the game marking the turning point of the Yankees' fortunes, pass the plans to Henri Louis Gehrig, the Columbia slugger. Don't forget Babe Ruth in passing out the encomiums. Buster Lou smeared two homers from the assortment of curves Johnson turned in together with a man's sized single. And Ruth collaborated with Louis by cracking a double and a three-bagger just when they did the most good.

Ruth and Gehrig opened up an early lead for Hoyt and drove Johnson to cover after five innings of brisk firing. What they did, with a little aid from Tony Lazzeri and Pat Collins was enough, but Earl Combs added to the lead with another home run off Morrell, the second Senatorial pitcher, in the seventh. In all, the Yankees made twelve hits and looked more like the real thing than since they left Cleveland a week ago.

Gehrig, the busting Columbian, began the assault on Johnson with a single in the first inning after two were out. Ruth scored him with a double against the right-field fence.

Yanks Move Into Lead.

The Senators squared the match in the third on McNeely's three-bagger and Rice's handle hit to left, but the Yanks crashed into Mr. Johnson for a trio in the fourth. Gehrig started the trouble again by driving a long hit to the furthest corner of the park in centre. The ball hugged the fence and Sam Rice had much trouble in getting hold of it, so Gehrig was on his way home before the relay throw-in had got fairly started.

Ruth then slammed a triple against the scoreboard and scored on Lazzeri's double to left centre. The Yanks were tapering down—first a homer, then a triple and finally a double. Collins completed the sequence with a single that scored Lazzeri.

Combs's walk and Gehrig's home run into the left field stand made the total six in the fifth. Meanwhile the Senators scored once in the fourth on Bluege's pass and Johnson's single, and again in the fifth when Stewart doubled and came home on an out and Myer's sacrifice fly.

Morrell took the place of Johnson in the sixth and escaped, though Lazzeri and Dugan made hits. In the seventh there was one hit, but a telling one. Combs lined over Goslin's head and the ball rolled clear to the fence, Earl beating the relay by several yards.

Koenig's Error Starts Rally.

The Senators would have caused Hoyt no trouble in the seventh but for a bobble by Koenig. He threw low on an easy tap by Morrell. McNeely singled, but Stewart and Rice were easy outs, via Signor Lazzeri, Morrell scoring on the last though he would have been out had Gehrig been more alert. Then Goslin hoisted one high and far into the right field fence. He made second, and McNeely made home, but Myer, who tried to score all the way from first, was caught sliding in on Paschal's good throw to Gehrig and the latter's fast return to Collins.

Mlle. Lenglen's Loss to Amateurism Seen By British Tennis Organ as Boon to Game

LONDON, Aug. 13 (AP).—The official organ of the Lawn Tennis Association, commenting on Susanne Lenglen's act in turning professional, says:

"The plain fact is that Mlle. Lenglen's retirement from amateur lawn tennis is for the good of the game, for her temperament was always making for difficulties and her years of unchallenged supremacy had made her too arrogant for ordinary handling.

"It is safe to say that not only Wimbledon, but all the tournaments at which she has been in the habit of appearing, will be all the more peaceful and pleasant in consequence of her withdrawal.

"In her undisciplined way the French girl has been a great ornament to the game in which she has so extraordinarily excelled, and it is well that she has recognized that her usefulness as regards amateur lawn tennis has ended.

"The great lawn tennis associations, such as those of Great Britain and America, have always stood for amateurism in its purest and cleanest form, and they always will.

"The defection of a few who have been tempted beyond their strength will make no iota of difference in their policy, and those in charge of the game will never allow it to be prostituted to the low level of the professional prize ring."

RAIN GIVES GIANTS CHANCE TO REST UP

By IK SHUMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—John McGraw's pitchers, upon whom is dependent in a large measure whatever chance of success the Giants have to cut down the lead of the Pirates in the National League pennant race, got a day of rest here today when the first game of the series with the Phillies was called off on account of wet grounds.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Kent Greenfield, Virgil Barnes, Hugh McQuillan and Jack Scott are all in good condition now to receive the call to work in the double-header tomorrow. Fitzsimmons and Greenfield, it seemed tonight, would be those most likely to receive it, and if each is right the Giants feel they can win both games.

The Giants should win both games if their pitchers are in form. They have been winning consistently when presented with fair pitching, for the club bats and fields with the best in the league.

Two victories here would give the Giants a nice start in cutting down the Pirates' lead during the twelve games they are scheduled to play on this final trip through the West. Given the best pitching, the Giants should put themselves in a position to challenge the Pirates' leadership most fittingly during the last series of this trip at Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, they have their work cut out for them to defeat the Cubs, Cards and Reds, in the order named, for a respectable number of games. After the Pittsburgh series they are to have a considerable advantage, following two games with the Robins in Brooklyn, in the fact that they will be playing nearly all their remaining games on their own home grounds.

JERSEY CITY GETS HALF OF DUAL BILL

Loses First Game to Syracuse, 3 to 1, but Then Wins, 2 to 1, in Seven Innings.

Jersey City divided a double-header with Syracuse yesterday, according to The Associated Press, losing the first game, 3 to 1, and winning the second, 2 to 1, in seven innings, at Jersey City

Pickups and Putouts

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Bob Meusel's ankle gave him trouble today and the lean Californian rested while Paschal went to right and Ruth to left. Meusel limped slightly after chasing a foul yesterday.

The Yanks gave off sparks in the sixth. Ruth rushed in for a spectacular catch of Bluege's looping fly, and Dugan then made a brilliant backhand stop of Tate's grounder over third base.

Koenig's contribution to the party was a one-hand capture of McNeely's line drive in the fourth.

Bucky Harris, a victim of the umpiracal wrath, watched the game from a box near the Washington dugout, where he issued orders to the athletes.

The Yanks caught an early train for New York.

EAST LEADS WEST IN TENNIS BY 3 TO 0

TILDEN WINS WITH CHAPIN

They Conquer Holman and Ogden After a Stirring Battle by 6-3, 7-9, 6-4.

TODAY'S MATCHES.

3 P. M.—William Tilden, East, vs. William Johnston, West.
4 P. M.—Manuel Alonso, East, vs. Cranston Holman, West.
5 P. M.—Vincent Richards and Dick Williams East, vs. Johnston and Edward Chandler, West.

Capturing both matches in singles by decisive scores and the doubles also after a closely and brilliantly fought match between William Tilden and A. H. Chapin and Cranston Holman and Lionel Ogden, the representatives of the East gained a 3—0 lead yesterday on the first day of play in the annual East-West series at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills. A single victory today in the four matches scheduled is all that is needed for the East to win the match and reverse the result of last year, which went to the West at 5—4.

Vincent Richards and Chapin were the point scorers in the singles. The former defeated Edward Chandler, intercollegiate champion, 6—3, 6—3, while Chapin conquered Ogden in the opening match of the series at 6—2, 6—2. Tilden and Chapin were forced to put forth their best tennis to conquer Holman and Ogden in a match that was one-sided at the start but which developed into a spectacular driving and volleying duel as the Stanford collegians struck their real stride and hit out from the shoulder. The score was 6—3, 7—9, 6—4.

The matches yesterday were merely the preliminaries to the big struggle of today. Tilden and William Johnston will cross paths for the first time of the season in singles at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The stands are always filled when these two giants of the court meet and the fact that the engagement today will be a Davis Cup trial adds to the great interest centred in it.

Three Out of Five Sets.

The play will be for the best three out of five sets instead of the best two out of three as in the others. Second in interest to the Tilden-Johnston struggle is the doubles match between Richards and Dick Williams, the national champions, and Johnston and Chandler. The Californians defeated the title holders in the final at Seabright and it will be interesting to see whether they fare better against them than did Tilden and Johnston in the Davis Cup trials.

The match between Richards and Chandler resulted in almost exactly the same score as did their meeting at Seabright last week. On that occasion the score was 6—2, 6—3. Chandler changed his tactics partly yesterday. Whether it was because the courts were slippery or because he had learned his lesson at Seabright in trying to gain the net in the face of Richards's passing shots, the Californian elected to play the match entirely from back court, going forward at long intervals.

So effective was Chandler's game off the ground that Richards, whose playing was rather lukewarm at the start, found that he could not always stand up against thefast flying shoots of his opponent from back court and would have to cut them off at the net. Once he launched his short court attack, the New York youth was always in command of the play.

After Chandler had broken through his service to lead at 2—1 in the first set, Richards became aroused, turned back bullet drives to his backhand and Chandler's fast service and worked his way forward for finishing volleys. He took the next four games, dropped the eighth as Chandler found the openings with his paceful forehanders, and then took the ninth with the aid of two service aces.

Chandler continued to force the young Davis Cup star in the second set, but in spite of the fact that he was hitting with blistering pace and compelling Richards to do a lot of running, he could not make much headway, so tight was Richards's defense. His service enabled him to gain a lead of 2-1 again and then Richards took three games in a row, with the loss of only one point. The collegian could not maintain control against the other's varying attack and errors kept cropping up in his stroking. He won the eighth game on service with two beautiful placements in the corner, and Richards brought the play to an end in the ninth.

Chapin Is More Steady.

The match between Chapin and Ogden was a stirring back-court duel, in which Chapin's superior steadiness off the ground and terrific service proved the deciding factors. Ogden started off promisingly, as the four first games went against the server, keeping the ball on top of Chapin and giving him few opportunities to get set. But with the score at 2-all Chapin got the situation in hand and let loose with so much power that the other was unable to maintain control.

Chapin took four games in a row for the set without one of them going to deuce, and in the second chapter maintained the same terrific pace, with the result that he again took four games in a row after the score had reached 2-all.

Holman and Ogden did not find themselves in the doubles until the score stood 4—1 against them. From this point on they were always dangerous, hitting out with lightning drives, scoring aces off service and volleying and hitting overhead with deadly effect.

After losing the first set at 6—3, they took the four first games of the second and thereupon Tilden took off his shoes and got to work. The champion and his partner tied the score at 5-all after a desperate struggle, only to finally lose the set at 9—7. The third set was the same sort of a battle, and it was only after they had been stood off in exciting exchanges at the net and been forced to resort to lobbing to break up their opponents' net attack that the champion and Chapin won.

HARGREAVES HONORED AS ROBINS TRIUMPH

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—Charley Hargreaves, first string catcher of the Brooklyn Robins and native of this city, was honored by his fellow-townsfolk here this evening as Brooklyn scored a 5-to-2 victory over the Trenton A. A. in a twilight exhibition game.

A traveling bag, two bill folds, a purse containing several gold pieces and two large floral baskets were the gifts received by Hargreaves. He made a hit in one of his two chances, which figured in the Brooklyn scoring.

George Doehler, who had more control than he ever showed before, did the bulk of the Robins' pitching. Jack Fournier accounted for the first Brooklyn run with a home run.

Rock Light Beaten by Reigh Nun in Consolation Handicap for Two-Year-Olds

SWELTERING TALENT IS HIT

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Despite a mediocre offering at the course of the Saratoga Association this afternoon, one of the largest crowds of the meeting turned out, big delegations pouring into town from New York City and up-State towns prepared for the week-end and a first-class program for the holiday.

The stake offering of the afternoon was the Consolation, for the two-year-olds at five and a half furlongs, and five ordinary youngsters contested. It was won in handy fashion by W. S. Kilmer's Sunreigh filly Reigh Nun, with Eddie Ambrose up. She ran the distance in 1:09 over a track that was good but far from keen. The victory was worth $2,430 to the owner of the winner.

It was another tough day for the talent, one favorite only bringing home the money. The weather was insufferably hot, the humidity almost at the spilling point, and it was a wilted crowd that wended its way down Union Avenue after the sixth race.

The field for the Consolation was about the cheapest that has ever run for the stake. The conditions called for two-year-olds nominated for the big stakes of the meeting and the top claiming price was $4,000. But only one was entered to be sold for as high as $3,500 and the cheapest entered at $2,700. Two of those in the money were maidens.

Heavy Backing for Daffodil.

The Everglade Stable's Daffodil was the heavily played favorite, backed from 3 to 1 to 7 to 5, with Reigh Nun the second choice. There was a rush to get down on the Sagamore Stable's entry of Rock Light and Long Joe at the very end, forcing the quotation down from 5 to 1 to 2 to 1.

From the rise of the barrier the Kilmer colors were always in the van, although Ambrose never could get his mount more than a length in front of Rock Light, and that was the margin of the filly's victory. Callahan rode a vigorous finish on George D. Widener's Sandswept and he was beaten only a head for the place. The fractional times were as follows: 0:24 1-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:09.

Notwithstanding that it was a three-horse race the Geyser Handicap developed into an interesting contest among the Flamingo Farm's Mayne, the Sagamore Stable's Montferrat and C. Wissinger's Huntsman, all three-year-olds. The last named, which had done his running in Canada until the present meeting opened, was a red hot tip and carried the bulk of the white markers. Mayne was the second choice, closing at 17 to 10, with the French colt in slight demand.

Johnny Callahan had the leg up on Huntsman and allowed Montferrat to make the pace to the top of the stretch. There Huntsman drew up on level terms and in the drive for home drew out to win by his own length with Mayne a length and a half back.

Sande Boots in Winner.

Earl Sande rode one of his typical finishes to win the Congress Park Purse for two-year-old fillies with Joseph E. Widener's Be Fair a daughter of Fair Play. Eddie Ambrose did not ride out so vigorously on Kilmer's Sun Briar filly Sunwina, he 9 to 5 favorite, which finished half a length back and the stewards sent for him to inquire why. Ambrose said that the last time he whipped the filly she stopped and his instructions were not to punish her. His explanation was satisfactory.

Sunwina was the red hot favorite all through the betting. There was a fair play on the winner at 4 to 1. Sande took his mount to the fore with the rise of the barrier and Sunwina tagged along with her on the outside, the two misses fighting it out all the way. Sande did not have to go to the whip to land his mount in front under a first class finish. Chlum came up to take the short end a couple of lengths back.

The Selling Steeplechase over the two-mile course kept the big crowd in a fever of expectancy all the way. Until the horses had completed a turn of the course there was much poor jumping and spills seemed inevitable at almost every obstacle. But all the boys stuck on and all the horses stood up.

Harry Payne Whitney's inconsistent Handsome, backed from 8 to 1 to 5 to 1, set the pace through the greater part of the journey. J. Mandia's Amstello forcing the pace and occasionally going to the fore. On the flat Handsome drew away under a good finish by Sims to win by three lengths. Bayard Warren's veteran Byng which carried a big load of the public's money and was backed from 6 to 5 to 7 to 10 was not a factor during the running and was twelve lengths back at the finish.

NO REGRETS VICTOR AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Swingalong Stable's Fleet Filly Captures Feature in Midst of a Heavy Storm.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Swingalong Stable's fleet filly No Regrets dashed through the rain and darkness at Lincoln Fields today to capture the Michigan Avenue Handicap, which was run over the six-furlong course in the midst of a heavy storm that broke during the previous race. Mary Helen, the choice, set the early pace, but had nothing left when the ultimate winner moved into contention a furlong out, and Chairman got up to take the place position from her.

Jockey D. Dubois was in great form, booting home three winners. He assisted Pani Roma to earn brackets in the opener. In the sixth race he gave Sergeant Seth a vigorous ride to get him home ahead of Riot, a 50-to-1 shot, in a rousing finish. In the seventh, Dubois was astride Wrackhorn and won with him by the unusual margain of eight lengths.

Lemonora Colt Brings That Amount as Hancock's Kentucky-Bred Thoroughbreds Go Under Hammer.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Beneath a canopy of lowering clouds the most distinguished assemblage that has graced the yearling sales of 1926 gathered here this evening in the paddock of the Fasig-Tipton Company to bid on the choice offerings from the Ellerslie and Claiborne Studs of Arthur B. Hancock. Annually this is one of the most important events in the nightly dispersals of budding thoroughbreds during the Saratoga season.

Prominent horsemen and horsewomen from all over the North American Continent and notable visitors from the other side were grouped about the ring, together with society notables from the large Eastern cities. Evening dress predominated throughout the crush that sweltered as the choicest selections from the studs of the Blue Grass State were paraded for their inspection.

As a matter of fact, prospective buyers had examined minutely beforehand every one of the fifty-two head that came under the hammer and were ready with their bids. A year ago the Claiborne and Elleslie Studs established a new American high average record, only to be surpassed a week later by the returns from the offerings of the Philip T. Chinn sale. Naturally, this year the rivalry between the two was greater than ever.

Other Sales Surpassed.

The fifty-two head that were knocked down brought a total of $228,000, the average being $4,145. The total far surpassed anything in the previous eight sales, the total for the eight sales to date being $941,775.

With the private sales that have been consummated during the last week the sales during the Saratoga meeting already have gone well over a million dollars.

Top price of the evening was $16,500, which Leo Marks paid for the imported bay colt by Lemonora, out of Cockyleksy, he being a half brother to Polenta and Chicken Broth. There was a lot of bidding for this fine looking colt, the leading contender with the buyer being L. T. Cooper.

There was another contest for a bay colt by High Cloud, out of Rush Box, a half brother of the great little gelding Sarazen, and this was finally knocked down to A. Baker for $15,000.

William Woodward of the Belair Stud and Marshall Field were the contenders for a brown colt by imported Wrack, out of imported Whizz Bang, the youngster finally falling to the bid of the New York banker for $10,700.

Cooper Outbids Hallow.

Abe Hallow and L. T. Cooper were the rivals for a chestnut colt by imported North Star 3d, out of Viva America, and the latter was the successful bidder at $10,300.

chestnut colt by Jim Gaffney, out of Fox Trot, fell to the bid of Tom Welsh for an even $10,000. The Parkview and the Sagamore Stables engaged in a bidding duel for a bay colt by Wrake, out of The Marchioness, and the former was successful, also at $10,000.

Tom Welsh also secured, for $7,100, a brown colt by Jim Gaffney, out of Bandeau. The next best price was $6,600, which William Ziegler Jr. bid for a bay colt by Chicle, out of Noowa. The Greentree Stable was the successful bidder for a brown colt by Leonardo 2d, out of Quixota, and a like amount was paid by George D. Widener for a brown filly by Ambassador 4th, out of Merry Marian.

For a chestnut colt by Light Brigade, out of The Baroness, J. C. Miliam was the successful bidder at $6,200. The only other sale for more than $6,000 was that of a bay colt by Campfire, out of imported Bandana 3d, for which Bud Fisher bid $6,100.

Dempsey License Is Tied Up as Officials Are Deadlocked

DEADLOCK DELAYS DEMPSEY LICENSE

Phelan and Wear Expected to Demand Definite Disposition of Wills Challenge.

NEW DEFERMENT LIKELY

Rickard, However, Maintains Optimistic View That Title Bout Will Be Held Here.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight situation has reached an impasse.

Unless the State Athletic Commission repudiates the challenge of Harry Wills, negro aspirant for the world's heavyweight title for the past five years, Dempsey will be unable to defend his honors here against the fighting ex-marine.

The commission is in the position of having either to repudiate a challenge and brave the charge of inconsistency or reaffirm Wills's defi, which would keep Dempsey from boxing here until he had fought Wills.

This, it was learned yesterday, will be the attitude of the License Committee when it meets Monday to consider the situation which again has been referred to Colonel John J. Phelan and D. Walker Wear, through the approval of the Dempsey-Tunney match registered by the commission last Thursday. Only unexpected developments will alter the committeemen's views. There was no indication yesterday of any such development. The record of the case has been carefully assembled by the License Committee for reference at its meeting Monday afternoon between 5 and 5:30 o'clock.

Another Delay Likely.

There is every reason to believe that Phelan and Wear again will defer action on Dempsey's application for a license on the ground that the champion has not complied with the rules and regulations of the State Athletic Commission, the basis of the deferment before. This will send the matter back again to the commission for specific disposition of Wills's challenge.

Despite the gloomy outlook, Promoter Tex Rickard, who has scheduled the fight for the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 16, maintains the optimistic air which has been characteristic almost since the first obstacle was thrown in the way of the match. Rickard said he was confident "something will break" quickly to clear the path.

"I'll have an important announcement to make tomorrow, probably about noon," said the promoter.

What this announcement will be Rickard would not say. Speculation arose, therefore, as to whether Rickard would be in a position to advance some concrete information that will insure the match here or would announce its transfer. Philadelphia is the favored spot if Rickard decides to take the fight away from New York.

The prospect of the Attorney General's office being injected into the matter developed yesterday. It was reported that in the event the License Committee again defers action on Dempsey's license application Monday an opinion will be sought either by Promoter Rickard or by the State Athletic Commission majority on the legality of this procedure.

No Flat Refusal Likely.

That the License Committee will flatly refuse to give Dempsey a license is unlikely. One close to the situation pointed out that the committee members are alive to the fact that such definite action would expose the board to mandamus proceedings. On the other hand it is understood the committee feels assured it is acting within its powers when it defers action on Dempsey's application "for cause," the "cause" in the view of the committee being that Dempsey has not complied with the rules of the State Athletic Commission, specifically the rule which imposes on ring champions the obligation of defending their titles at least once every six months.

Secretary Bert Stand of the commission yesterday forwarded to the License Committee the minutes of the special meeting held last Thursday, at which Commissioners William Muldoon and George E. Brower, outvoting Chairman James A. Farley, approved the proposed Dempsey-Tunney bout.

In the record, at the express order of Chairman Farley, is the resolution of the Chairman that the challenge of Wills be disposed of, together with the fact that there was no second for this motion and, therefore, no vote on the subject.

This section constitutes the crux of the situation, the basis for the delay on Dempsey's application, and it can be positively stated on reliable authority that this point must be cleared before another definite step will be taken favorable to Dempsey's cause.

Wills Issues a Defi.

The outburst of Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, after Thursday's meeting, had its echo yesterday from Wills. The negro fighter, ordinarily quiet and reserved, gave the lie to a statement by Dempsey that the champion has tried for five years to get Wills into the ring with him, and declared his willingness to fight Dempsey for the title without any guarantee of remuneration.

"I'll fight Dempsey any time and any place; it makes no difference to me, and I'll guarantee to knock him out," said Wills. "He can meet me on Broadway and Forty-second Street and we'll settle matters right there, so far as I am concerned. I don't want a penny for the fight either. All I want is a crack at the title, because I know I can win it from Dempsey."

In the meantime Dempsey has established himself at his Saratoga Lake training camp, and from information gathered here is preparing for a solid siege of training. Ben Golub of the Everlast Sporting Goods Company announced yesterday that Dempsey had wired for a punching dummy and other gymnasium paraphernalia for quick delivery.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Mrs. Dempsey spent this afternoon at the race track, where they occupied a box in the clubhouse and met numerous friends of the sporting and theatrical world.

Dempsey's entourage at his training camp includes his business manager, Gene Normile, Mrs. Normile, their daughter, and Gus Wilson, trainer. A German police dog, Frenchie, owned by Captain Charles S. Mabett, army boxing instructor and personal friend of the champion since he was 15 years old, is also at the camp. Two Chicago detectives are serving as the champion's bodyguard.

Jerry Levadis, familiar figure around the Dempsey camp, is back at White Sulphur. Big Bill Tate, Phil Weisburger, Ray Thompson, Jimmy Roberts, John Saxon, Joe Kurp, Babe Herman, Frankie Garcia, Floyd Fitzsimmons, Robert Delfino and Albert Porzio complete the staff.

Dempsey will go through his daily workouts in the ring on the lakeside, near the hotel. A canvas wall has been constructed around the top of the fence as a reminder that the champion does not intend to perform gratis.

Injunction Hearing Delayed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 13 (AP).—Failure of the Judge to appear today delayed hearing in Marion County Superior Court of a petition for a temporary injunction to prevent Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, from boxing Gene Tunney or any other challenger before he tackles Harry Mills, negro.

The Chicago Coliseum Club has asked that the injunction be granted on the contention that it has a contract with Dempsey to fight Wills in Chicago next month.

FOUR BOUT PROGRAMS WASHED OUT BY RAIN

Coney Island Show Put Off Until Monday—Others Will Be Held Tonight.

Rain washed out the outdoor boxing shows scheduled for the metropolitan battle area last night. Officials of the Coney Island Stadium, where two twelve-round bouts were scheduled between Johnny Dundee and Phil McGraw and Eddie Anderson and Arnold Ryan, postponed the show until Monday night.

At the Long Beach Arena one bout had been completed, Joe Bardara fighting a draw with Midget Galeo in four rounds, and Matty Mario and Al Irving were in the first round of their six-round tilt when the show was interrupted and postponed until tonight. Five six-round bouts are scheduled, the feature being between Augie Pisano and Johnny Kochansky, junior lightweights.

The amateur boxing show scheduled for the Golden City A. A., Canarsie, was postponed until tonight, and the show scheduled for Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, also was put off until tonight. Four ten-round bouts are scheduled, the principals being Carl Tremaine vs. Eddie O'Dowd, Billy Vidabeck vs. Tom Kirby, John Patrick vs. Mickey Cancro and Lou Presti vs. Arthur Bechantlain.

The Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn, will hold its customary week-end show tonight, five six-round bouts being scheduled as follows: Tony Canzoneri vs. Buck Josephs, Johnny Erickson vs. Joey Eulo, Bert Martin vs. Joey Knapp, Frankie Houlihan vs. Eddie Guida, Eddie Holmes vs. Pierre De Dalowe.

TO START HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Two Canadian and Six American Cities Will Organize Thursday.

BOSTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—Representatives of six American and two Canadian cities will meet here next Thursday to organize a new international professional hockey league. The cities involved will be New York, Boston, Pittsburgh, Springfield, Providence, New Haven, Montreal and Quebec.

Announcing the date of the meeting, George Brown, manager of the Boston Arena, and Albert Geiger, Chairman of the Athletic Committee of the Boston A. A., said the proposed league was not designed to combat the National Hockey League, the present international professional organization.

'Hoodlums Fight in Street,' Dempsey's Reply to Wills

This was the answer of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, when he was told today of the offer of Harry Wills to knock the champion out any time he wants for nothing. Dempsey remarked that he did not make his living fighting in the streets and has always tried to uphold the boxing game.

ROSENBERG IS HELD TO DRAW BY SANGOR

LABARBA DEFEATS PALUSO

Flyweight Titleholder Wins Decision Over Salt Lake City Boxer in Semi-Final.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (AP).—Charley ("Phil") Rosenberg, world's bantamweight champion, was held to a draw here tonight in ten rounds by Joey Sangor, Milwaukee boxer. Fidel LaBarba of Los Angeles, the flyweight champion, won a referee's decision over Emil Paluso, Salt Lake City, in a ten-round semi-wind-up. No titles were at stake.

Rosenberg weighed 122¾ pounds and Sangor 123½. LaBarba weighed 116½ pounds and Paluso 115. About 10,000 fans saw the bouts at the Cubs' park, which was illuminated throughout.

Leo Wax, Australian welterweight, lost on a knockout in three rounds to Clyde Hull of Texas. Wax was knocked down twice in the second round for counts of nine and two and was not on his feet at the bell. He failed to recover in the one minute of rest and referee Joe Hess stopped the contest.

YOUNG ROXIE IS WINNER.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 13.—Young Roxie of Newark won a newspaper decision over Murray Fuchs of New York in the main bout of eight rounds at the Oakland A. A. here tonight. The bout was very even during the early rounds but later Roxie cut Fuchs badly and earned an advantage. Roxie weighed 117 and Fuchs 121. In the semi-final, scheduled for eight rounds, Andy Sacowitz, 139, of Oceanport won on a foul in the third round from Tony Salvie, 143, of New York.

John Casanova of Porto Rico brought another eight round bout to a quick ending in the sixth round when he knocked out Eagle Eye of Red Bank. Casanova weighed 171 and Eagle Eye 180. In a six rounder Ray Weigandt, 122, of Philadelphia earned the decision of newspaper men over Philly Griffin, 123, Newark. Two preliminary four rounders ended in knockouts. Eddie Barton of Long Branch, 132, knocked out George Epstein, 134, of Long Branch in the third round of their bout and Jack Banafort, 138, of Long Branch knocked out Johnny Krom, 137, of Freehold, also in the third round.

McFARLAND WINS ON FOUL.

Jack Grace Loses in Seventh—Abad Outpoints Spencer.

Davy Abad, Panama bantamweight, outpointed Wee Willie Spencer of New York in a 10-round bout at the Steeplechase A. A., Rockaway Beach, last night, according to The Associated Press. Abad weighed 119 and Spencer 121½ pounds.

Pop Warner to Go West.

SPRINGVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner plans to leave shortly for the Pacific Coast to take up his duties as football coach at Stanford University after a visit to his boyhood home here. He will attend the Army-Navy gridiron classic at Chicago Nov. 27.

Phils Drop Grimes and Cotter.

Fleet Will Make Rendezvous Tonight for Inter-Club Cruise

Three Squadron Runs Will Bring Flotilla to New London Tuesday to Join New York Y. C. Cruise—Huguenot Y. C. Holds Annual Regatta This Afternoon.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

The rendezvous of the annual interclub cruise, which this year is expected to draw an especially large racing fleet, will be made tonight off the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, at Greenwich, Conn. The cruise will be formally organized when the captains meet Commodore Robert Law Jr. at the clubhouse at 9 o'clock. Following the meeting a reception will be given by Commodore Law for the visiting yachtsmen.

The interclub cruise this year will consist of three squadron runs, the ultimate destination being New London, on Tuesday night, where the interclub fleet will join the flotilla of the New York Yacht Club for that club's annual cruise. Formerly the interclub cruise brought together the fleets of the Indian Harbor and Larchmont Yacht Clubs, but this year the American and Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht clubs have joined in the event, so that it promises to be the biggest thing of its kind ever staged.

The first squadron run will be made tomorrow from a starting line off Greenwich, to Port Jefferson, L. I., a distance of twenty-one nautical miles. The prizes for this run will be given by the Indian Harbor Yacht Club. The fleet will anchor for the night in Port Jefferson harbor, one of the biggest and most picturesque of the Long Island bays, and on Monday will take part in the second racing run, from Port Jefferson to Duck Island Roads, on the Connecticut shore, west of Saybrook.

This is a remote harbor that is seldom visited by the yacht squadrons, but is one of the most interesting of the ports on the Connecticut side. The prizes for the run from Port Jefferson to Duck Island, a distance of thirty-one nautical miles, will be given by the American Yacht Club. On Tuesday the third run of the interclub cruise will be made from Duck Island to New London, twenty-two nautical miles, for prizes offered by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club.

The finishing line at New London will be off Sarah's Ledge bell buoy, outside the mouth of the historic Thames, and when the racing yachts go up the harbor they will join the New York Yacht Club fleet assembling for the annual cruise of that club. Besides the prizes given for the winners of the squadron runs the Larchmont Yacht Club will donate trophies for the schooner and sloop making the best corrected time for the three runs.

An added feature of interest in the interclub cruise this year will be the presence of smaller yachts than have ever taken part in the event before. Usually the smallest yachts taking part have been the New York Yacht Club thirty-footers, but this year the committee, headed by Chairman Frank Colladay, has invited the R class, six-meters, victorys, Sound interclub sloops and Seawanhaka S boats to join the fleet, and it is expected that a large number of these smaller yachts will try for the trophies offered.

H. G. S. Noble, owner of the schooner Princess, has offered a special prize for the interclub sloop which scores the most points on the three racing runs.

It is expected that a big racing fleet will come to the line this afternoon, off Execution Light, to race in the thirty-first annual regatta of the Huguenot Yacht Club of New Rochelle. All of the regular Long Island Sound racing classes, with the possible exception of the R boats, will be out in force and Chairman Wadelton of the Race Committee expects a squadron of close to 100 boats. The other members of the committee are Butler Whiting, Charles X. Granger, W. D. Hatch Jr. and Arthur Wendell.

The survivors, if any, of the R Class expedition to Marblehead, will take part in the interclub cruise, it is reported, with the exception possibly of Quiver, which is owned by Commodore Philip R. Mallory of the American Yacht Club and which was dismasted during Thursday's race in Massachusetts Bay. If it is possible to get a new mast at City Island in time the Quiver will be among the starters.

The survivors are still trying to figure out how Gossoon and Charles Francis Adams lost the Manhasset Bay Cup to C. P. Curtis and Ellen. This will probably always remain one of the great marine mysteries.

Chairman Edwin H. Tucker has sent out the circulars for the annual regatta of the New York Athletic Club's yachting department, which will be sailed off Execution Light on Saturday, Aug. 21. Prizes have been offered for all the regular Long Island Sound racing classes.

Never again will the proud Marblehead yachtsmen be able justifiably to point disparaging fingers at the racing winds of Long Island Sound. After such a long session of trifling and fickle airs as graced the Ladies' Plate and Manhasset Cup races the disparaging fingers will probably be pointed in the other direction.

Some of the best racing of the season, somehow, seems to take place on the interclub cruise. Few who saw the race will forget the contest in 1924 between the Larchmont O boats Nimbus and Maisie. After racing thirty-seven miles in a smoky sou'wester from New London to Block Island, Maisie was the winner in a thrilling finish by ten seconds.

The Eastern Yacht Club is relying on Vice Commodore John S. Lawrence's Advance to uphold the honor of Massachusetts Bay in the coming races of the New York Yacht Club cruise. Advance is a wonder in light windward work, but was badly beaten by Vanitie in the June races off Newport when strong winds prevailed.

"Quite remarkable," said Commodore Nat Ayer of the Eastern Yacht Club in referring to his new racing schooner Lynx, which has just arrived at Newport from the builder's yards on the Adriatic. "She has made a long ocean passage, and when she arrived every one of her doors would open and shut."

ESKAWAJA IS FIRST OF CLASS P SLOOPS

Wins by 58 Seconds From Avis in Third Regatta of Great South Bay Series.

INVADER AGAIN IN FRONT

Frank Allaire's Boat Leads Q Class —80 Craft Revel in Good Sailing Breeze.

BELLPORT BAY, L. I., Aug. 13.—The smallest fleet that has so far sailed in one of the championship regattas of the Great South Bay Yacht Racing Association crossed the line today in the third regatta of the annual cruise of the association. Eighty yachts started and with one exception all crossed the finish line.

The wind was from the southwest and fresh. It was a good sailing breeze and as a result the competition was keen in almost all of the classes. The small size of the fleet was due to the fact that the cruising squadron returns to the westward tonight to be ready for the big day at Sayville, tomorrow. Many of the boats stayed at Sayville and did not come here at all. They are expected to be in the race tomorrow.

Interest again centred in Class P. The large sloops had a good scrap, the winner finally proving to be Eskawaja, which is the property of Warren Leslie. The yacht won by 58 seconds from Avia, which is owned by W. M. Crane. In Class C, Frank Allaire's Invader again won. The leader among the R yachts was Alouette, which belongs to J. F. Moore Jr.

For the first time since the cruise started winners were announced in Class S sloops and the W catboats division. Not only were they announced for today's race but the committee also gave out the winners in these divisions in the first two regattas. In today's race, the winner in Class S was Plover, which is owned by P. D. Collins Jr. At Babylon, this division was taken by Zym Zym II, which belongs to G. H. Zimmerman. The second boat at Babylon was Midge, owned by D. E. Austin.

In the racing at Bay Shore, the winner in Class S was Midge, while Plover finished second. At the same port, the winner among the W catboats was Teaser, which is owned by C. Axtman. The second craft was Yankee, the property of J. P. Phillips Jr. Teaser was the winner of the race today. At Babylon, the winner of the division was So Long, G. Haight, owner, while Miss Kathryn, which belongs to E. R. Hurley, was second.

NEW HAVEN RINK DELAYED.

Death of Builder May Upset Yale Hockey Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3.—Because of the recent death of Harry Walker, head of the company which is building the new arena for New Haven, the structure cannot be ready before January or February.

This may affect the Yale hockey schedule, although the Yale management was hopeful that the building might be completed in time. The executors of the estate of Mr. Walker have not given orders for resumption of work on the building since his death, but it is expected that the delay will merely last for the time necessary to probate his will.

FLOWERS PREDICTS HE WILL STOP GREB

Negro Is Favorite for Title Battle at Madison Square Garden on Thursday.

That Harry Greb, Pittsburgh's whirlwind fighter who formerly held the world's middleweight title, will not survive fifteen rounds with him in their title bout to be held Thursday night in Madison Square Garden was the prediction made yesterday by Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro, who holds the world's middleweight title.

"I expect to end the battle with a knockout in ten rounds or less," said Flowers yesterday after a spirited workout. "I am feeling fine and am ready now for a hard fight. I'll enter the ring prepared for anything Greb can offer in the way of opposition and I feel confident I'll be champion."

Flowers will enter the ring a favorite, although a bitter battle is expected. Greb and Flowers are about on a par in the methods they employ in the ring. Both are fast and tireless.

Maxey Rosenbloom, Harlem's promising middleweight, and Chuck Burns, Southern boxer, are slated for the ten-round semi-final. K. O. Phil Kaplan, another Harlem middleweight, and Dick Evans of Youngstown, Ohio, are paired in another ten-round bout.

Diener Injures His Arm.

An injury he sustained to his left arm while training has caused Franz Diener, German heavyweight, to withdraw from his bout against King Solomon, scheduled for next Tuesday night at the Queensboro Stadium in Long Island City. It was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Tom McArdle that Mike McTigue, former world's light-heavyweight champion, had been engaged to battle Solomon. The bout will be for ten rounds. Knute Hansen, Minnesota lumberjack, and Romero Rojas, South American heavyweight, are paired in the ten-round semi-final. Johnny Grosso and Sergeant Jack Adams, another pair of heavyweights, are to furnish the action in the first ten-round bout.

Andre Routis, European featherweight champion, has made a favorable impression on those ring critics who have seen the little visitor in training for his ten-round bout against Eddie Anderson, Wyoming cowboy. The youngsters are to furnish one of the feature bouts on the Bensonhurst Community House benefit card to be held Wednesday night at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Promoter Humbert Fugazy reports an unusually heavy advance sale of tickets for the charity card. Paul Berlenbach, former world's light-heavyweight champion, and Francis Charles, French light-heavyweight, are to punch each other in the ten-round feature. Fred Bretonnel, French lightweight, will tackle Sammy Vogel of Harlem, and Andy De Vodi and Harry Ebbets, Brooklyn welterweight rivals, will clash in another feature.

Burns-Fink Bout Draws.

The ten-round bout between Bobby Burns, Brownsville lightweight, and Frankie Fink, Texas lad, which is the feature attraction on the card to be held Monday night at the Dexter Park Arena, Brooklyn, is attracting unusual attention, according to the announcement yesterday of Matchmaker Johnny Attell. The victory of Fink over Harry London has put the Texan on edge for the coming scrap and an exciting battle is expected. Four six-round bouts and a four-round match will precede the main event.

Harry Felix, east side lightweight, who suffered his first professional knockout last Friday night at the hands of Billy White, is scheduled to resuming work on Tuesday night, when he faces Tony Palmer, another east sider, in the main six-round bout at the Colden City Arena, Canarsie. Tommy Lorenzo and Jackie Cohen are paired in the six-round semi-final.

HOPPE TAKES LEAD IN HANDICAP MATCH

Beats St. Jean, 59-40 and 67-39, and Shows Way at 500-399 —Has High Run of 11.

Willie Hoppe took the lead over Andrew St. Jean, his opponent, in the 600-point handicap three-cushion billiard match in progress at the Strand Billiard Academy as the result of victories scored in the blocks played yesterday afternoon and evening. The score now is Hoppe 500 and St. Jean 399. Under the handicap allowed by Hoppe, St. Jean should have 400 points in order to be on even terms with Hoppe.

Hoppe took the lead in the last inning of the night block when he ran out with a run of 6, when St. Jean needed one point to win the block and retain the lead. The score of the afternoon block was Hoppe 59, St. Jean 40, in seventy-five innings. The score of the evening block was Hoppe 67, St. Jean 39, in sixty innings. Hoppe made high runs of 6 and 11 respectively. St. Jean made high runs of 7 and 4 respectively.

The match will come to an end this evening. Hoppe is now in the lead for the first time since the match began at the start of the week. St. Jean has led throughout and at one time was ahead by forty points at the end of the fourth block. Hoppe has whittled down this margin until he went out in front last night.

Albert G. Cutler defeated two more opponents at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy yesterday afternoon and last night. Playing three-cushion billiards in the afternoon, he took the measure of Fred Kaiser 35 to 24 in forty-eight innings. In the evening, playing 18.2 balkline billiards, he defeated Chris Ringer 300 to 25. Prizes were awarded to Fred Kaiser and Joseph McKeon for making high scores against Cutler.

MARK FOR MISS HAZELIUS.

17-Year-Old Swedish Girl Clips 400-Meter Breast Stroke Record.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 13 (AP).—Brita Hazelius, a 17-year-old swimmer, made what is claimed to be a new world's swimming record for women today when she won the 400-meter race, breast stroke, in 6 minutes 59.3 seconds.

The world's record for 400 meters, breast stroke, for women is 7 minutes 20 seconds. It was set up by Miss I. Gilbert, British swimmer, at Bradford, England, in 1923.

Only last Sunday Miss Hazelius beat the world's record for women in the 200 meters, breast stroke. She did the distance in 3 minutes 18 1-5 seconds. This was 2 1-5 seconds better than the record made by Miss Gilbert at Rotherham, England, in June, 1922.

MISS WILLS LOSES; MAY QUIT FOR YEAR

semi-finals of the men's Southern New York State championship this morning and will meet tomorrow morning to determine who shall face Tilden in the final on Sunday. Richards, before going to Forest Hills for the East-West matches, defeated Francis T. Hunter at 6—1, 6—3, while Chapin advanced by the default of Luis Heyden.

The final round was also reached in the women's doubles. Miss Browne and Mrs. Chapin played through three rounds to gain their brackets and will meet Mrs. Edna Hauseit Roeser and Miss Alice Francis for the title.

Finishes Mrs. Falk Match.

Before meeting Mrs. Mallory, Miss Wills finished her match with Mrs. Helen Pollak Falk, which was interrupted by rain on Thursday when the champion was leading at 6—0, 3—2. It required only a short period for her to take three games in a row and after a rest of five minutes she went back on the court to meet the woman from whom she had wrested the crown.

For ten games they struggled on even terms without either being able to break through the other's service. Miss Wills's stinging service was an asset that Mrs. Mallory did not have, but the latter put her reliance in her defense and in her smashing returns.

In the eleventh game Mrs. Mallory, returning service with placements to the corners, broke through to lead at 6—5. She needed only to win her own game to take the set, but Miss Wills rose to the occasion and retaliated in the twelfth, won the thirteenth on her own service, and then broke through a second time after a long deuce game to win the set.

Undiscouraged by her failure to capitalize her big opportunity, Mrs. Mallory continued to play with the same relentless tenacity in the second chapter. She broke through in the opening game after it had gone to deuce four times and gained a lead of 2—0 when Miss Wills faltered in control in the second game.

Here the champion rallied to take three games in a row, outsteadying Mrs. Mallory in exhausting rallies of prolonged length. It was by the margin of only a single point that she failed to increase her lead to 4—2, losing the sixth game after deuce had been called twice.

Mrs. Mallory Ties Score.

Mrs. Mallory's coups in retrieving shots to her baseline corners and her ability to find the openings as Miss Wills came to the net pulled her through at this critical juncture and she tied the score at 3—all. She broke through again in the seventh after it had gone to deuce twice, won the eighth as Miss Wills found the net twice, and came within a point of bringing the set to an end in the ninth, which went to Miss Wills at 6—4. Mrs. Mallory would not be put off again in the tenth and mowed down the opposition to take the game at love.

The final set found Miss Wills tiring but playing with the courage of desperation. After losing her opening game she broke through in the second at 5—3, only to lose her next service game. Mrs. Mallory, encouraged by this break, realized that the tide was turning in her favor and let loose from both wings with a hurricane of drives that carried her through the three next games also.

Miss Wills managed to save the seventh after it had gone to deuce twice, and that was her last. Mrs. Mallory attacked savagely to the corners and won the final game at love as Miss Wills gambled for the points and hit out with all the strength she could muster, but poor control.

The point score:

FIRST SET.

		G. P.
Mrs. Mallory	1 4 2 4 2 4 3 4 1 4 4 2 1 4	6—40
Miss Wills	4 2 4 0 4 1 5 2 4 1 0 4 4 6	8—41

NEW YORK CAN VOTE AS IT THINKS.

Doubtless there will be an appeal from the decision of Judge CRAIN yesterday upholding the validity of the liquor referendum in this State next November, but it is hard to see how a higher court can reverse his decision. He directed attention sharply to the actual legal issue. This is not whether the referendum would be wise or foolish. The fact that it would have no binding force has nothing to do with the question of its constitutionality. The only thing for the courts to decide is whether the act of the Legislature, passing the bill for a referendum, was within the powers conferred upon it by the Constitution. Judge CRAIN held that it was; and he added that it might easily serve an important public purpose, since it would be a medium "for the ascertainment of the sentiment of the people."

To this it may be said that what the people think is already well enough known to the Legislature. When both the leading parties in the State favor not only the referendum but drastic modification of the Volstead act, the lawmakers do not really need to ask for further enlightenment. Yet a formal expression at the polls will be to them an explicit guide, and will besides be, throughout the country, a significant proof of the trend of public opinion. At all events, the citizens of New York are not going to be debarred from saying what they think. If they like prohibition and are satisfied with the way in which it is enforced, or not enforced, they can say that. If they believe that the whole experiment was a mistake, even from the point of view of promoting temperance, and that our experience with it for six years has shown it to be a ghastly failure, they can say that. The Legislature allowed them to vote on the question. The courts will not prevent them from doing so. New York is to have at least freedom of speech about prohibition.

THE EARLY BIRD.

Chairman-Senator BUTLER, as "two gentlemen at once," pursues the rapid hours with flying feet. One day he is here confabulating with other members, and in particular with the Treasurer, of the Republican National Committee, pondering plans to "elect a Republican House and Senate." The next he is back in Boston. The Massachusetts primaries are in September; but the last nomination papers have hardly been filed before the Senator decides to "turn his campaign over to the Republican State Committee." In spite of this decision, both the Chairman and the Senator are expected to take a hand apiece in the canvass. Today the Senator-Chairman and Republican Floor Leader JOHN Q. TILSON, kindly lent by Connecticut for the occasion, are to speak at the Worcester Fair Grounds on the great issues that "confront" the country, as usual.

Only 15,000 auditors are looked for. No impenitence of the thermometer can affect the passion of "the people" to hear two of its tribunes. The Heart of the Commonwealth beats rapturously. Springfield is to have the same intellectual entertainment shortly. It is never too early and never too boiling, frying and roasting to get a rich intellectual treat—free. And Senator BUTLER has had a mighty thought, likewise early and seasonable. To him at Washington, Massachusetts business men and other men flock for assistance in their affairs with Government officials at Washington. Many of them are helpless. They don't know their way about. Often, after their expense of carfare and hotel, they find that they have got the wrong official. If their matter is one of taxes, the dispersing of the Internal Revenue forces in divers buildings is perplexing.

So Mr. BUTLER is going to establish an office in Boston and another at Washington for the special convenience and benefit of his constituents. The Boston shop, "coordinating" with the sister establishment, will, in many cases, save applicants the trouble and expense of going to Washington. The secretaries and clerks in the District institution will take each Yankee stranger to the right official, see that he has plenty of opportunity to present his case, keep him informed through the mails. The scheme is a good one for Congressmen able to afford it. It increases Senator BUTLER'S already wearing labors; but he will not spare himself. He hasn't spared himself. The Washington man of The Transcript shows him on his untiring round:

> The Senator has a daily beat to cover. He keeps an active watch on the developments in the Boston rate cases, the milk and coal cases, river and harbor matters, military cases, Massachusetts Postoffice and veterans' affairs, and obtains work for constituents and gets salary increases and promotions for those already employed.

If it be said that so does any other "errand boy" at Washington, what other Senator by his intervention in the adjustment of Federal taxes has saved to Massachusetts "industries employing a total of about 50,000 men"? Such is the estimate; not to speak of his constant tariff-saving which has made the Massachusetts textile industries so unprecedentedly prosperous. Will the Hon. DAVID I. WALSH kindly observe and preserve?

A CONTINENTAL STEEL TRUST.

Although details of the European steel trust, now being formed by the coal, iron and manufacturing interests of France, Germany and Belgium, are not yet available, such reports as have been published indicate that the agreements will be sufficiently comprehensive to cover subsidiary industries as well as the principal sources of raw materials. Among the industries which have signed are the railmakers and the tubemakers. The wiremakers and the manufacturers of sheet iron are still conducting negotiations. The final arrangements are to cover not only output and allotments to each nation, but also world markets and prices.

The details will be of chief interest to specialists. For the general public their importance lies in their bearing on the economic recovery of Europe. Like the Franco-German trade treaty signed last week, these agreements are sure to bind closer the interests of the various countries, and so not only more quickly end the last of post-war jealousies and hatreds, but do much to stimulate trade. For years the great need of Europe has been to forget politics and to get back to business. Progress has been in the main satisfying. The recovery of Germany has been proceeding well. France's troubles, it has long been clear, have been political rather than economic. Her industries and agriculture have been thriving, although the vagaries of her politicians have all but wrecked the national finances. In Italy the improvement has been astonishing during the last three years. In the Central European countries the process of readjustment has proceeded apace. Of them all, Belgium has been perhaps the hardest hit, although she has also been one of the first to understand that the politicians had to be replaced by financiers in restoring the nation's credit.

These latest industrial agreements will doubtless be expanded. It is reported that Germany has been conducting negotiations with Poland and Czechoslovakia for the delivery of Silesian coal, and that other similar agreements will also be entered into with other nations. The resulting economic ties are sure to do much to solidify the basic economic interests of Europe. This should help to bring about the greater political harmony essential to world peace.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR PROBLEMS.

Prime Minister BRUCE, according to yesterday's dispatches, has opened at Melbourne his campaign for amending the Australian Constitution. The coming referendum has mainly to do with centralized control by the Commonwealth Parliament of labor unions, especially in reference to terms and conditions of employment and the arbitration of industrial disputes. Under the present system there is a division of authority. For example, the general Australian law prescribes a forty-eight-hour week. But in New South Wales an act was recently passed fixing forty-four hours as the standard working week in that State. When the matter was taken before the Federal Arbitration Court it upheld the forty-eight-hour law. Thereupon in New South Wales a number of the unions refused to accept the decision and quit work. Even after the High Court of the Commonwealth upheld the award of the Arbitration Court the trade unionists in New South Wales declared that the law of that State was supreme for them and that the High Court must not meddle with it.

It is partly to do away with such anomalies that Mr. BRUCE desires to have the Constitution amended. One section of it gives the Federal Legislature power to make laws in regard to "conciliation and arbitration or the "prevention and settlement of labor "disputes, extending beyond the limits "of any one State." It is proposed by the referendum to strike out the words "extending beyond the limits of any one State." If this is done, the result will be to give the Commonwealth paramount control of the whole question. In a similar way the aim is to establish the Federal Arbitration Court as supreme. As the case stands, labor unions can resort to it and at the same time to a State arbitration tribunal, and then accept whichever award most pleases them.

Still another proposal in the referendum is likely to give offense to labor extremists. It proposes to add to the existing constitutional provision which gives the Australian Commonwealth power to legislate with respect to postal, telegraphic, telephonic and other public services a clause which would extend this power to "the protection of the interests of the public "in case of actual or probable interruption of any essential service." This is regarded by some as a great encroachment upon State authority. As the case stands now, the Commonwealth may intervene to maintain order only when a State declares itself unable to do so. But if the amendment is adopted the Commonwealth authorities could step in without waiting to be asked for aid by a State.

Australia has so long been called the paradise of labor that it seems a little strange to find such difficulties arising there and thrown into a political campaign. But this only shows that problems connected with organized labor are much the same all the world over. They exist under the government by the proletariat in Russia just as they do in capitalist nations. The outcome in Australia will be of great interest both outside and inside the Commonwealth.

BACK TO THE CAUCASUS.

Sir FLINDERS PETRIE has found names in the Egyptian "Book of the Dead" that are strikingly like some in the Caucasus. They have been thought to be mythological, but he thinks them geographical. While some will scarcely find any resemblances in Desdes and Euxine or Dedu and Totena, Bakhu is near enough to Baku, Tamena to Tamen, On to Oni, Restan to Resth, and even Fenkhu to Phanagoria, to give support to his thesis that these names were carried down into Egypt from places in the Caucasus cherished in the memory of the migrants or preserved by renown. These names become as stones in the foundation of his theory that the so-called Badavian civilization in Egypt had not only a northern but a Caucasian origin. At any rate, wherever the human processional began back in the dimmed aisles of time, it has passed through the majestic defiles of the Caucasus. In the mythology of the Greeks, Prometheus was chained to one of its frosty northern mountain sides for bringing fire to mortals; in Scriptural history the post-diluvian repeopling of the earth began near its other rim after the failure of the first experiment. Jason went to its western fields in search of the Golden Fleece, and in the memory of the Egyptian there is the lake of fire which Sir FLINDERS identifies as the oil fields of Baku.

More than archaeological interest attaches to this region between the Black Sea and the Caspian, where it is further suspected by Sir FLINDERS that wheat grew which also found its way to Egypt. Northern wheat has been found there. Rich in petroleum, manganese, copper, iron and other metals, the Caucasus has attracted the exploiting genius of the Western world. A volume of 350 pages, containing hearings before the Committee on Foreign Affairs of our House of Representatives, invites a sympathetic concern also in the political circumstances of the inhabitants of this "bewitching" country, who bear the name of "Georgians." The ancestors of these people, who are still characteristically of tall, lithe figure and noble bearing, became acquainted with Greek civilization at a time "when our European "predecessors, living in primeval "woods, stood on no higher plane of "civilization than the savage Indians "of North America." Christian from the first century through a visitation of St. ANDREW, their country has stood as the advance guard on the Oriental front. But from the invasions of ZENGHIS Khan and TAMERLANE the land never fully recovered, though the people have maintained their faith and their culture (with a literacy of 96 per cent.) and have had periods of democratic sovereignty. Even now, though a member of the Russian Federation of Soviet Republics, Georgia enjoys a great degree of independent action. It has furnished some of the best brains of the present administration and at the Communist Right. It is apparently this influence which is showing itself at the present time in the movement away from the radical economic program and toward a Menshevistic policy.

Even if the appeal by friends of the Georgian Republic to Congress for recognition as an independent Government were successful, any such action on our part would be ineffective in securing for this gallant people, now holding an ancient homestead of the race, its political title in fee; but the appeal has invited a grateful remembrance of the contribution of this region to the civilization of the West, sympathy for a people who have endured Promethean torture and hardship in the sub-tropical valleys upon which the "snowy Caucasus" looks down perpetually, and disappointment that this "veritable paradise" is practically shut away from the view of the rest of the world—a land which one wishing to describe could find no better way of doing than to ask the reader to imagine the Bay of Naples to be a part of Switzerland.

THE WASHINGTON CONFERENCE A PEACEMAKER.

Discussion always gets a little heated in the Institute of Politics at Williamstown when Rear Admiral ROGERS, retired, takes the floor to discuss the Washington Naval Conference. The British representatives resented his statement that the conference was called "because Great "Britain objected to the United States "having a merchant fleet and a navy "bigger than her own." If the Admiral was right, President HARDING must have been wrong when, in addressing the Senate to report the conclusions of the conference, he said:

> We have seen the eyes of the world turned to the Pacific. With Europe prostrate and penitent, none feared the likelihood of early conflict there. But the Pacific had its menaces, and they deeply concerned us.

Reviewing our interests in the Far East, Mr. HARDING had something to say of the responsibilities incurred in promoting the policy of the Open Door in China. And then:

> Holding the possessions we do, entertaining these views and confessing these ambitions, why should we not make reciprocal engagements to respect the territory of others and assure their respect for ours, and thus quiet apprehension and put an end to suspicion? There has been concern. There has been apprehension of territorial greed, a most fruitful cause of war. The conference has dissipated both, and your ratification of the covenants made will stabilize a peace for the breaking of which there is not a shadow of reason or real excuse.

There was a great deal more in the Washington Conference than the agreement to maintain a 5-3-3-1.75 naval ratio in capital ships and to restrict tonnage of airplane carriers. High officers of the navy like Admiral PRATT have understood this. The agreements made at the conference greatly lessened the risks of war, not only because naval armaments were reduced but because the Four-Power Treaty recognized and restricted insular possessions and dominions in the Pacific Ocean, while the Nine-Power Treaty established principles and policies to be followed in matters concerning China. If the conference had not been called by President HARDING, peace in the Pacific could not have been counted on from one year's end to another. Political conditions there were getting critical. Statesmanship had to associate them with the agitation to continue the Anglo-Japanese compact. The emergency called for consultation among the great Powers to avert a possible war. Naval rivalry between the United States and Great Britain was no cause for serious concern, but it was necessary to limit armaments for the general welfare. Historians are already saying that the political aspects of what was accomplished at Washington were of more importance than the establishment of a naval ratio. It was not extended to all units. That will be the work of a new conference. Both Admiral RODGERS and Captain W. W. SMYTHE are right in deploring competitive construction of 10,000-ton cruisers.

NUMERICAL SEX BALANCE.

Something of a social and moral revolution has been forecast for Western Europe as the result of the numerical disproportion between the sexes, created or accentuated by the World War casualties. In Great Britain, shortly before the war, the female population was 106 per cent. of the male population. In 1921 the ratio had risen to 110 per cent. Every one Englishwoman in ten was a "superfluous" woman. In Germany before the war, the female population was 103 per cent. of the male population. In 1919 the ratio was 110 per cent. In absolute numbers, the female majority in Germany had risen from 850,000 to 2,840,000, and in Great Britain from 1,300,000 to more than 1,700,000. These would be the women for whom the chances of marriage were non-existent and who accordingly would proceed to readjust their lives to a new economics and a new ethics.

Such prophecies have failed to take into account the mysterious operations of "nature," which has a way of restoring the disturbed sex balance after every great war involving a decrease in the male population. Only the other day a British scientist alluded to this well-established phenomenon in population growth, and now Austria reports that the process has been well under way. Of those under the age of 20, the men outnumber the women by 12,000. There is reason for believing that the same process has operated elsewhere. The next detailed census in Great Britain and Germany will show. It will be noticed that "nature" in peace does not insist on an absolute parity of the sexes. For the world as a whole it was estimated before the war that 50.3 per cent. of the population was male and 49.7 per cent. female. In Europe the ratio was reversed. There the proportions were 49.4 per cent. male and 50.6 per cent. female. This would indicate that before the war there were 6,000,000 more women than men in Europe. The United States has been a recognized exception to the Occidental rule because of immigration, which has been male in a heavy majority. In 1910 the male population was 106 per cent. of the female population. In 1920 it was 104 per cent.

Why "nature" should operate in favor of the male in Asia and in favor of the female in the countries of the West may be explained in part, though only in part. It is really not "nature" but man. The sex proportions at birth may be very nearly the same in East and West. But wherever the man-child is preferred as a worker, as in China, or as the continuator of the family memory and rite, as in India, it is more than likely that the man-child receives the greater care. The disparity between the sexes would be accounted for by the greater number of males who survive. In Europe no such discriminations operate on an extensive scale and the chances of survival for children of both sexes are probably the same. Yet it may be that "nature" has her own way of taking cognizance of such artificial things as the factory system and broader economic opportunities for women. In the industrialized West "nature" seems to be aware that girls as well as boys can work in the cotton mills.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Really the Worst for Years.

Though the memories of oldest inhabitants, especially as regards the weather, are not implicitly to be trusted, they have more than excuse for saying that the thunderstorm of Thursday afternoon was the most severe that has passed over Manhattan in their time.

The electrical display was of unusual violence. During most of such storms, if they are at all near, there are a few thunderclaps in which the flash and the noise come close together, and the sound is a rending crash like the firing of a big gun. In this instance there were at least a hundred such smashing explosions, separated by seconds rather than minutes.

But though yesterday's papers contained a long list of damage done, there was strangely little of it, considering the amount of energy that was let loose. Again the steel frame buildings justified the faith of their occupants, for nobody in them was hurt by the lightning. Several such buildings were "struck," but the injury done was confined in each case to the displacing of a few stones from cornices. That fact well might be considered by the architects, for it is a real danger to people in the streets. When the electrical charge reaches the steel framework it passes harmlessly off, for though the "bolt" is of enormous tension, in quantity it is very small and therefore quickly dissipated by large masses of metal that is a good conductor.

The common apprehension as to radio antennae seems to have little or no basis. Only two or three out of the many thousands in this vicinity were struck, and in no cases were the consequences more serious than the burning out of a few tubes. The big WJZ sending station in Bound Brook and some others suspended activities during the height of the storm, but the rest kept on, and none of them suffered from anything worse than inability to overcome the terrible static produced by the storm.

A Little Child of Cyclones.

To the observers in Weather Bureau stations, thunderstorms seem deserving of little respect—possibly because their erratic course, and the difficulty of predicting just when and where they will break, cause about nine-tenths of the public's incredulity as to the bureau's prophetic powers.

Meteorologically, the thunderstorm, unless it attains tornado violence, is a trivial affair—a passing disturbance in the precipitation segment of a cyclone.

An additional peculiarity of Thursday's storm was that, in spite of its severity, it was not followed by any real change in the atmospheric conditions. The conflict between a wave of cold air and that in a big area of warm and humid air was violent for a while, but it ended in a draw, or rather in a victory for the hot and wet forces, and not long after the battle things were just about as they were before.

Yesterday was quite as trying as any of its predecessors during the week. It made one wish that the Wise Ones in the Weather Bureau stations would devise a new scale of figures, in each of which temperature, wind and humidity should have its due share of telling just what humans felt. No one of the three, nor all three together but separate, tell that, and though we know how we feel, we would like to have our sensations accurately and scientifically defined and measured.

Pleasant Folk, Bolsheviki!

With characteristic regard for the opinions, rights and privileges of other people, the present rulers of Russia announce that when they get their new 150-kilowatt broadcasting station completed they are going to use like giants the gigantic powers it will give them. Their amiable expectation is that they will be able to drown the waves of all the other European stations and not only send out as much propaganda as they please, whenever they please, but will prevent any intelligible communication by anybody else.

That will be a real nice way to win favor for the world revolution! With the product of their receiving sets limited exclusively to expositions of the Marxian philosophy, the great army of listeners-in will be happy, indeed!

But while a superstation such as the Sovieteers propose could do for a while at least some of the things they promise—or threaten—there would be large possibilities of interfering with the interferers, and it is one of the charming peculiarities of the radio that nobody can be forced to hear anything that does not please or interest him. Nothing is easier than to close the path from aerial to loud-speaker or ear phones, and no coercion can be exercised by any Cheka on recalcitrant owners of receiving sets.

Men Would Welcome the Chance.

A fine idea was the one laid before the National Retail Jewelers' Association in Philadelphia this week by a feminine delegate. She told her attentive colleagues that they were neglecting a large and potentially profitable field. If wives would stop thinking of themselves for a while and devote the time to inculcating into their husbands their own love of jewelry, the dealer in gems soon would find his business at least doubled.

There may be something in this scheme. The wives, by cultivating in their mates their own habit of hanging shiny bits of stone and metals about their persons, probably would facilitate the gratification of their own desires along this line to the exact degree of their success in encouraging the same tendency in men.

And the latter would not need much persuasion if they had the price. Even now they dress as gayly as they dare, and their present lack of the decorations so common not so many years ago presumably is due, not to personal preference, but to the self-centred acquisitiveness of women, weakly yielded to by the modern male.

Lavish use of jewelry is about the only folly men do not commit. Why draw the line there?

AS TO DEBT REDUCTION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that Frederick W. Peabody is on the way to organize a couple of million people to secure a reduction of the debts to be collected from our late allies, it seems in order that those who feel that we have given them too much consideration should step into the breach and begin to organize our forces. Apparently, it is to be a battle to win public opinion.

I suggest that the organizers of the debt collectors' association, be drawn from the ranks of that important section of the A. E. F. known as the Rent, Requisition and Claims Service. These are the boys who paid every Frenchman who could discover a claim against Uncle Shylock (how ironic that seems when contrasted with what was experienced over there). Let some of these boys start telling the world about how much we paid for camp sites, how much we paid for trees knocked down by our artillery rushing up to save those altruistic spuls who despise any one who would take a dollar from them; what were the charges for transporting our troops; how much per meal did we have to pay and how much per day. Of course, everybody knows now that we didn't do a thing to win the war. We just butted in at the last minute and we really ought to be made to pay for the privilege, just as we were made to pay for nearly everything else over there.

As to that hostility which has just been discovered by so many wearers of the Legion of Honor, this is only new to them. The men who served any time at all during the late war were quite conscious of the fact that we were never looked upon with anything but contempt. Our English and French brothers in arms felt it for us, and please remember that the American soldier returned the compliment twice over. In other words, national prejudices which are so wonderfully nourished over here by various organizations don't require nourishment over there; they despise all strangers, although they will take their money.

However, while it is very amusing when you come to think of all the claptrap that is spilled every time they distribute another gross of ribbons, it behooves us to step lively. For as the ribbons of the Legion of Honor and the crosses of this and that multiply, the ranks of the apologists for America's shortcomings become greater, and as they usually can shout louder than most people, the noise is very deceptive. Of course, the Government of the United States can deflate the entire movement by one piece of printed matter, which no official dares to issue. Let them tell the American people just once what the Rent, Requisition and Claims section was up against; what the Quartermaster Department was up against and what every disbursing officer of the army, navy or marine corps was up against in dealing with our dear allies and you'll never hear anything more about debt reduction.

THE DOMINIE'S TYKE.

When o'er the school the De'il hauds rule,
And a' the world seems naughty-o,
I toddle hame, an' at the same
I'm greeted by my Scottie-o!
My canny, grizzled Scottie-o!
My plume-tailed, waggin' Scottie-o!
Then wae's forgot, no matter what,
Dispellit by my Scottie-o!

Now but to be a dominie
Wad send the maist folk dotty-o;
But I just smile, an' think the while Upon my whimsy Scottie-o!
My bow-leg'd, furry Scottie-o!
My stubborn, lovin' Scottie-o!
For soon the grind is left behind,
And I am wi' my Scottie-o!

And gin MacPhee should one day dee,

CHINESE DISCUSSIONS.

Varying Reports of What Was Said at Williamstown.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in today's issue, entitled "Chinese Chaos in the Berkshires," comes as a genuine surprise. I can only hope that the accounts which have reached you, being in the nature of the case far from complete, may bear the blame. Let me make my case clear.

1. "Some of the speakers at Williamstown are still trying to perpetuate two of the biggest myths that have come out of China in recent years—that China is not ruled by the militarists," is one of the editorial statements. Now, the position taken time after time by the speakers here was that the disorder produced in China by the militarists was serious, was deplorable, was calling for immediate removal. At neither round table nor general conference has there been contrary utterance. That would be impossible. The point that has been stressed, and vigorously stressed, is this, that militarists will never have the last word in China. Examples of this are found in Yuan Shi-kai, who proposed to become Emperor, but was prevented by nation-wide public opinion; in Chang Ching-yao, who laid Hunan waste between 1918 and 1920 with the largest and most cruel army imaginable, but who was compelled to leave because of hostile public opinion. It is a common saying in China that "military power cannot endure for long." Obvious and deplorable as the conditions produced in China by the militarists are, the position taken by those you refer to as perpetuators of myths is this, that as public opinion becomes fully informed and completely awakened, and as other constructive forces become more fully developed, militarism will be driven out.

2. "That the Peking Government is strong." You have only created a bogy in order to knock one down. No such suggestion has ever been made at Williamstown. On the contrary, discussion has continued to be on the question of how, in view of the weakness of the central Government, customs surtax income could be controlled and how likin could be done away with.

3. You refer to the question raised by one, quoting it thus, "Is China a nation or a market?" Now, the question put was this, "Are we to treat China as if she were a nation or as if she were merely a market?" In other words, the entire debate at this point centres around the question of our attitude—are we to treat China as if she had rights, some of those, for example, that the Washington Conference referred to; or are we merely to proceed as if our whole relationship were to be based on protecting our commercial interests?

4. You say further, "There is no unity among the Chinese people." I wish you had lived in China during the past twelve months so that you could discover the tremendous unity that has become theirs both in a negative way, that is by opposition to what appears to them the intrusion of the Westerner, and in a positive way by the great development of unified financial and industrial enterprise, by the growth of education on a nation-wide system, by the spread of mass education and the use of the "kwoh-yu" or "national tongue," which makes it possible for educated persons to travel throughout the land and speak to other educated persons through the use of a common tongue. These unifying forces are far less evident than the destructive work of the militarists, far less dramatic than the marching of armies and the dropping of bombs; but these are the forces that have already produced a very great unity among the Chinese people and will develop into power great enough to weld them into something we can scarcely appreciate, namely, a nation of four hundred millions, bound by ties of tradition and language and working for a new national life.

I agree with you fully in your insistence that China cannot be spoken of in twentieth-century terminology. She is attempting to compass, within a limited period of time, revolutions in so many spheres of life that achievement cannot possibly be complete. What China asks of the Western world may be expressed in two words: patience and cooperation. What friends of China ask of the THE TIMES is to recognize that there is no blinking of the facts among true friends; but they insist that without friendly strengthening of the forces that are regenerating China, this ancient and yet new country across the Pacific will be estranged from us, to the serious loss of both. In the present crisis, for instance, I am fully convinced, from intimate friendship with many Chinese in all walks of life and in several parts of China, that much of the confusion and almost acrimonious debate could be removed if a commission of Chinese and Americans could sit down together and lay out a program of procedure. Of course, it will take years to settle complex problems like those of extraterritoriality; but announcing a friendly plan will quiet much apprehension and pave the way for discussion of the steps to be followed.

Whipping Post, but No Pistols.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having read in the columns of THE NEW YORK TIMES a letter by Randolph Kingsley advising everybody to carry a revolver as protection against criminals, I wish to point out the follow of his plan.

In the first place, the criminal usually has "the drop" before one can reach for a revolver. In the second place, the possession of a revolver is in itself a source of danger, as it may fall into irresponsible hands, such as those of children—a common occurrence. Third, there is the danger of using the weapon on an innocent person. I recall a case where a man came home late at night and by mistake entered the wrong house. He was mistaken for a burglar and shot.

To my mind, the only cure for the criminal is the whipping post; the only prevention of murder, the restriction of manufacture of firearms. No ordinary store or mail-order house should be permitted to sell revolvers.

ONLY OUR PRODUCTS FOR OUR EMBASSIES

Kellogg Tells Textile Makers American Furnishings Will Be Used Exclusively.

AGREED TO BY COMMISSION

Secretary Says Only Exception Will Be When Goods Cannot Be Got "Reasonably" Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—It looks as if Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Great Britain; Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, and the many other American diplomatic representatives abroad will not be permitted to have Oriental rugs and foreign tapestries and other mural hangings in the embassy and legation buildings which this Government is about to erect or purchase in capitals throughout the world, with money furnished in accordance with an act passed at the last session of Congress.

According to a formal explanation now made by Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, there never was any intention of using other than American furnishings for the new diplomatic establishments, "unless they cannot be reasonably secured in this country." This explanation was drawn out by the fact that for nearly a month American carpet and other textile circles have been agitated by the fear that Oriental rugs and foreign silk draperies were to be used in the new dwellings of Ambassadors and Ministers in preference to similar articles made in America.

The inception of what Secretary Kellogg characterizes as a "misunderstanding" was a meeting of the Foreign Service Buildings Commission on July 15, this commission having been created by Congress to carry out the embassy and legation building program. It consists of Secretaries Kellogg, Mellon and Hoover, Senators Borah and Swanson and Representatives Porter and Linthicum.

Based on Published Statement.

Most of the agitation in the textile world seems to have been based on a statement in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES that only American equipment and furniture would be used in the new buildings, except Oriental rugs and silk hangings. The intention was to convey the understanding that Oriental rugs and other foreign-made furnishings would be used only where their American equivalents could not be obtained, or, as Secretary Kellogg now explains, "cannot be reasonably secured in this country."

According to a member of the commission it was agreed at its meeting on July 15 that all furnishings of diplomatic establishments should be purchased in the United States wherever practicable. During the discussion mention was made that it might not be practicable in all cases to limit purchases to American products, and specific mention was made of Oriental rugs and foreign tapestries and hangings as among the classes of products that might have to be bought abroad.

It is indicated by Secretary Kellogg's explanation that if there was any thought of using Oriental rugs or any furnishings of foreign origin whatever, it has been discarded, and that every bit of the equipment in the new embassies and legations will be stamped "Made in America."

Text of Kellogg's Letter.

Secretary Kellogg's letter, which was written to the textile editor of The New York Commercial, in answer to an inquiry sent to President Coolidge, reads as follows:

Mr. Francis A. Adams,
Textile Editor,
New York Commercial,
38 Park Row,
New York, N. Y.

Sir:—

The President has referred to me your letter to him, dated July 20, with enclosure of clipping from your paper of Tuesday, July 20, in which you comment unfavorably upon a decision of the Foreign Service Buildings Commission, set up by an act of Congress approved by the President on May 7, 1926, particularly with regard to the purchase abroad of furnishings for American embassies, legations and consulates.

In reply I beg to advise that this article appears to be based on a misunderstanding of the terms of the commission's decision, which was that "such furniture and furnishings as may be secured shall be purchased in the United States, under the supervision of the Secretary of State, except when they cannot be reasonably secured in this country." The commission considered this decision very carefully, and in the course of the discussion all members were agreed upon making every practicable purchase in this country.

The commission, as you will readily appreciate, realizes that, particularly within the last few years, the factories of the United States have made great progress in developing their plants so as to manufacture articles in many cases superior to the articles in whose manufacture foreign countries have heretofore enjoyed a virtual monopoly, and the practical effect of the commission's decision is to limit all purchases to American-made goods, unless they cannot be reasonably secured in this country.

As your article does not make this clear, but suggests a "direct discrimination against domestic floor coverings," I would appreciate your courtesy in advising the textile and other manufacturers who may have been misled that no such discrimination will in fact occur.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
FRANK B. KELLOGG.

Returned Copy of Pilgrim's Progress Brings Lower Price at Sotheby's.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The copy of the first edition of Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, which was sold at Sotheby's on July 26 for $34,000, but was returned yesterday by the purchaser as not being the first issue of the first edition, was sold again today to an English collector. The sum is not mentioned, but it is understood to have been considerably lower than the first purchase price.

It was stated yesterday by Sotheby's that the existence of two issues of the first edition had not been generally known to bibliographers. Inquiries now show that the fact was known and published forty years ago, but since then had been completely forgotten.

The Huntington copy of Pilgrim's Progress in the United States and three copies in this country are all of the first edition.

COOLIDGE FORMING FARM RELIEF PLAN

Wide Program Coordinating Credit Sources Is Expected in About Six Weeks.

DISCUSSES IT WITH HOOVER

President Is Encouraged by the Commerce Secretary's Report on Foreign Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The Administration's new plans to aid farmers were discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover today and it is understood that a very extensive farm-relief program, that will be more far-reaching than any of the Administration proposals yet made, will be announced within the next six weeks.

In his discussion of business conditions President Coolidge let it be known that tentative plans had been worked out for improving the agricultural situation by means of coordinating the different existing agencies that provide farm credits, such as banks and insurance and mortgage loan companies.

The conference also brought out the fact that the Commerce Department has had some progress in obtaining beneficial adjustments in the textile industry, its activity having been directed to the cotton-spinning trade. In the past month or six weeks a distinctive improvement has been noted.

Mr. Hoover's report represented business conditions as exceedingly good with some sagging in agriculture, the textiles and the bituminous coal industry. He noted an improvement in the prices of some farm products and said construction was 15 per cent. greater in volume than it was a year ago.

Foreign Trade Report Encouraging.

In response to the President's inquiry, Mr. Hoover said that the foreign trade of Europe was about the same as before the World War, England showing a slight gain over its pre-war record, though Germany and France indicated a slight loss.

He reported that the exports of the United States, reduced to pre-war prices, were about 57 per cent. greater than before the World War, while the imports were about 37 per cent. greater. The fact that our exports of manufactured goods were 12 per cent. greater this year greatly encouraged the President, who believes that the real test of whether the United States is holding its own in the world trade is in such exports and not in exports of raw materials.

Mr. Hoover explained the falling off of the American trade balance last year as due to the reduced prices on cotton and wheat, although the volume of these chief exports were as large as in the preceding year, and the increased priced on rubber, one of the principal imports.

Not Yet Positive on Dry Fund.

Arthur P. Rugg, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, a guest at White Pine Camp, sat with President Coolidge today during the bi-weekly conference with newspapermen. President Coolidge had invited him there, he explained, because this was the place where new ideas were made.

One of the questions that appeared to interest Chief Justice Rugg especially was whether the Government would expend more money next year for prohibition. The report of official circles yesterday that the budget carried a greater item for prohibition enforcement in 1928 than in the present year was brought up.

Inasmuch as the President had not discussed the schedule for prohibition enforcement or for any of the bureaus of the Treasury with Director of the Budget Lord there was no way by which the President could determine how much was in the budget for this work. Offhand, the President thought that it ought to be less, because a great deal had been expended this year in building quarters for the Coast Guards, but he did not desire to be definite on this, because some increased activities had been taken on by the prohibition enforcement unit.

President and Mrs. Coolidge had as luncheon guests today Ogden Reid, publisher of The New York Herald Tribune; Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who came over from their camp on Upper St. Regis Lake. John Coolidge will rejoin his parents here tomorrow after his six weeks in the University of Vermont Summer School at Burlington.

COOLIDGE APPROVES CHAIN OF AIRWAYS

jected air service would be maintained at the cheapest cost through the cooperation of the industries making flying machines. He believed that the service would be of the greatest advantage to business and would aid in national defense because the airways were being laid out with the military needs in view.

Secretary Hoover made a hasty trip to the Summer White House to get his plan approved and then hurried West on an inspection tour.

MacCracken to Coordinate Details.

While he is absent from the capital, the new Assistant Secretary of Aviation, William P. MacCracken, will bring together all of the activities so that the Government can have all the added lighting and landing facilities on the two routes now operating within six months, and the postal contracts can be turned over to private concerns by that time to enable them to maintain a passenger and freight service in conjunction with the postal service now being operated by the Government.

Mr. Hoover said that the Government was making current expenses over the transcontinental route and that about $450,000 a year had been expended, which amount would be given to a private contractor for carrying the mail, assuring a nucleus that ought to make the passenger and freight service profitable.

Postmaster General New, it was explained, was prepared to turn over the contract for carrying the night mail service between New York and Chicago and the entire transcontinental postal service as soon as the Post-office Department could be assured a continuity of performance. The night mail service to Chicago in the last few months has been making operating expenses.

"In my opinion we will have a passenger, freight and mail service on the transcontinental route in six months," Secretary Hoover said.

"There are four or five groups interested in air development prepared to develop commercial aviation over this and other routes. Americans are only waiting an opportunity to advance air science and now we have the necessary law and proper Government support to bring about a quick and comprehensive air service system."

Among those operating air routes or experimenting with flying machines to make air service profitable and secure, Secretary Hoover mentioned Henry Ford. The Ford company, he said, was not only operating freight air service between Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago, but was building machines which, it was hoped, would lessen the cost of operation.

Thomas E. Mitten, President of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, has entered this field and is prepared to spend large sums in developing the air service between the larger Middle Atlantic States cities, such as Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh. Mr. Mitten is now operating between Philadelphia and Washington, with a stop at Baltimore.

Another group operates between Boston and New York, and a private concern has the service between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City and from Pueblo to Cheyenne.

One of the most pretentious air concerns is the National Airway Company, which was organized by Paul Henderson, former Assistant Postmaster General and son-in-law of Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois.

With William P. MacCracken, now Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aviation, Mr. Henderson developed the route from Chicago to Dallas.

NO REPLY TO CLEMENCEAU.

President's First Impression to Be Extent of Government's Recognition

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The impression indicated by President Coolidge while at Plymouth on the Clemenceau letter appealing for a modification of the terms of the French debt settlement, it is understood, represents all the recognition that will be given by the Government to this incident.

While here today Secretary Hoover, who as a member of the American Debt Commission was not so favorable to the terms as his colleagues, declined to make any comment on the letter or on its possible effect upon ratification of the terms by the Senate.

AUTHOR DIES UNSUNG SCRIPTS FILL TRUNK

An obscure roomer in the Mills Hotel, 160 Bleecker Street, in the Greenwich Village section, who died about two months ago, was revealed today as an author of promise, who had amassed $2,000 savings from his literary ventures.

The author, who went to his grave unsung, was Julius Weddekind, 54 years old. He died on June 11 at New York Hospital from pneumonia.

From letters found among his personal belongings it was learned that his only living relative was a cousin, a Miss Edna Belser of 7 East McMillan Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. As executrix Miss Belser called upon Crouse and Goldstone of 165 Broadway to act as her attorney in settling the estate.

It was then found that in addition to the $2,000, the author had also left a trunk filled with unpublished manuscripts. He had lived at the Mills Hotel for five years, and in that time had written and published many short stories under various pen names, and had received a cash prize in a literary contest.

The trunk was found stored at the Central Mercantile Bank, Fourteenth Street and Fifth Avenue. Among the many manuscripts were also many rejection slips. Scattered among these slips were postal savings certificates amounting to $340. There were also bankbooks showing considerable deposits, and insurance papers.

The attorneys are now seeking some literary expert to read these manuscripts, so that a value can be placed upon them, as they wish to dispose of the lot.

Weddekind paid $2.80 weekly for his room at the hotel. As the income from his writings varied and was often uncertain, like many other struggling authors he found employment during the day to earn his bread. For some time he was employed as a collector for the Buro Filter Company of 18 West Eighteenth Street.

It was said at the Mills Hotel last night that he had been idealistic and really represented the true type of Greenwich Villager. His favorite haunt was Washington Square. Here he would sit during the evenings near the memorial arch, where he could hear the fountain splashing, with the electric cross atop the Judson memorial building gleaming against the sky, and think out his stories.

While he wrote largely of Greenwich Village life, it is said that he rarely joined in the night gayeties of the district. He preferred solitude.

Among the various pen names that he used were Morrell Hazard, Ed Waterfall, A. Denver and Parke Wynsor.

The titles of some of his published manuscripts, found in the trunk, are "Smith," "Gay Cabaret," "Heaped Into Two Trunks," "Wine," "Safe From Vamps," "How the Jewels Looked on Delia," "Dreams Come True," "Business Dress" and "After Years."

STUDIES FOR THE ARMY TO AVOID DEPORTATION

Russian Has 18 Days to Acquire Enough English to Pass Test—Woman Befriends Him.

Georges Zagorsky, a Russian, 25 years old, whose permit to stay in this country six months as a visitor expires in eighteen days, is seeking admission to the United States Army. It is required that all candidates for enlistment in the army must be able to read and write English. Zagorsky, although proficient in seven European languages, is not advanced in English. He will strive in the next two weeks to pass the examination.

Zagorsky's family lived and prospered in Southern Russia prior to 1914, where the father owned large sugar mills. When the revolution came most of his family were killed by Bolsheviki. Young Zagorsky escaped to Constantinople, where Mrs. William Loveland of 957 Park Avenue, New York, became interested in his efforts to come to America. She obtained for him a Turkish passport.

Mrs. Loveland appealed to Colonel James T. Dean, Chief of the Army Recruiting Bureau at 39 Whitehall Street, to suggest some means to prevent Zagorsky's enforced return to Russia, where he and his people are outlawed. Colonel Dean proposed that the young man might enter the army.

Asked if he would care to join the army Zagorsky said, "Immensely." He explained that his people had been soldiers for generations as well as industrialists.

PAY OR GO TO JAIL, 'POOR BANKER' TOLD

COURT ASSAILS THE PLEA

Decision Declares Financier in Contempt, and That Conduct Amounts to Fraud.

A Jersey City banker who pleaded inability to meet a court judgment because he had signed over his salary to his wife and received from her only a few pennies daily for carfare and other necessities, was notified in a judgment yesterday that some means must clear him of his legal debt or he would be sent to the County Jail.

Elliott Hardon, Vice President of the Mercantile Trust Company, the banker in question, refused at his home last evening to say which way his preference lay. His counsel, however, said that the debt would be paid and counsel for the plaintiff said that he would not demand the banker's immediate incarceration.

The action, in which Samuel Milberg, lawyer, of 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, is plaintiff, dates back to the Autumn of 1924, when Edward Leber of Coles Street, Jersey City, and his son-in-law, Barnet Epstein, were indicted on a charge of receiving stolen goods. A truckload of electrical equipment being delivered from Connecticut was stolen in New York and delivered to Leber and Epstein, it was charged. They were released under bail, Leber obtaining the bonds in both cases through a lien on real estate.

Epstein, under $20,000 bail, disappeared before trial and Leber appealed for aid to Mr. Milberg, who had been attorney for relatives of Epstein. Sale of Leber's real estate was threatened by court order. Leber, seeking Epstein for presentation in court to save his property, retained Mr. Milberg, who agreed to take the case, his fee to be $5,000.

Brings Suit Charging Fraud.

Leber agreed to post the fee with Mr. Hardon, pending the completion of the case, and although Mr. Hardon said, according to Mr. Milberg, that the money was in his hands, it developed when the case was ended and Mr. Milberg sought his fee that nothing more than a promissory note was in the banker's hands. This proved of no value.

Mr. Milberg brought action against Mr. Hardon, charging fraud, and alleging that he was trustee to the extent of $5,000. A decree naming Mr. Hardon as trustee was granted and action was brought demanding the payment by him of the $5,000 forthwith. Mr. Milberg won this action, and Vice Chancellor John Bentley issued an order that the money be paid. Mr. Hardon then explained the financial system in effect in his home.

At a hearing on the plea of Mr. Milberg that Mr. Hardon be cited for contempt of court by refusing to pay the $5,000, Mr. Hardon said that he had no money. His salary, he said, was $9,000 a year, and this he turned over to his wife. The unusual predicament of a banker without funds brought upon Mr. Hardon was commented upon by Chancellor Bentley in his decision yesterday, holding Mr. Hardon in contempt of court.

Charging that Mr. Hardon's action constituted fraud, the decision said:

"The conduct of Hardon having amounted to actual fraud and being the very basis of the decree against him, and having found as a fact that he has not sustained the burden of proving the poverty he alleges, I feel that the complainant is entitled ex debito justitiae to the assistance of the court in compelling this defendant to respond to its decree. His having placed his property beyond the reach of the ordinary processes of our practice has made it necessary to resort to the extremest measure. I will advise an order adjudicating that the defendant Hardon has committed a civil contempt and that the proper writ go."

The "extreme measure" referred to in Chancellor Bentley's decision would be an application for a warrant for Mr. Hardon's arrest.

MRS. SEASONGOOD'S WILL.

Mrs. W. E. Lauer, Daughter, Inherits More Than $500,000.

Disposing of more than $600,000 in specific bequests, the will of Mrs. Ida Seasongood, widow of Charles Seasongood of Cincinnati, a clothing manufacturer, was filed for probate yesterday. She died at Deal, N. J., on Aug. 1. Her home was at 37 East Seventy-second Street.

A legacy of $500,000 is given to Mrs. Jennie S. Lauer, a daughter and the wife of William E. Lauer. In addition Mrs. Lauer inherits the property in Seventy-second Street, all effects, a $10,000 legacy and a life interest in the residuary estate. Her husband bets $10,000 in cash.

BOY DIES IN FALL.

Topples From Window of His Home While Watching Horses.

His fondness for looking out the window resulted in the death yesterday of Angelo Butteglíva, 5 years old, of 1,062 Stebbins Avenue, the Bronx. Angelo died in Lincoln Hospital an hour after he had fallen from his parents' apartment to the street.

Down the street the hay and feed establishment of R. Hellman, at 1,102 Stebbins Avenue, had been of much interest to Angelo, especially when horses pulled up there. The sound of horses' hoofs brought him to the window, from which he fell three stories.

A Son to Baroness von Wrangell.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 13.—A son has been born to Baron and Baroness von Wrangell in the Hackensack Hospital. The infant, who has been named Charles Philip Edward von Rokassovsky, is the first member of the Wrangell family born in the United States. His parents have been spending the Summer at Westwood. An ancestor, Baron Ferdinand von Wrangell, discovered Wrangell Island, scene of disasters to Arctic expeditions. Another ancestor, Baron Platon von Rokassovsky, was Governor General of Finland and opened the First Finnish Parliament. Baroness von Wrangell is a daughter of August Merckens of Buffalo.

PRESIDENT DUANE GIVES DEGREES AT FORDHAM

The ninth annual commencement exercises of the Fordham University Summer session were held in the university auditorium yesterday morning, with 110 students receiving degrees. The Right Rev. John J. Dunn, D.D., auxiliary bishop of New York, presided at the ceremonies, while the Very Rev. William J. Duane, S. J., President of the university, conferred the degrees upon the graduates.

Sixty-eight nuns among the graduates lent a touch of ecclesiastical dignity to the ceremonies, their black habits contrasting with the dress of the other students, who did not wear the academic robes customary at a university commencement.

Short extemporaneous speeches were made by Bishop Dunn and President Duane, congratulating the students upon their Summer's work. Following the presentation of degrees a luncheon was served with the Summer session Faculty as hosts, in honor of the Rev. Dr. R. Rush Ranken, S. J., who is leaving as Dean of the Graduate School after five years of service. Dr. Maurice E. Roglin, who presided, presented Dean Ranken with two traveling bags and a "spiritual bouquet" on behalf of the Faculty.

The Fordham Summer session was established nine years ago, with a modest enrolment. Today it has 1,185 students taking a wide variety of courses.

SHIP'S SURGEON DIES OF DIVING INJURY

Dr. John Gasperine, 35, of the Tuscania Fractured Vertebra at Long Beach.

Dr. John Gasperine, 35 years old, surgeon of the Cunarder Tuscania, seriously injured yesterday afternoon at Long Beach when he dived from a pile into shallow water, died last night in the Nassau Hospital at Mineola. When examined there he was found to have dislocated or fractured his vertebra. He was paralyzed on both sides.

Dr. Daniel Murphy, surgeon of the Anchor liner Cameronia, due to sail today at noon for Glasgow, was with Dr. Gasperine when the accident occurred and accompanied him to the hospital. Dr. Murphy was transferred to the Tuscania to act as surgeon on the voyage home, as the liner sailed at 12 midnight for Southampton and Havre.

Dr. Murphy said Dr. Gasparine had climbed to the top of a pole and dived off all right the first time. It was only a drop of seven feet. The second time he waited too long and hit the wave as it was receding and the water was less than four feet deep.

Dr. Gasparine leaves a father and a sister in Bridgeport, Conn., and a widow in Loncon, where his home was. He served during the World War as a surgeon in the royal navy. He was a graduate of Edinburgh University.

MOTHER OF FOUR SLAIN.

Husband Surrenders and Is Said to Have Confessed Killing.

Antonio Di Palo, 27 years old, Italian employe of a Brooklyn electrical concern, walked into the Wilson Avenue Police Station in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon and surrendered. He is said to have confessed that he murdered his wife, Rose, 30 years old, of 30 Irving Avenue, Brooklyn.

Her body was found by her four small children early yesterday morning. She had been killed with an axe which was found at the foot of the bed where the body lay.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd said the man made a full confession, declaring that he had contemplated the murder since Monday, when he was driven into a jealous frenzy by his wife. He always gave her all but a dollar of his weekly wages of $28, he said, but she insisted on going to the moving pictures with another man.

HITS "MONEY IN POLITICS."

Borah Tells Idaho Voters It Is a "Fearful Evil."

FAIRFIELD, Idaho, Aug. 13 (AP).—Senator William E. Borah, in an address at the annual pioneer celebration at Camas Prairie here today, declared that "startling revelations as to the expenditures of money in elections" showed that "money has come to be the moving power in American politics." He expressed the wish that the exposure of "money in politics" would "succeed in arousing the people to the real problem before us."

Senator Borah asserted that exposures of the investigating committee were more than an "impeachment of the primary" when he advanced the admonition, "Let us not be deluded by the fallacious proposition that the late expenditures are due to the primary or confined to one or two States," and described expenditures of money in elections" as a "fearful national evil."

Rhinelander Appeal Filed.

Papers necessary to Leonard Kip Rhinelander's appeal from the decision of Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser last December denying him an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Alice Beatrice Jones Rhinelander, his partly colored wife, have been filed with the Appellate Division in Brooklyn. It is expected that argument will be heard by the Appellate bench next October. It was explained that the case is technically considered not before the Court until all of the documents requisite are submitted.

Released in Stolen Goods Case.

A charge of criminally receiving stolen goods against Frank Di Danato, 35 years old, of 207 East 149th Street, the Bronx, was dismissed by Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud in Morrisania Court yesterday for lack of evidence. Detectives of Inspector John O'Brien's staff raided the junk shop last week and said they found three stills and $22,000 worth of liquor. They also found a roll of copper wire, valued at $250, on which the receiving charge was based.

Not Drowned at Deauville Baths.

In a report of a drowning at Long Beach on Sunday it was said that Mrs. Caroline Steiner of 31 West 110th Street was drowned while swimming off the Deauville Baths. This, according to Charles E. Abram, manager of the baths, was erroneous and a reflection on Dr. Aaron Banks, the life guard there. The accident happened several hundred feet from the baths, Mr. Abram said.

SAY BERLIN INVENTS SOVIET STRIFE NEWS

Warsaw Officials Charge False Reports of Revolt Were Laid to Polish Sources.

TOURISTS TELL OF QUIET

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 13.—The Communist Government of Russia has been engaged in terrific political turmoil since the deposal of Zinovieff, but has not yet reached the stage of open revolt. It was learned by THE TIMES correspondent today from a Polish Government source that Moscow is supposed to be cut off from the outer world.

Considering Poland's dangerous proximity to the Soviet State, Americans here put much credence in this report of the situation, while Polish officials declare false the stories of the spread of revolution from Odessa to Leningrad which came from Berlin, and are purposely attributed to Polish sources.

Supporting their denials, hitherto considered unimportant, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today received a confidential report from Moscow to one of the highest Polish officials. It had been sent by special courier for the information of the American public. The text of the statement follows:

"I am surprised by the alarming news from Poland and other European countries about riotous upheavals and revolution in Russia as the outcome of the internal split in the Communist Party, with accompanying mutinies in the Ukraine, Kronstadt and other places. These reports only do harm and make the relations between Russia and the outside world more difficult.

Admits Government Is Shaken.

"Certainly the position of the present Russian Government is shaken. The split in the Communist Party has weakened the Government group, but this doesn't yet mean any great crisis in the Communist régime itself. Any alternative Government can be only a different Communist shade. I don't suppose that for years to come any new social and political régime except a Communist one is possible. The change can only be personal—Zinovieff instead of Stalin, Trotsky instead of Rykoff.

"The two main sections of the Communist Party are in really serious conflict against each other, but I haven't heard of any uprisings, &c. The present majority of the party is rather uncertain, and that is why the Soviet elections will be postponed. This postponement of the elections is the only serious outward sign of the Communist split.

"Far more difficult than the political situation of the Government groups is the economic crisis. Unemployment has been rapidly growing in the last few months and workers in many districts are actually starving. Dissatisfaction is very great and can be used, perhaps, by Zinovieff against Rykoff, but not by anti-Bolshevist or by emigrant groups outside against the Communist régime."

THE NEW YORK TIMES was requested to withhold the name of the author of the letter, but the text is being used as a guide for actions of the Foreign Office here as the first statement of real conditions in Russia.

Tourists Report No Trouble.

American travelers arriving from China and Japan via Moscow stated today that there were no signs of disturbances in Moscow or along the railway from Vladivostok. As the number of these arrivals is large and their interests are not identified with those of Russia, their report may be taken as correct, so far as the thousands of miles of territory they have seen are concerned.

Speaking to press representatives this morning about stories under Berlin date lines, Polish Foreign Office officials declared the original dispatches announcing a revolution in Russia originated in Germany and were deliberately attributed to two minor Polish telegraph agencies which, because their sources of news are somewhat indefinite, are not able to make effective denials.

L. F. VERMEULE MISSING.

Belleville (N. J.) Commissioner Wanted on Embezzlement Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEVILLE, N. J., Aug. 13.—Leroy F. Vermeule, former Commissioner of the Department of Revenue and Finance of Belleville, could not be found today when detectives, with a warrant for his arrest charging him with embezzlement, searched his home.

Vermeule, after serving as Commissioner for four years, was arrested in Newark on Aug. 3 on the charge of nonfeasance in office and released the same day in $10,000 bail. The charges followed an audit of the town's accounts. A report made on July 14 at a meeting of the Town Commission, said that there was a deficit in the Department of Revenue and Finance of about $45,000.

Auditors were put to work by Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy at the request of Edward Nelson, who succeeded Vermeule as Commissioner on May 1. Their investigation revealed an additional shortage which made the total deficit $61,000.

EGYPT CUTS FOREIGN STAFF

To Drop Eight Legations and Seven Consulates, Including New York.

CARICATURIST GETS MOVIES AT SALZBURG

'FLEDERMAUS' WINS OVATION

Proves Triumph for Artists—All Germany Celebrates Baireuth Anniversary.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SALZBURG, Aug. 13.—Taking moving pictures is barred at Salzburg to everybody but Ralph Barton, a New York caricaturist. Arriving here last night with his young daughter, Barton sallied forth this morning with a miniature motion picture camera under his arm in blissful ignorance of Max Reinhardt's prohibition against film making at the festival.

Mr. Barton began by screening celebrities among his compatriots, James Speyer, Morris Gest, Mrs. Minturn Pinchot, Mrs. Joseph Patterson, Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, Mrs. Julia Hoyt, who has just arrived, and others. Then, with Mr. Gest's assistance, he went after international stars of the theatre, adding to what he calls his "movie diary" Fritzi Massari, who bewitched the festival tonight with her performance in "Die Fledermaus" at the Municipal Theatre; Max Wallenburg, her comedian husband; Alexander Moisse, portrayer of "Everyman"; Maria Jeritza, who did not sing in tonight's production after all, and Tilly Losch.

This was simple enough. It required all of Gest's pursuasion and influence, however, to get Mr. Barton's machine past the doorkeeper at the Festspielhaus, whither the pair wended their way to see the rehearsal of "Turandot;" which has its first presentation there tomorrow night.

Mr. Reinhardt, the guardian of the portal declared, forbade movie cameras anywhere within his realm.

"That's all right," Mr. Gest replied, "we are going to make a picture of Mr. Reinhardt himself."

Thereupon the producer of "The Miracle" produced another one by leading the "Lord of Salzburg" out into the riding school courtyard and into the focus of Mr. Barton's lens.

Mr. Reinhardt looked a bit dismayed for a moment, then broke into a laugh and exclaimed:

"There is no beating you Americans."

After filming Luis Ranier smoking a cigarette in the tattered costume which he wears as a Chinese beggar in "Turandot," Mr. Barton accompanied Gest to the Masalli Café, founded in 1705, and routed Franz Mojnar, the Hungarian dramatist, out into the street to face the camera. Then he completed his day's labors by shooting the Schloss Leopoldskron and its lovely gardens.

"I am keeping a daily movie record of my European tour for two reasons," Mr. Barton explained. "It is not only lots of fun, but is mighty helpful in caricature making. I do not have to ask my victim to pose for hours while I sketch him or her. I just shoot a few dozen feet of film and have my prey at my mercy forever after."

"Die Fledermaus," presented tonight, was the musical chef d'oeuvre of the festival. Not only was Mlle. Massari a delight to the eye and ear, but also the singing of Richard Tauber, the tenor, and the conducting of Bruno Walter won a tremendous ovation from the select and critical audience.

Baireuth Premiere Celebrated.

BAYREUTH, Bavaria, Aug. 13 (AP).—Fifty years ago today Richard Wagner opened the doors of his theatre here to the public and inaugurated an epoch in the history of music. In commemoration of that event a series of Wagnerian recitals are being performed throughout all Germany this week, and the newspapers carry long appreciations of the composer by musical critics and historians.

It is recalled that the Baireuth Premier was honored by the presence of the Emperor William I, who, then almost an octogenarian, journeyed to Baireuth to signify his interest in Wagner's work.

The performance of "Rheingold," with which that first festival opened, evoked remarkable demonstrations of devotion to Wagner, but likewise provoked a great controversy over his novel ideas, both as to music and theatre construction. The bitterness and violence of that controversy, though now largely a matter of history, has never been equaled in Germany.

The music festival which Wagner staged in 1876 while artistically a phenomenal success was not a profitable venture and the deficit which ensued prevented its repetition until 1882.

After Wagner's death in 1883 his wife, Cosima Wagner, became the living embodiment of the Baireuth idea. She is now 88 years old and receives no one except her children and grandchildren and a few select friends of the old days, such as the former Czar of Bulgaria and General Ludendorff.

Of the stars who appeared in that festival on Aug. 13, 1876, only Lilli Lehmann and her sister, Marie, survive. They live in Berlin, where Frau Lilli, now 77 years old, still teaches advanced students singing.

FREED IN "DIXIE KID" DEATH.

Paul Siciliano Released When Police Report Lack of Evidence.

Paul Siciliano, known for years as "The King of Ravenswood," an Italian settlement in Long Island City, was released by Magistrate Frank Giorgio in the Long Island City Magistrate's Court yesterday. Siciliano had been arrested by detectives of the homicide squad from headquarters early this week and was held on a short affidavit charging him with being a fugitive from justice. It was said that Wallingford, Conn., authorities wanted Siciliano in connection with the death of Albert De Mola, known as the "Dixi Kid," near Wallingford more than a week ago.

Representatives of the Connecticut authorities were in court yesterday and said they did not have sufficient evidence to make a charge against Siciliano.

Mayor Greets Southern Girls.

Mayor Walker received at City Hall yesterday two Southern girls, Miss Rosalie Jones of Charleston, S. C., and Miss Lera Dixon of Blackbear, Ga., who represented their States as "Miss South Carolina" and "Miss Georgia," respectively, at the Sesquicentennial Exposition at Philadelphia. The two girls, who were chosen at the Savannah water carnival on July 6, were photographed with the Mayor.

THEATRICAL STARS TO AID SANITARIUM

Benefit Performance at Lake Placid Tonight—Organizations to Plant Trees on the Site.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Theatrical stars will give a benefit performance tomorrow night for the North Woods Sanitarium at Saranac Lake. The show will take place in the Palace Theatre, Lake Placid, under the direction of William Morris. Through his efforts and some of his associates, large sums have been raised for the North Woods Sanitarium. A special feature of this year's entertainment will be afternoon exercises, at which trees will be planted by various theatrical organizations on the site of the new home of the institution. This is the branch farm on Lake Flower, a short distance from Saranac.

The first building there will have accommodations for fifty. It will be in charge of Dr. Edgar Mayer, assisted by Dr. E. R. Baldwin, head of Trudeau, as a member of the board. The North Woods Sanitarium was started some years ago by a grateful patient of Dr. Mayer, whose beneficences are widely known in this section.

Performers at Lake Placid will include the Kouns sisters, Grace Larue, Nan Halpern, Al Herman, Benny Reuben, Frances Arms, Billy Ritchie and company, Lewis and Doty, Clayton and Jackson and Joe Towle.

The North Woods Sanitarium is a non-sectarian institution for treatment of tubercular patients. It is not entirely a theatrical enterprise. In the tree planting organizations will be represented by the following: Daniel Frohman, President of the Actors' Fund; Colonel Walter Scott, President of the Scottish Society; Brandon Tynan, President of the Catholic Actors' Guild; the Rev. Dr. William Miller of Saranac, local representative of the Episcopal Actors' Guild; Mr. Morris, President of the Jewish Actors' Guild; Charles Coburn, representing the Players' Club; Colonel Reginald Barlow, the Lambs' Club; S. Jay Kaufman, Green Room Club; William Morris Jr., Friars' Club; George Howard, Actors' Equity; Sylvio Hein, Secretary of the Society of Authors and Composers; Walter K. Hill, President of the Press Agents' Association; Nellie Revelle, representing the theatrical newspapers; Sydney S. Cohen, motion picture distributors; Harry Helms, Theatre Treasurers' Association, and Henry Berlinghoff, American Federation of Musicians.

Christy Mathewson Jr. will be stage manager of the affair and will represent the Stage Hands' Union at the exercises.

Paris Suit Charged Wanamaker's Grandson With Desertion—Mrs. E. B. Condon Gets Decree.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton Jr. today obtained a divorce from her husband, who is a grandson of the late John Wanamaker.

Mrs. Warburton, who was Miss Rosamond Lancaster, sued on the grounds of desertion. The couple were married at Elkton, Md., on Dec. 10, 1919.

Mrs. Edward Beach Condon, who was Miss Caroline Stevens, also obtained a divorce decree on the grounds of desertion. Mr. and Mrs. Condon were married at Bernardsville, N. J., on June 30, 1921.

PARIS, Aug. 13 (AP). — Mrs. Carl Fisher, nee Jane Watts, obtained a decree of divorce today in the Paris courts on ground of abandonment. The Fishers were married at Indianapolis Oct. 23, 1909.

A divorce decree was awarded to Mrs. Nancy L. Krebs Chandler from Percy M. Chandler of New York on the ground of abandonment of domicile. They were married Nov. 1, 1907, at Manchester, Vt.

Warburton a War Veteran.

Barclay H. Warburton Jr. served overseas in the Signal Corps with the rank of Lieutenant. He also served on the Hoover Commission in Poland.

Mrs. Warburton was Miss Rosamond Lancaster of Worcester, Mass. She was active in war work.

Carl Fisher was formerly a manufacturer in Indianapolis. After making a fortune with an automobile lighting device he became a real estate developer in Florida and around New York City.

Percy M. Chandler is President of Chandler & Co., investment bankers of this city, Philadelphia and Boston.

Mrs. Caroline Bayard Cogdon is the second daughter of the late Richard Stevens of Castle Point, Hoboken. Mr. Condon is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Condon of New York and Southampton. He was graduated from Harvard in 1918 and during the war served in the navy.

USES HIS WIFE AS TARGET.

William Tell Wrecks Furniture—Gets 30-Day Term.

"This kind of marksmanship cannot be tolerated," Magistrate Jesse Silbermann in Morrisania Court declared yesterday when he sentenced William Tell of 315 East 166th Street, the Bronx, to thirty days in the workhouse.

Tell wrecked nearly every piece of furniture in his home last Monday night, using his common-law wife Margaret as a target. She complained to a detective, who arrested Tell.

Found guilty last Tuesday by Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, Tell was held for investigation and sentence yesterday. According to the probation report, Tell's wife, Johanna Tell, was tried and acquitted of murder in Middletown, Conn., about two years ago, when she was accused of killing a farmer, for whom she acted as housekeeper. The farmer's body was found buried in a pit to which she directed the police. She has not lived with Tell for eleven years, according to the report.

'The Adorable Liar' Here on Aug. 30.

"The Adorable Liar," by Roy Briant and Harry Durant, is announced to open at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre on Monday night, Aug. 30. Edgar Selwyn is the producer and the cast will include Dorothy Burgess, Henry Stephenson, Tom Wise, Eric Dressler and William B. Mack.

Blanche Hall Critically Ill.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13 (AP).—Blanche Hall, a prominent actress on the New York stage of several years ago, is critically ill at her home here. Miss Hall has been an invalid for the last seven years. Her niece, Mrs. P. W. Quinn, who as Evelyn Varden was also a stage star, is with her here.

BROOKLYN FOSTERS NEW DRAMA SCHOOL

TO TRAIN TALENT FOR STAGE

Also Plans Music Productions—Kiesler, Vienna Director, Will Be on Teaching Staff.

The organization or the International Theatre Art Institute, designed to cooperate with the Brooklyn Little Theatre by developing stage talent competent to take part in the highest type of drama, became known yesterday with the announcement that Ralph Jonas, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, had donated a large building at 102 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, for the use of the institute.

The new organization will be one of the cooperating groups of the Independent Theatres Clearing Committee, of which Manny Strauss is Chairman and Otto H. Kahn Honorary Chairman, and which acts in an advisory capacity on the financial and production problems of so-called "art" theatres of the country.

Not only will the institute undertake to develop players and directors for the drama, but it also will have a distinct musical side, looking toward the production of musical pieces of the sort played in the Opera Comiques of Europe—pieces that are neither musical comedy nor grand opera and which often are most successful when produced in intimate theatres.

The Theatre Art Institute is being organized as a collateral organization of the Brooklyn Music School Settlement, of which Mrs. Benjamin Prince is President and K. K. Mussey director.

Mr. Mussey also will be director of the new institute. In speaking yesterday of the program of the organization, Mr. Mussey said the institute would be open for registration on Oct. 4, and that classes would start on Oct. 11. An announcement of the personnel of the faculty would be made in a few days, he said. It would be composed of experts in various fields from several different countries, he added.

From other sources it was learned that among those expected to compose the teaching staff are Frederick Kiesler, the Vienna director, who came to this country last year as director of the International Theatre Exposition, and Princess Matchabelli. It was said also that Mr. Kiesler might engage in regular productions here also.

Mr. Mussey said a meeting would be held next Thursday evening by persons interested in the project, including dramatic critics and others devoted to the drama, to discuss the progress already made and plan further for the future.

PHILHARMONIC AT ITS BEST

Driven Indoors by Rain Again, Gives a Splendid Concert.

As on Thursday evening, the storm drove the Philharmonic Orchestra last night from the stadium into the great hall of City College. A concert deserving of superlatives was given under the direction of Willem van Hoogstraten. Mozart's Symphony in E flat occupied the place of honor in the second half of the program, accompanied by the gorgeous contrasts of Richard Strauss's love scene from his one-act opera "Feuersnot." But before these classical heights were approached—for Strauss can be termed a classic—Mr. van Hoogstraten whetted the appetite of his audience by the performance of Goldmark's overture to "Sakuntala," a charming piece of orientalism, and Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass" suite.

The orchestra, under the influence of its conductor, made it clear that the suite was a work novel, exciting, full of delicious humor and extraordinarily clever. Mr. Taylor, with an astonishing freedom in his orchestra, sets out to tell his story and does it uncommonly well. The tenderness of the dedication leaves one to imagine some favorite child asking for its bedtime story, but the composer comes to the full measure of his descriptive means in the movements that follow.

The Garden of the Live Flowers is a real place, both in the imagination of the child and in the hearing of the audience. That ponderous beast, the Jabberwock, has its habitat in a lovely grove, where the fabled Bulbul sings its song. The White Knight, who can be heard falling off his horse, is the soul of chivalry and romance. The wings of the Looking Glass insects fairly whir.

The audience was very much taken with the composition, which Mr. van Hoogstraten and the orchestra displayed to advantage.

W. B. WOODBURY RE-ELECTED

Special to The New York Times.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—W. B. Woodbury of New York was re-elected President of the Lake George Association at the annual meeting this afternoon at the Lake George Club.

Other officers elected were: Vice President, William K. Bixby of St. Louis; Second Vice President, William J. Knapp of New York; Secretary-Treasurer, the Rev. Robert C. Masterton of Lake George.

The Executive Committee includes Dr. Willy Meyer, O. J. Stevens, Charles H. Tuttle, Leslie Thompkins, Miss Ruth Guernsey, and W. B. Woodbury, all of New York; Frederick B. Richards of Glens Falls, and the Rev. Mr. Masterton.

Delegates to the New York State Historical Association meeting are: O. J. Stevens of New York, Frederick B. Richards of Glens Falls, and the Rev. C. C. Harriman of Albany.

HAS $3,000, DIES IN HOVEL.

Long Island City Spinster Lived Alone for Years in a Shanty.

Bessie Molloy, a spinster, 53 years old, who had lived alone in her shanty at 7 North William Street, Long Island City, for many years, died there yesterday afternoon. The police said the woman had died of natural causes.

In the woman's ragged clothing the police found forty-seven cents, but in a closet they came upon two bank books showing the woman had more than $3,000 on deposit in two savings banks.

John Fox of 75 Taylor Street, Long Island City, a cousin of the woman, found her dead. He told the police she had lived alone for years. The police turned over the bank books to another relative.

DISCUSS PLANT POLLENS.

Foreign Delegates Read Papers at Flower and Fruit Conference.

Discussions of fecundity and sterility and the pollination requirements of various fruits occupied the second day of the International Conference on Flower and Fruit Sterility at the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, 1,086 North Broadway, Yonkers, yesterday. After the morning session, the delegates were the guests of the institute at a luncheon at the Hudson River Country Club.

Fred J. Chittenden, Director of the Royal Horticultural Society, England, gave a summary of twenty years' study. Reports on pollen production and sterility in fruit trees were read by Dr. Rudolph Florin of the Royal Swedish Museum of Natural History and Professor N. Maximow of the Institut de Botanique Appliquée, Leningrad, Russia. Torasaburo Susa of Hokkaido Imperial University and Professor Akio Kikuchi of Tottori Agricultural College, Japan, presented papers dealing with sterility in Japanese grapes and pears.

After the afternoon session the representatives took up research problems of the Boyce Thompson Institute. Last night an informal gathering and smoker was held at the Roosevelt Hotel, wheer the conference has its headquarters. Today's sessions will be held at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden.

Ames to Give Galsworthy's 'Escape.'

John Galsworthy's latest play, "Escape," was announced for production here yesterday by Winthrop Ames. The play will probably open in November, following Mr. Ames's production of "White Wings," by Philip Barry. "Escape" opened on Thursday night in London. The author has been quoted in England as declaring that this is his last play.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Passions of 1926" will end its engagement at the Shubert Theatre next week.

"A Woman Disputed Among Men" will be placed in rehearsal Monday by A. H. Woods. Lowell Sherman will be starred, and the cast will include Ann Harding, Crane Wilbur and Louis Calhern.

"The Ghost Train" will open at the Elting Theatre on Wednesday, Aug. 25, instead of the preceding Monday.

"Another Day," another play by William J. Perlman, author of "My Country," will be produced in New York in October by the Shuberts.

The musical comedy about to be produced by Charles K. Gordon will be called "Maybe I Will" instead of "A Regular Girl." It will open in Long Branch on Sept. 6.

"Treat 'Em Rough," by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, will open at the Harris Theatre, Chicago, on Aug. 28.

Irene Franklin and her husband, Jerry Jarnigan, will sail for Europe Aug. 25, to make brief appearances abroad. Upon their return Miss Franklin's "Red Head Revue" will be produced.

"Helen Comes Through," by Gladys Munroe, is announced for Fall production by A. E. and R. R. Riskin.

Georgia O'Ramey, Ruth Tester and William Solly have been engaged for "The Ramblers," the Clark and McCullough show.

James Spottswood has been added to the cast of "Sisters Three."

"Sacrifice," by George Agnew Chamberlain, will be produced soon by Wallace and Martins, with Ramsey Wallace and Marion Swayne in the cast.

Joe E. Brown will have the leading comedy role in "Twinkle, Twinkle," which Louis F. Werba will produce.

"Scotch Mist," an English comedy by Sir Patrick Hastings, has been placed in rehearsal by Edward Childs Carpenter with Philip Merivale and Rosalinde Fuller heading the cast. It will open in Montreal on Sept. 6 and in New York two weeks later.

"Stylish Stouts," by Maurice Marks and Fred Thompson, is being produced by Hugh Ford in association with the Dramatists' Theatre, Inc. It will open in Detroit on Sept. 13.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Swing Sharply Upward Under Leadership of Railroad Issues After Early Weakness.

The swings in stocks yesterday, downward and then upward, were as violent as any which have occurred this year. Evidently the market was endeavoring to adjust itself to a higher rediscount rate and to the prospects of dearer money. It had to consider also the overnight announcement of a 50 per cent. stock dividend by General Motors. Therefore, the opening yesterday was attended by unusual interest. Nervousness and erratic declines were general during the morning and at times the market was weak. United States Steel dropped to 148 and General Motors to 196¾, and there were declines of from 2 to as much as 7 points scattered throughout a very representative list of issues.

The turn in trend occurred at about the noon hour and was brought about by intensive buying of the best class of railroad shares, notably Atchison, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific and Illinois Central. These issues steadied and then advanced as liquidation in the balance of the market suddenly ceased and the attention of those who had been selling the industrial shares with might and main was attracted to the railroad list. From this point until the close the market was one of steadily advancing quotations, with practically all declines of the morning wiped out and with gains ranging from a point or so to as much as 10 in the best class of issues. The average appreciation was more than one point. Incidentally, the railroad shares, as measured by twenty-five representative issues, sold at a new high level for the year.

Although many interpretations could be placed on the advance in the rediscount rate, there was little disposition in the financial district to construe it as a warning against excessive speculation on the Stock Exchange. This view was mainly due to the fact that brokers' loans are not swollen to undue proportions and, as a matter of fact, are some $500,000,000 below the peak reached early in the year. Rather, there was an inclination to look upon the advance in the rate as formal notice that Stock Exchange funds are likely to be higher for the balance of the year because of the demand for funds in other sections of the country. Call loans were not particularly affected yesterday by the changed situation, but in the time market a rate of 5 per cent. was paid for ninety-day money, and most banks now post that as their asking price.

There was so much interest in the stock market yesterday that little attention was given to fluctuations in commodities and the exchanges. The grains were lower, particularly because of pressure on corn. Cotton was higher, probably in anticipation of the Census Bureau report on consumption to be issued today. The movements in these commodity markets were rather narrow and probably might be called meaningless. Fluctuations in the foreign exchanges, too, were unimportant.

The fact that railroad issues of the best class have come strongly to the fore as the new leaders has been generally hailed as a satisfactory market development, especially in view of the fact that they have not been particularly favored as vehicles of investment and speculation for many years. Wall Street has just about reached the conclusion that the railroad shares as a group have been selling out of line with industrial stocks of the same class.

TO PAY $135,000,000 ON DU PONT STOCK

DIRECTORS MEET MONDAY

Capital Structure May Be Changed —Market Rally Carries Prices Still Higher.

A special distribution to stockholders by another of America's large industrial enterprises is foreshadowed by the action of the General Motors Corporation in declaring a 50 per cent. stock dividend, it became known yesterday. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., who own nearly one-fourth of the present common stock of General Motors and will be among the largest beneficiaries of the stock dividend, are preparing to pass along to their stockholders most if not all of the increase in assets which they are to receive.

The du Pont company has made it a policy to distribute to its stockholders the extra returns it has received from General Motors and it can be assumed, according to interests close to the company, that the management will pursue the same policy in this instance. Directors of the du Pont company will meet in Wilmington, Del., on Monday.

Will Get 665,000 Shares.

The du Pont holdings of General Motors common are equivalent to about the total of du Pont common shares outstanding, or 1,330,829. The distribution of the company's share in the General Motors disbursement will involve a problem upon which the directors are understood to be working. The company will receive approximately 665,000 shares of General Motors common, worth, on the basis of the present market value, around $135,000,000. This is the "melon" which will be passed along to du Pont stockholders.

One plan for the distribution which the du Pont directors may consider is a change in the capital structure that may involve a split-up of the present shares on a two-for-one or three-for-one basis, with the establishment of an annual dividend rate of $5 or $6 as compared with the present rate of $10. If it is decided to declare a stock dividend to make the distribution, stockholders will have to meet to authorize the additional stock. Only 169,171 shares remain to be issued of the authorized 1,500,000 common shares.

The du Pont stock has been rising sensationally along with General Motors for several weeks. Yesterday it touched a high of 302 and closed with a net gain for the day of 5¼. General Motors, whose response on the Stock Exchange to the 50 per cent. stock dividend announcement, made after the close of trading Thursday, has been awaited with keen interest in Wall Street, began the day by selling off slightly, later sagging 3 points. There was heavy selling of this stock, apparently on the theory that the stock dividend had been discounted, but it rebounded vigorously in the afternoon and led the market in a swift, broad advance.

Rally Swings Other Stocks Up.

The rally in General Motors was so determined that it attracted fresh buying, not only to itself but to many other market leaders. United States Steel, which held firm in the morning while General Motors was showing heaviness, joined in the afternoon advance, as did many industrials and railway issues. The stocks showing the widest gains for the day, ranging from 2 to 10 points, were General Motors, which closed at the top, 208, for a net gain of 4½ points; United States Steel, which ended with a net gain of 2⅜ points; American Brake Shoe, up 10 points at the close; American Smelting, up 7½ points; J. I. Case, up 5 points; du Pont, up 5¼ points; General Electric, up 3¼ points; Norfolk & Western, up 3 points; American Woolen, up 2¾ points; Atlantic Coast Line, up 2¾ points; Air Reduction, up 2 points; Chicago Pneumatic Tool, up 2½ points; Illinois Central, up 3 points; Sloss Sheffield, up 2½ points, and Louisville & Nashville, up 2¼ points.

Alfred P. Sloan, President of the General Motors Corporation, gave a dinner at his country home at Great Neck last night for some executives and directors of the company. When the fact became known in Wall Street yesterday that he was to entertain some of his official family, reports were circulated that it was to be a celebration of the 50 per cent. stock dividend. Many executives of the corporation are large stockholders and thus share in its profits. It was said on behalf of Mr. Sloan that any gathering which might have been planned by him was purely personal and not in any sense a company affair.

FIGHT THE SPREAD OF BRANCH BANKS

American Association Members Form Committee of One Hundred to Oppose Movement.

Organization of a Committee of One Hundred from the membership of the American Bankers Association to carry on the fight to prevent a spread of branch banking in this country was announced yesterday from Chicago, where the headquarters of the anti-branch banking element of the association is located.

It was reported in the announcement, which, however, did not give the names of the committee, that the opposition would be carried to the floor of the association convention in Los Angeles, Oct. 4 to 7. The association will be asked at that time to re-endorse the McFadden Banking bill, as amended by the so-called Hull Amendments, providing limitation of bank branches. This bill failed of passage at the last session of Congress because of objection to the Hull Amendments.

E. N. Baty, Secretary of the Committee of One Hundred, said:

"The committee plans to present to the bankers and the public evidence of the activities of the proponents of branch banking, the dangers threatening our American system of independent banks, and the monopolistic tendencies of branch banking leading to concentration of the tremendous power of money in the hands of a few, which would strike at the heart of the future welfare of our country."

Insurance Company Adds to Capital.

An increase in capital and surplus of the National Guaranty Fire Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to $2,000,000, was announced yesterday as now being effected through a sale of stock to the public. The cash capital is $367,250 and cash surplus $206,790. Total assets June 30 were $638,116 and cash in banks $109,475.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Reserve Rate Advance Affects Sterling—Francs and Lire Firm —New High for Yen.

There was a mixed movement in the foreign exchanges yesterday, business being on a relatively active scale, which was maintained from the opening to the final minutes of trading.

The ease which has been noticed in sterling the last several days has followed the advance in the rediscount rate of the local Reserve bank, and the posting of the higher charge will undoubtedly operate to recall some of our London balances. Selling by commercials was visible throughout. French francs again gave plain evidence of support and, though the Continent was a seller, local banking support helped to impart strong undertone and closing gain of 2½ points at 2.71½ cents. Italian lire also finished for a slight gain. Belgian francs at one period were down 9 points, at 2.60½ cents, but subsequently rallied to 2.69 cents. Scandinavians were firm, while the Dutch, Spanish and Swiss rates were heavy.

Japanese yen rose to the highest in three years at 47⅛ cents for cables, on improved trade balance, which previously had been thought would be unfavorable. Covering by earlier "shorts" was responsible for the rise. Chinese currencies were weak, while the South Americans turned higher.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

London Market Easier; Prices Irregular on Paris Bourse.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Gilt-edge securities were easier on the Stock Exchange today. Oil shares and British industrials were firmer. Old 2½ per cent. consols ¼ lower at 55⅛; British 5 per cent. war loan ¾ lower at 101⅛; 4½ per cent. war loan ¼ higher at 95⅝. De Beers Mining 18⅝, Rand Mines 2⅞, both unchanged.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 30 centimes higher at 49 francs 80 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan 1 franc 70 centimes higher at 53 francs 40 centimes.

Exchange on London 1 franc 12½ centimes higher at 177 francs 50 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 36 francs 55 centimes, against 36 francs 48 centimes yesterday.

Seneca Copper Loss Increases.

A net loss of $59,810, before depreciation, depletion and tax reserve, is reported by the Seneca Copper Company for the June quarter, against a loss of $54,780 in the first quarter. Thus the total loss for the first half reached $114,590.

TIME MONEY QUOTED TEMPORARILY AT 5%

Interest Rate Advances With Rediscount Charge, but Drops Back to 4¾.

For the first time since early this year time loans were made yesterday at 5 per cent., the result of the advance from 3½ to 4 per cent. in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. This was part of a general hardening of rates in the money market, which, with a fractional recession in bond prices, constituted the chief effect of the bank rate change. The stock market, after a weak opening, developed strength in the afternoon. Sterling exchange was weaker, but this was attributed to seasonable factors rather than to the new bank rate relationship between New York and London.

The 5 per cent. rate was established for four-month loans early in the day, but in the afternoon loans for the same maturity were made at 4¾ per cent. The time money market in recent weeks has been generally on a level of 4¾ per cent., having gradually worked up from 4½ per cent. It was this hardening of time money rates that was considered one of the principal factors responsible for the Reserve Bank's decision to advance its rates.

No Shortage of Money.

The rate for Stock Exchange demand funds remained unchanged at 4½ per cent. yesterday. This rate had been in force most of this week since Monday, when 5 per cent. prevailed for a time. There was plenty of money available yesterday, and outside call loans were made at 4¼ per cent. About $15,000,000 of loans was called, but new money quickly replaced that withdrawn from the market. In acceptances, the discount on all bills from thirty days to four months rose one-eighth of 1 per cent., but call loans on acceptances remained unchanged at 3¾ per cent. Commercial paper brokers reported their market definitely on a 4¼ per cent. basis after a week of gradual hardening from 4 per cent., which was explained by the growing demand for funds in connection with business expansion.

The bond market always is sensitive to shifts in money rates, and yesterday was no exception. Liberty bonds and other United States Government obligations were affected particularly, declining all the way from one thirty-second to fifteen thirty-seconds of a point, with the largest loss in the Treasury 4s of 1954. A similar tendency was shown in other high-grade investment securities, particularly the rails, but the more speculative bond issues showed no effect of the rediscount rate change. Foreign bonds, which have been consistently firm recently, maintained a steady tone. Transactions throughout the entire bond list, however, were light.

Exchange Not Affected.

The general opinion in the financial district was that the rate change would not affect conditions as between New York and London. While many factors enter into the determination of the rediscount rate, it is the usual policy not to impose a rate that would cause an undue drain on England, especially since the British return to the gold standard. If the rate here were so high that it caused a withdrawal of balances from London, it might cause difficulty in maintaining the sterling rate and interfere with the building up of British gold reserves. There is no indication of such a condition now, as the New York rate still is 1 per cent. below that of the Bank of England. Yesterday's fractional loss in sterling was said to be the result of purchases of cotton and other commodities by British interests, following heavy purchases of American coal as a result of the British strike. Sterling normally declines at this time of the year as a result of commodity purchases.

The Clearing House Committee, which previously met on the days following changes in the rediscount rate to consider a readjustment of the rates paid on daily bank balances, held no session yesterday. Under an amendment adopted by the Clearing House last month these meetings are no longer compulsory, but the committee may change the rate any time that it sees fit to do so. There has been no change, however, since June, 1924, although the rediscount rate has been changed five times in that period.

MEDIATORS GATHER DATA.

Federal Board May Call Railroads and Men Today in Wage Dispute.

The United States Board of Mediation passed its fifth day since the present conference began in secret session yesterday, trying to adjust the dispute between Eastern railroads and the brotherhoods of trainmen and conductors, who are demanding wage increases of $1 to $1.64 a day.

Neither side was called before the board yesterday, but both were instructed to hold themselves in readiness for a call this morning. It is expected that the conferences will continue today and next week. The volume of data submitted concerning the wage increase has included detailed information on the earning power of the railroads, and the board has been busy for the last three days analyzing masses of statistics and other evidence.

Market St. Railway Income $60,837.

Net income of the Market Street Railway for July was $60,837, after expenses, taxes and other charges, as compared with $81,583 for the same period last year. Operating revenue was $806,338, against $800,404. Expenses and taxes totaled $672,944, against $638,437, and other charges reached $76,126, against $84,340.

Credit Trust Earns $322,557.

The report of the Commercial Credit Trust of Chicago for the first six months of 1926 shows net earnings on stockholders' investment to be $322,557. Gross receivables purchased amounted to $32,287,344, while the average cash employed was $20,680,734. Interest and discount charges totaled $400,239.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

The stock market moved forward vigorously in the latter half of yesterday's trading and closed at the highest levels of the day. The opening was weak, General Motors beginning the day by selling off 1 point from the closing quotation of the previous day. This stock was the centre of interest throughout the day in view of the declaration by the corporation of a stock dividend of 50 per cent. after the close of the market on Thursday. It moved sluggishly during a good part of the morning, sagging to 196¾ before a recovery got under way. It rallied briskly in the afternoon, however, and carried a large part of the list with it. United States Steel, which was one of the market leaders to rebound after the weak opening, also rose spiritedly. The advance in the Federal Reserve Bank discount rate, which was announced after the close on Thursday, apparently had little effect on the stock market; certainly the later dealings did not reflect any anxiety concerning money conditions. At the close of trading on the New York Stock Exchange the following issues showed gains ranging from 2 to 10 points: American Brake Shoe, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, American Woolen, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Brooklyn Union Gas, du Pont, General Electric, General Motors, Norfolk & Western and United States Steel.

Appraising Stock Dividend.

Persons interested in General Motors had a wide variety of computations yesterday upon which to appraise the value of the 50 per cent. stock dividend declared on Thursday. Estimates of the stockholders' "melon" ranged from nothing to many hundred millions of dollars. The appraisal most commonly accepted in Wall Street was that which made allowance for an additional share of stock at or near the present value for each two already owned. Emphasis was placed upon the fact that the stock has been advancing in expectation of large dividends. Therefore, in view of the fact that the corporation's board of directors made it plain on Thursday that the dividend policy is not to be altered, stockholders have reason to expect, it was pointed out, that their increased holdings will participate as liberally, if not more so, in the corporation's earnings than their present holdings have done. The earnings in the current year are such as to warrant the payment of as large or larger dividends on the approximately 9,000,000 common shares that will be outstanding as were paid last year on the 5,000,000 or more shares then outstanding, according to the view in Wall Street.

London and New York Rates.

A fractional decline in sterling exchange yesterday was attributed by some Wall Street observers to the advance in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate, but the general opinion was that exchange conditions would not be affected permanently by the change. The Bank of England's discount rate still is 1 per cent. higher than New York's level, which is regarded as sufficient to prevent undue pressure against London. Many factors of course enter into the determination of rediscount rates, and one of them is the question of the rate relationship with London, particularly since the British return to the gold standard. If the rate here became excessively high, there would be danger of withdrawals of balances from London to New York, which might interfere with British operations under the gold standard, particularly in the building up of gold reserves. In the present conditions, however, the easiness in sterling is considered purely seasonal, as England is now buying cotton and other commodities, together with large quantities of American coal.

Rate Change Affects Bonds.

The bond market, which always is sensitive to shifts in money rates, reacted promptly yesterday morning to the advance in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate. The effect was felt most in the higher grade issues, United States Government securities selling off all the way from one thirty-second to fifteen thirty-seconds of a point. Foreign bonds, which have been consistently firm recently, displayed little change. The more speculative domestic issues also maintained a steady tone. In the money market the effect of the rediscount change was felt in a hardening of rates for time funds, and for the first time since early in the year four-month loans were made at 5 per cent. Call loans again ruled at 4½ per cent., with outside accommodations available at 4¼ per cent., and plenty of funds were in the market, despite withdrawals amounting to $15,000,000.

Overhanging the Railroads.

Improvement in the relationship of the railroads and their employes, in the opinion of executives of the carriers, has had much to do with the present activity in railroad stocks. With wage demands aggregating more than a half billion dollars, if applied to all classes of employes and to all railroads, overhanging carrier earnings the prospect might not be considered bright, but the brotherhoods have shown so fair an attitude in their negotiations and such readiness to appeal to mediation that most investors feel that the employes' grievances will be settled without calling a strike and without cutting into railroad profits to an appreciable extent.

***

Working Quietly.

The big railroads work quietly and their plans seldom go wrong. Both the New York Central and the Pennsylvania have been consolidating their subsidiary lines gradually during the last twenty years until now, when merger time is here, there is virtually no minority opposition and little left to do except obtain the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Pennsylvania has just been authorized by the commission to lease a 793-mile line, known as the Pennsylvania, Ohio & Detroit, while authorization of the New York Central's plan to absorb the Michigan Central, the Big Four and the Cincinnati Northern is expected generally.

St. Paul Preferred.

Activity in St. Paul preferred yesterday afforded at least one instance in which the present move in the railroad stocks is not confined to the "high class investment rails." This stock, when the assessment is taken into account, is selling on the same basis as the shares of solvent carrier companies earning between $4 and $6 on their common stock. Conservative opinion estimates that it will be at least five years before the reorganized company is able to pay dividends on the preferred. The present move is therefore, in the opinion of railroad men, highly complimentary to the St. Paul and an indication that the receivership has not diminished the market interest in its securities.

Latin America Big Borrower.

New financing through bonds this week, while still reflecting the customary Summer dullness, showed a sharp increase over the volume of the previous week and was appreciably higher than in the same week of last year. Public utilities, as usual, furnished the largest part of the new issues. Investment dealers expect an unusually active period late this Summer and in the Autumn, and preparations already are under way for important issues. If the present trend continues, Latin America this year will show a large increase in the volume of loans arranged in this market, which will offset the decrease in European financing and leave the total of foreign borrowings for the year at about the same level as in 1925. A large part of the financing now in sight is originating in South America, although a considerable volume of municipal and domestic corporation borrowing will reach the market in the next few months.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, AUG. 13, 1926.

There was a general tightening in money charges as a result of the advance in the Reserve Bank rate, the only exception being that for Stock Exchange call funds, which ruled unchanged at 4½ per cent. all day and at 4¼ in the Street. Plenty of money was available in both places, but inquiry was light and considerable was left unloaned. About $15,000,000 was recalled. It was in the fixed period, acceptance and paper markets that the charges hardened. Four months' maturity money loaned at 5 per cent. in the forenoon, first since early in the year, while 4¾ per cent. was paid for the same maturity in the afternoon. In acceptances the discount on all bills from thirty days to four months rose ⅛, while call loans remained unchanged at 3¾ per cent. Paper brokers reported best names definitely on a 4¼ per cent. basis, after a week of gradual hardening from 4. This was explained as a sequel to the growing demand by commercials, and the chief cause for the Reserve rate advance.

PERMITS ROAD LEASE BY PENNSYLVANIA

I. C. C. Allows 999-Year Control of the Pennsylvania, Ohio & Detroit Railroad.

PART OF MERGER PLAN

The Pennsylvania Railroad, it was learned yesterday, has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to acquire control by lease for 999 years of the Pennsylvania, Ohio & Detroit Railroad, which operates about 300 miles of main and branch lines in Ohio and Michigan. The application is part of the Pennsylvania plan to consolidate some 13,000 miles of railroad now operated by more than fifty companies.

Eventually Pennsylvania officials hope to see the absorption of the corporate identity of all of the little railroads composing the Pennsylvania system, most of which have less than 5 per cent. of their stock outstanding in the hands of the public. The simplification of the Pennsylvania's corporate structure will, they believe, be of great advantage in future financing.

The Pennsylvania, Ohio & Detroit is itself a consolidated company and includes the lines formerly operated by the Cincinnati, Lebanon & Northern, the Cleveland, Akron & Cincinnati, the Toledo, Columbus & Ohio River, the Pennsylvania-Detroit and the Manufacturers Railway Company.

The Pennsylvania will follow a plan somewhat similar to that disclosed by the New York Central in its recent application to the Commerce Commission for authority to lease the Big Four, Michigan Central and Cincinnati Northern. Both companies are prevented from effecting actual consolidation under the present wording of the Transportation act, but plan to undertake it if the law is amended.

The Pennsylvania, Ohio & Detroit has outstanding capital stock of the par value of $28,410,000 and unmatured funded debt in the principal amount of $10,739,000. Its book investment in road and equipment, as of Dec. 31, 1925, was $68,673,730. The Pennsylvania has agreed to a rental of 5 per cent. on capital stock, which is equivalent to approximately 2.7 per cent. on the investment. So long as the company's stock is owned entirely by the Pennsylvania the payment of rentals will be no more than a matter of bookkeeping.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY GAINS.

Industrial activity in the United States in July, based on consumption of electrical energy, increased by 12 per cent. over the record for July, 1925, and 7.7 per cent. over the average monthly rate for the last three years, according to statistics released yesterday by Electrical World. Compared with June, however, there was a slight reduction in all the leading manufacturing industries except leather, which experienced a slight upward trend.

Basing its figures on monthly electrical consumption by 1,800 plants in the country, which consume about 8,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy per year, the periodical finds that the metal industries as a group reported July activity as 2 per cent. under June, but 17.5 per cent. above July, 1925. Textile operations were almost 12, per cent. below June and 3.8 per cent. under July, 1925. The automotive industry continued at a high rate, with a decrease of 0.8 per cent. under June, but an increase of 38.7 per cent. over July last year. Lumber increased 4.4 per cent. over July, 1925, but decreased 2.8 under June, 1926. Stone, clay and glass decreased 7 per cent. under June, but increased 7.2 per cent. over July, 1925.

Blumenthal & Co. Reports Loss.

For the quarter ended June 30, Sidney Blumenthal & Co. reports a net loss of $49,815, after interest, depreciation, &c., comparing with a net loss in the preceding quarter of $23,482 and a net loss in the June quarter of 1925 of $188,360. For the first six months of this year the net loss amounted to $73,297, against $406,494 in the first half of last year.

$1,227,640 for Sheffield-Louvain.

Combined net profits of the Sheffield Farms Company and the Louvain Construction Corporation for the June quarter of this year were $1,227,640, after expenses and Federal taxes but before depreciation. This compares with a net profit of $953,773 in the second quarter of 1925.

Ford Makes Loan to Bulgaria To Build Roads for His Cars

Report of a loan of $5,000,000 offered to Bulgaria by the Ford Motor Company was received yesterday by the Foreign Department of Moody's Investors' Service. The proceeds of the loan will be used for road construction, it was said, but under the terms of the offer the loan will not be for public subscription.

It was stated also that the Ford Company had obtained a concession to start an automobile factory in Sofia.

BRIDGE STEEL SOUGHT.

Rivalry Expected to Be Keen for Kill van Kull Contract.

The structural steel market this week is featured by a definite inquiry for 35,000 tons of shapes for the two bridges to connect New Jersey and Staten Island over the Kill van Kull. Competition is expected to be keen for this order, which is the largest to be sought in some months. In addition to the shapes about 2,500 tons of reinforcing bars will be required for the two bridges.

Among railroad orders placed during the week were 500 tons of steel for a freight station of the Norfolk and Western in West Virginia with the Virginia Bridge and Iron Company; 300 tons for a shop building of the Alabama and Great Southern at Chattanooga, Tenn., with the Converse Bridge Company, and 300 tons for a passenger subway of the New York Central at Erie, Pa., with an unnamed fabricator. An order for 2,700 tons for a twenty-seven-story apartment at 1 Fifth Avenue was placed with the Hedden Iron Construction Company, and another for 500 tons of tank plate for the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company went to the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works.

Among other inquiries of the week were 800 tons for an addition to the Edison Electric plant at Weymouth, Mass., and 500 tons for an addition to the plant of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation at Asbury Park, N. J.

NEW UTILITY'S STOCK.

Columbia Gas Preferred Holders May Now Obtain Shares.

An opportunity is offered to holders of the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Columbia Gas and Electric Company to exchange their shares for the 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of a new company to result from the merger of the Columbia Gas and Electric with the Ohio Fuel Company, it was announced yesterday.

The basis of exchange is 1¼ shares of the new concern's preferred stock for one share of Columbia Gas and Electric preferred on or before Sept. 15 next. The preferred holder would receive the same dividend return as on his present holdings under this conversion.

Both of these preferred stocks have no voting power except under the usual condition of defaulted dividends. Columbia Gas preferred is callable at 115, and that of the new company at 110. There are about $24,000,000 of Columbia Gas and Electric preferred now outstanding.

May Increase Dresdner Bank Stock.

Proposal to increase the capital stock of the Dresdner Bank of Berlin, Germany, will be made by directors at the next general meeting of stockholders on Sept. 7, according to cable advices received here yesterday. The increase will amount to 20,000,000 marks, raising the capital of the bank to 100,000,000 marks. Shareholders will be allowed to subscribe to one new share for each four now held, the price of the issue to be determined later.

BANK CLEARINGS GAIN 10.6 PER CENT.

Report of 22 Cities for Week-End Aug. 12 Gives Total of $8,640,233,000.

$5,319,000,000 Cleared in Period—Cities Outside Report Aggregate of $3,321,233,000.

Bank clearings at twenty-two leading cities of this country for the week ended Aug. 12 again showed an increase over those for the similar week last year, the total being $8,640,233,000, against $7,816,583,000, marking a gain of 10.6 per cent.

Clearings at New York City for this week aggregated $5,319,000,000, which is a gain of 16.4 per cent. over the $4,571,000,000 reported for the like week in 1925. Cities outside New York City reported clearings of $3,321,233,000, as compared with $3,239,593,000 last year, or a gain of 2.5 per cent.

Out of the twenty-three cities reporting, sixteen showed increases in clearings for the week ended Aug. 12. The best gains were shown by Kansas City, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis.

Figures for this week, and the average daily bank clearings for August to date, and for preceding months, as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., are shown below:

	Week Aug. 12, 1926	Week Aug. 13, 1925

DISCUSS TRAIN AND TRUCK.

Commission Hearings Draw Line Between Their Functions.

Transportation leaders have drawn a sharp distinction between the functions of the railroad and the motor truck in their testimony before hearings by the Interstate Commerce Commission which are being held in all parts of the country this Summer, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The truck finds its field in the short hauls, rendering quick service, while the railroad excels in the transportation of bulk freight over long hauls.

The following five important conclusions have been drawn from the testimony offered by the leaders thus far: Motor truck transportation is primarily a local distribution of goods, chiefly foodstuffs; the tonnage of goods hauled more than sixty miles is small; truck haulage is largely a direct distribution of goods to their final use; long haul transportation in excess of sixty miles is usually a movement of special commodities, household goods, &c., depending upon speed of delivery or some special characteristic of the commodity shipped; and, the owner-operator hauls the bulk of highway tonnage.

JARDINE AND HAYS TO SPEAK

They Will Be at Bakers' Association Convention in Atlantic City.

Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine and Will H. Hays, former Postmaster General, will be the principal speakers at the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Bakers' Association in Atlantic City, Sept. 20 to 24.

It is estimated that about nine thousand association members, their families and friends will attend the convention.

New York members of the Reception Committee include M. Lee Marshall and Royal M. Cushman.

$33,975,000 BONDS OFFERED IN WEEK

MOST OF IT BY UTILITIES

Largest Issue Was the $15,000,000 North American—Trading Light, but Prices Steady.

New bond offerings in the week ended yesterday totaled $33,975,000, against $18,225,863 last week and $20,809,000 in the corresponding week of last year. Public utility financing accounted for two-thirds of the volume of the present week's activities. The offerings, by groups, of this and last week, follow:

	This week.	Last week.
Public utility	$22,900,000	$3,500,000
State and municipal	7,825,000	4,150,863
Industrial	3,250,000	9,075,000
Farm Loan	.....	1,500,000
Total	$33,975,000	$18,225,863

The largest issue of the week was an offering of $15,000,000 bonds of the North American Light and Power Company, the reorganization of which recently was completed. The Insull interests and the North American Company have become substantial owners of the common stock of the company, which serves large communities in Middle Western States. Other public utility issues were floated by the Midland Utilities Company and the Electric Public Service Company.

The Chicago South Park Commission furnished the largest issue in the municipal field, selling $4,000,000 of bonds. Minneapolis, Birmingham and other cities sold issues for smaller amounts. Several municipal issues were awarded to investment houses and will be offered to the public next week. Two industrial issues reached the market this week.

Syndicates are being formed to bid on the $28,000,000 of New York State 4 per cent. bonds which will be awarded on Sept. 1. Another piece of important municipal financing was foreshadowed by the announcement that Detroit would vote next month on a proposal to issue $30,000,000 of bonds to extend the city's water system.

New issues contemplated for the next week include an offering of securities of the Havana Electric Company and of a number of domestic corporations. Several important South American loans also are in the process of making.

The customary Summer dullness continued in the bond market this week, but prices held up steadily, and a slightly higher range developed in the foreign issues.

EDISON STOCK OFFERED.

Staten Island Voting Trust Holders Receive Privilege.

Pursuant to the offer of the Staten Island Edison Corporation, which has extended the privilege to the holders of its common stock to subscribe for additional shares at $80 per share at the rate of 53-118ths shares of additional common stock for each share of common held, the corporation has addressed a letter to the holders of voting trust certificates under the voting trust agreement, dated Aug. 1, 1923, wherein such holders are offered the exercise of similar rights through the voting trustees.

Holders desiring to exercise such rights must, before the close of business on Oct. 1, surrender warrants together with subscription request to C. A. Dougherty, agent for the trustees, at the office of the Staten Island Edison Corporation, 33 Liberty Street.

BACKS YOUNGER GENERATION

Women Loyal and Devoted as in His Day, He Says—Shows Slip for Sale of Stock He Made in 1868.

David A. Boody, who has been a figure in Wall Street for more than half a century, celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday yesterday by attending to his customary duties at his desk in the offices of the Stock Exchange firm of Boody, McLellan & Co., 111 Broadway. Flowers, the gifts of friends and associates, covered his desk, and many telegrams of congratulation were received.

Mr. Boody works at his office every day. He returned a week ago from a visit to his boyhood home in Maine, having made the trip there by automobile and returned by train.

The office of Mr. Boody is decorated with interesting relics of his many years in the financial district. One is a draft, dated May 1, 1868, drawn by Russell Sage on the banking house of Howes & Macy, then located at 30 Wall Street. The draft was for $45,000 and was made out to Mr. Boody. Also framed on the wall is a sales slip showing that Mr. Boody on Oct. 27, 1868, sold 100 shares of Erie Railroad stock to Schaffer Brothers at $39.50 a share. The Civil War revenue stamps, showing the collection by the Government of 40 cents on the transaction, is on the sales slip.

Mr. Boody said that if he were to give any advice to young men, it would be to "marry young whether you can afford it or not." Mr. Boody's wife died last March. He declared that their companionship for sixty-three years had contributed more than anything else to his success.

Mr. Boody does not agree with criticisms that have been made of the present younger generation. "Human nature does not change," he declared, "and there are as many loyal, devoted women in this generation as in my generation. If possible, marry a woman who has known something of trouble. She is likely to have courage, wisdom and understanding."

Mr. Boody came to New York when in his early twenties and almost penniless.

INDUSTRIAL

BANK STOCK STRONG IN COUNTER MARKET

Industrials Show Advance, but Public Utilities Still Remain Irregular.

ACTIVITY IN CHAIN STORES

National Sugar Firm — Tobacco Stocks Unchanged — Little Movement in Insurance.

The over-the-counter market gave a good account of itself yesterday, with the higher Federal Reserve rediscount rate emphasizing the increasing demands for funds for the expansion of business. Several issues moved higher in response to favorable conditions directly affecting them, with slight irregularity in a few stocks which marked merely an adjustemnt of the trading market. Some of the bank and sugar shares showed improvement, while the public utilities remained irregular.

Immediately after the opening Singer Manufacturing and Crowell Publishing preferred started the activity in the industrial section with advances of 4 and 2 points respectively, and maintained these gains throughout the session. Moderate improvement occurred in Joseph Dixon, Merck & Co. preferred and National Baking common. Rolls-Royce of America came in for a 3-point gain later in the day, and National Casket became the strong and active feature of the late trading.

Among the bank stocks First National continued in good demand at a new high on the current recovery around $2,700 per share. Liberty National also continued strong and was up 5 points at $240 bid, as compared with the original price of $150 per share. In the late moments Bronx County Trust rose 11 points, on the decision of the directors to increase the capital stock of the institution.

Chain stores were steady and fairly active all day, the leading performer being J. J. Newberry, which registered a 10-point rise early in the session. Of the sugar stocks National Sugar was firm and about 1 point higher, on President Post's statement that the margin of profit was now greater than at any time previously this year.

Augusta-Aiken Railroad and Electric preferred and Broad River Power preferred offered their position slightly, while National Public Service, Series A, and Electric Bond and Share preferred were moderately lower. Tobacco stocks were quiet and unchanged, and Bankers and Shippers Insurance, up 5 points, provided the only activity in the insurance section.

J. I. CASE COMPANY PAYS $7 DIVIDEND

Clears Up Back Dividends on Preferred in Addition to Regular of $1.75.

Directors of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company cleared up back dividends on its preferred stock yesterday by declaring $7 on the shares in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75. Both are payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 13.

The New Jersey, Indiana & Illinois Railroad Company asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue a stock dividend of $468,360 to the Wabash Railway Company. The stock, consisting of approximately 4,683 shares of par value of $100 each, will cover capital expenditures for improvement to the properties of the applicant. The Wabash owns all the outstanding stock of New Jersey, Indiana & Illinois.

The California Packing Company declared a quarterly dividend of $1 per share, payable Sept. 15 to stock of record Aug. 31. On Aug. 2 a stock dividend of 100 per cent. was paid. Previous to that time the quarterly rate was $2.

RECEIVER FOR HOSKINS CO.

Standard Furniture Brings Friendly Action Against Old House.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 13 (F).—Charles J. Paist today was appointed receiver in equity for the William H. Hoskins Company, one of the oldest stationery and office-furnishing concerns in this city, by Federal Judge Dickinson.

The appointment was made in a friendly suit brought by the Standard Furniture Company of New York, which claims $30,000 and asserts that the Hoskins Company's assets are endangered by lack of operating capital and funds to meet overdue obligations.

Assets of the company were given as $984,836 and liabilities as $779,342, but the bill stated that the liquid assets were not sufficient to meet obligations of which the claimants have demanded payment.

Counsel for the company said that with proper handling of the assets a liquidation of all liabilities was probable, and that after a "temporary embarrassment" the concern would regain its financial standing.

New York Casualty May Add Stock.

Stockholders of the New York Casualty Company will meet in special session on Sept. 1 to vote on a proposal to increase the capital from $750,000 to $1,000,000 and to authorize the directors to offer the additional stock to holders of record Aug. 31 at $75 per share. Further provisions in the proposal require that the new stock be paid for in full by Sept. 30, and empowered the directors to dispose of any stock not subscribed by the present holders.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

F. J. Lisman & Co. have issued a circular on the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad.

Joseph F. Steele has been appointed manager of the foreign department of the Guardian Trust Company of Newark, N. J.

James L. Cooke and George F. Batcheller have become partners in Packer & Co., and the firm name has been changed to Packer, Cooke & Co.

L. J. Belknap, newly elected President of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, will soon move from Montreal, Canada, to New York.

TRADE REVIEWS FIND BUSINESS STRONG

SOME PRICES FOUND LOW

Bradstreet's Sees Trend Toward Improvement Despite Intense Heat and Other Drawbacks.

Continuing favorable reports from almost all centres of business further strengthens the fact that the Summer is experiencing an unparalleled activity and provides a clearer definition of the Fall buying movement. Retail trade has felt the hot weather, but responses to "sales" have been more than satisfactory.

Industry is picking up in momentum, with automobile manufacturing and iron and steel output leading all fields in activity. Some hesitation has occurred in the cotton market, due to a break in raw cotton on the favorable crop report. Corn has been somewhat adversely affected by the intense heat, but not sufficiently to cause alarm. Shoe and leather buying has been slightly better, and textiles have remained fair.

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says:

"Each week's reports bring out more clearly the fact that business, as a whole, is passing through the Summer in an unusually strong position. In no other year at this time have some of the major industries shown the same degree of activity and vitality that appears now, and general trade should gain further in vigor with the approach of the Fall season. Such unsatisfactory phases as exist are overshadowed by the favorable aspects, and confidence, which had lessened in some quarters earlier in the year, is now increasing. The prospect of larger harvests of such essential crops as wheat and cotton is promising, and there are other elements that give rise to expectations of continued commercial expansion.

"Among these are the notable heavy railroad freight traffic, the increase in unfilled contracts of the chief steel producer and the prosperity of the automobile trade. Complaints of dull business come from some channels and some prices remain relatively low, but in the main conditions are distinctly encouraging, and in most instances the results of 1925 are being surpassed."

Bradstreet's comments on the situation as follows:

"Despite some drawbacks, not the least of these being intense heat in wide areas and some concern manifested regarding corn and other feeding crops, the general trend of trade reports this week has been in the direction of improvement. On the favorable side may be cited a rather definite gain in the volume of buying at leading markets, consequent, as in the case of the Southwest and Central West, upon active marketing of wheat, or in the case of the former upon cotton picking beginning. In the case of the Pacific Coast cities, marketing of large crops of fruit or grain, and in the Northwest the holding of market weeks, buyers' excursions and conventions of various kinds were all aids to purchasing.

"New high records in car loadings, a gain in unfilled steel orders for July and a very favorable six months' report from the country's leading automobile producer favored some activity in the stock market, which later, however, showed a disposition to recede after the publication of excellent earnings returns, but before the enormous stock dividend paid."

SUIT OVER FRAME WILL TO GO TO REFEREE

Surrogate Foley Acts in Children's Suit to Set Aside Their Agreement.

Surrogate Foley decided yesterday to appoint a referee to pass upon the application made by the two children of Mrs. Caroline W. Frame to set aside an agreement they signed in settlement of their contest of Mrs. Frame's will. The children allege that the agreement was obtained through fraud, and that instead of their mother's residuary estate being worth the $250,000 it was represented to be, it is really worth more than $1,500,000.

The children who made the application and who were each cut off with $1,000 are Mrs. Bertha B. Mason and Emlen P. Frame. The principal legatees under the will are Montgomery Waddell and the late Fred Weaverson. The residuary estate, after small legacies to relatives, was bequeathed to them. Weaverson had formerly been a secretary to Mrs. Frame and both he and Waddell were actively identified with her in a spiritualist cult.

The lease or agreement which the children seek to set aside was made on Aug. 25, 1925. The substance of it has not been divulged, but in consideration thereof, it was learned, the contestants agreed to withdraw their objections to the probate of the will which was admitted Oct. 30, 1925. They now contend that the schedule of assets submitted to them at the time of the compromise showed the gross estate to be worth about $500,000. The petitioners charge that Weaverson and Waddell conspired against them and obtained through undue influence a transfer of certain of the decedent's property during her lifetime.

These allegations are denied by Waddell and the Central Union Trust Company, as executors of the will, and the executors of the estate of Weaverson. They assert that the same charges had been made before, that the assets of the estate had been set out in full at the time of the compromise, that the transfer of property was specifically mentioned in the agreement, and that a release from that also had been included in the settlement. They further contend that the children received a larger share under the agreement than they would have had the will been probated without the compromise.

The question of jurisdiction was brought up by the respondents, but Surrogate Foley decided that the matter was within his jurisdiction.

Utah Copper Surplus Gains.

The Utah Copper Company reports a surplus, after depreciation, for the second quarter of this year of $3,296,836, compared with $3,129,858 in the preceding quarter. Total income was $3,596,638, including net from copper production, $2,516,373; other income, $593,277; Bingham & Garfield Railway dividend, $75,000; Nevada Consolidated Copper Company dividend, $250,125, and income from miscellaneous securities, $161,863. Depreciation was $299,802,

BANK CLERK SOUGHT IN $10,000 SHORTAGE

Staten Island Institution's Officials Ask the Police to Hunt Bookkeeper.

Alleging that the accounts of Charles H. Herring, 26-year-old bookkeeper of the Staten Island Savings Bank at Stapleton, S. I., were $10,000 short, bank officials yesterday asked the police to look for the young man, who has been missing since July 29. He had worked in the bank for six years and received a salary of $40 a week.

A shortage of $400 in Herring's accounts was said by the bank officers to have been accidentally discovered on July 28. The bookkeeper, they said, admitted this theft, repaid the money and asked forgiveness for it as his first offense. He promised to hold himself at the disposal of the officials, and, because they believed him, they did not have him arrested. He went ostensibly to his home and never returned.

Detectives who yesterday searched the room rented by the former bookkeeper in a boarding house at 44 Central Avenue, St. George, found there a note left by Herring in which he said he was going away and would commit suicide. They also found a number of racing slips, obtained information that the young man bet heavily on horse races and said they were sure that a goodly portion of the missing money had been lost in this way.

Further inquiry revealed that Herring had a savings account at a Manhattan bank and that on July 29 he withdrew $1,000 deposited there. The police said they took little stock in his suicide threat, but believed he had fled to Mexico.

Much of the money Herring is alleged to have stolen is reported to have been given to him by his fellow-boarders to deposit to their credit in the bank. He is said to have entered the proper amounts in their bank books and on the index cards, but to have entered smaller amounts in the ledger which he kept as bookkeeper.

The $400 shortage, which Herring is said to have admitted and repaid on July 28, was discovered by a clerk who found a $425 deposit recorded in a depositor's pass book and also on the proper index card, but only $25 entered in the ledger. The examiners who started their investigation of Herring's books on July 29 and only completed it yesterday said there were defalcations extending over six months.

District Attorney Albert C. Fach of Richmond County said he would seek the indictment of Herring on Monday. In his capacity as counsel for the bank, Mr. Fach said the alleged shortage was fully covered by Herring's bond and that the bank would not suffer any loss from it.

TRUCKS CUT CONGESTION ON LONG ISLAND ROAD

Many 'Peddler' Cars Eliminated, Yard Operations and Floating Materially Reduced.

The Long Island Railroad has reduced congestion on some of its lines of heavy traffic, eliminated car floating and saved yard operations by the substitution of tractor and trailer service for certain movements by rail and car float in the metropolitan area and by the use of motor trucks in handling less than carload business on several of its branch lines. At the same time the railroad believes considerable improvement in service to shippers has been effected.

The Long Island has four metropolitan terminals. Formerly it was the practice at each of these stations to use "peddler" cars for each of the railroad's branches daily. This involved light loading of cars and meant that every local train on the railroad had to handle four peddler cars, one from each metropolitan station, on every train. Motor service was instituted to permit the consolidation of this freight so that more through cars could be made and peddler cars on each train reduced to a minimum.

The railroad has no direct measure of the saving which motor vehicle operation is making for it, since no trains have been taken out of service thereby. But the total is believed to be considerable. There is a saving in floating cars across the East River, a reduction in cars which have to be handled from the road's terminal stations to Holban yard and vice versa, the saving in yard operation at Holban and the reduction of delays to trains en route by reason of fewer way cars to be opened at each station.

The facilities at the western end of Long Island are taxed to the limit by the road's passenger operations, and every move which can be made to reduce the amount of line occupancy by unremunerative or remunerative freight service is regarded as important. It is here that motor truck service has proved its value.

DRY GOODS OUTLOOK GOOD.

Western Merchants Pleased With Prospects for the Year-End.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods maintained approximately the same volume as last year for the same week.

Road sales were recorded in equal volume to last week, although they fell short of the corresponding period a year ago.

"There was a very large number of merchants in the market, many to attend the semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Merchants' Council. Purchases were made freely and in very good volume, all merchants expressing great confidence in business prospects for the balance of the year.

"Collections did not equal last year for the same period."

Asks to Assume $2,670,000 Issue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Central Railroad of New Jersey applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to assume obligation for $2,670,000 of 4½ per cent. equipment trust certificates. The certificates will be issued by the Hudson Trust Company and the proceeds will be used in the purchase of $3,458,000 of rolling stock.

Ludlum Steel Income Drops.

The Ludlum Steel Company reports a net income for the first half of this year of $179,820, after expenses, depreciation, interest, Federal taxes, &c., which compares with $196,685 in the like period of 1925. Net sales were $1,984,628, and other income, $23,329. Expenses were $1,697,395; depreciation, $46,261, and interest, taxes, &c., $84,451.

FLAT BUILDING COST PUT UP TO WORKMEN

Artisans Erecting Rockefeller Homes for Wage Earners Hear Plea for Aid.

SOME WILL LIVE IN THEM

All Asked to Cooperate in Cutting Expense, Thus Lowering Cost to Buyers on Rent Plan.

Men employed in the erection of the Wage Earners' Cooperative Garden Apartments, Mott Avenue and 158th Street, were called suddenly from their work yesterday morning to receive the greetings of a group of labor leaders paying a surprise visit. The 240 bricklayers, carpenters, masons, plumbers and other workmen gathered in front of the building which, through the financial assistance of John D. Rockefeller Jr., will be sold to the occupying families in return for rentals over a period of years on a non-profit basis.

Andrew J. Thomas, architect, who conceived the plan and persuaded Mr. Rockefeller to finance it, addressed the men. He emphasized the importance of their work in making possible inexpensive homes for working people, and urged that they cooperate fully in keeping down the cost of the building.

Selling at Rental Cost.

"We do not yet know the cost of this building," he said, "for that will depend on the work you men do. We will sell these apartments for what they cost and that is all. We are outdoing here the great project of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which rented its building at 39 a room, for we are selling our buildings and conveying real property for the cost of rental.

"Every $100,000 saved in the erection of this building means $1.10 per month per room saved for the occupants in rental. These occupants will be the families of wage-earners, men like yourselves. The saving you can achieve for these people means much to them. We ask that you make that saving as great as possible by doing a good day's work and giving the limit of your abilities."

It was announced that there were about 4,000 applications for apartments, although only 173 will be available. Forty of the applicants are men employed in the erection of the building. The apartments will be four, five and six rooms, and a few with seven rooms. By scientific laying out of the building only 46 per cent. of the plot is occupied by the building and 54 per cent. will be used for walks, lawns and gardens. Mr. Thomas said that light and sunshine would be available in every apartment and that children will not be obliged to go into the streets to play. It is expected the building will be completed about the middle of November.

Four Leaders in Group.

Those accompanying Mr. Thomas were James McInerney, President of the Building Trades Council; Charles Boucher of the Carpenters' Union; William Myers, busines agent of the Cement Finishers' Union, and John Gill, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union.

"Remember that legislation cannot build houses," Mr. Gill told the workmen. "This building has been rising as a solution to the housing problem, while legislation has been enacted that gave no one a home. When you return to your work remember that every nail you drive, every brick you lay, every shovelful of sand you place in the mortar helps some workman to live more cheaply and to have more money available for the education of his children."

The frontal of the plot is 274 feet on Mott Avenue, 233 feet on Sheridan Avenue, 274 feet on 158th Street and 303 feet on 159th Street.

WOOL PRICES MAINTAINED.

Domestic Markets Reported Quiet; Foreign Trade More Active.

BOSTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Business in the wool markets of this country has been quiet this week, but prices are maintained. Further openings of goods by the American Woolen Company comprising fancy woolen and worsted men's wear and women's wear have been made at about the basis established for men's staple lines a month ago and appear to be attracting attention.

"The foreign markets are more active, especially Bradford, which has again sold sizable lines of wool and matchings to the Continent, besides which the topmakers have done a little more business and are quoting tops a ha'penny higher all around.

"Mohair is in moderate request and firm.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1926, to Aug. 12, 1926, inclusive, were 117,703,000 pounds, against 103,720,000 pounds for the same period last year. Receipts were 262,205,257 pounds, against 216,374,700 pounds."

Lake Superior Reports Profits.

The Lake Superior Corporation and subsidiaries report for the year ended June 30 last a net profit of $724,247, before all charges, as against $28,685 in the previous year. After interest, depreciation, depletion, &c., a deficit was shown of $619,853, as against a deficit in the preceding year of $1,690,741.

GENERAL MOTORS NEW STOCK ON CURB

OTHER SECURITIES LOWER

The feature in the Curb market yesterday was the introduction to trading of General Motors additional common stock to be distributed as a 50 per cent. stock dividend. The shares made their début at 1 P. M., on a when, as and if issued basis. The initial sale was at 134, followed by a dip to 133, at which level it ruled until shortly after announcement was made by Curb Exchange officials that all transactions in the new stock on the buying side would carry the $1.75 dividend as declared by the company. This ruling seemed to act as a signal for a fresh forward movement and before the end of the session the shares sold as high as 138½, around which level they closed. The turnover approximated 23,000 shares.

Before the General Motors new shares appeared prices in the rank and file of securities were lower. Losses ran from large fractions in the main to several points in specialty stocks. Buying power was lacking even in issues that have been recently showing strength. However, when the spurt began in General Motors, when issued, other securities started a recovery movement on their own account, and although the price range was decidedly ragged at the close a good deal of the early decline was eliminated.

Standard Oil stocks under the leadership of the New York shares were among the first to recover from the midday easiness and closed fairly steady. Miscellaneous industrials improved in spots, as did public utilities, of which American Gas and Electric assumed leadership.

The bond market played only a minor rôle in the day's doing. Trading was small in both the domestic and foreign sections and price changes were slight. United Steel Works 6½s A presented the largest total transactions and registered a fractional gain above 99.

National Cloak and Suit Drop.

Sales in July of the National Cloak and Suit Company totaled $2,098,477, as compared with $2,249,654, or a decrease of 6.7 per cent under July, 1925. Sales for the first seven months of this year decreased 7.9 per cent under the same period last year, from $23,556,664 to $21,690,741.

AUTO INDUSTRY HOLDS UP WELL OVER SUMMER

With the automobile manufacturers who recently brought out new models swinging into a fairly heavy production, the industry on the whole is well above the average of mid-Summer activity, according to Automotive Industries. Reports from leading centres indicate that the new cars are being received with enthusiasm, and concerns which follow the policy of no yearly models likewise report satisfactory business.

"The Summer is passing without the heavy slump in sales that was predicted by pessimists several months ago," the periodical states. "The manner in which the market has held up throughout the year has been a source of amazement to every one conneted with the industry, for it has been without precedent. It is customary, furthermore, for the Fall months to show a material sales gain over the Summer and if this normal course is followed this year, then it will indeed be by far the best the industry has ever seen.

"There are one or two factors that are slightly different this year. Stocks in the hands of retailers to all indications are somewhat above normal, and while this will not directly affect the market, it may influence Fall manufacturing. Again, the manufacture and sale of closed cars has been proceeding at a record-breaking rate, almost without the usual swing to open cars in warm weather, and it remains to be seen whether the Fall business will be affected by this conentration on the all season models, running to over 80 per cent. for all manufacturers except Ford."

Four Die When Train Hits Speeder.

FORT WILLIAM, Ontario, Aug. 13 (AP).—Four men were killed today near Nakina, Ontario, in the Thunder Bay district, when a gas speeder on which they were traveling on the Canadian National Railway was hit by a train.

WEISBORD IS OUT OF TEXTILE STRIKE

LEADERS SEE WAY CLEARED

Start Forming New Union, Which Will Ask for Conference With Employers.

Albert Weisbord, head of the United Front Committee, which has been conducting the strike of textile workers in Passaic, formally withdrew yesterday from all participation in the strike. His withdrawal came in a letter to W. Jett Lauck, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, which, as representative of the strikers, is seeking a settlement of the strike. The letter was made public by Thomas F. McMahon, Chairman of the Emergency Committee of the United Textile Workers of America. The elimination of Weisbord was made a condition for the taking into the American Federation of Labor the workers who have been fighting under the direction of the United Front Committee. The letter follows:

Mr. W. Jett Lauck,
Chairman, Plenary Committee.

Dear Sir: Inasmuch as the Executive Council of the U. T. W. of A. has made the question of my elimination from the local union of the U. T. W. of Passaic and vicinity as a condition for the affiliation of the striking textile workers, I hereby make this declaration:

(1) That upon the issuance of the charter by the U. T. W. of A. to the textile workers of Passaic and their formal affiliation with the U. T. W., I will withdraw from participation in the affairs of the Passaic local union of the U. T. W.

(2) In the meantime, I will use all my influence to bring about harmonious relations between the strikers and the U. T. W.

Yours very truly,
ALBERT WEISBORD.

Aug. 13, 1926.

Union officials and the Citizens' Committee are of the opinion that the elimination of the strike leader clears the way for a speedy getting together of employers and workers. The withdrawal of Weisbord was at once communicated to Senator Borah, and it is believed that better relations will be established between both sides.

Mr. McMahon began at once the work of sending out 10,000 application cards which the workers will sign to signify their desire to join the United Textile Workers and the American Federation of Labor. When a majority of the workers have replied a charter will be issued and Mr. McMahon will begin the work of organizing the workers by mills, each mill becoming a local in the Passaic union.

As soon as organization is completed a conference will be sought with the employers, who have refused to treat with the strikers because of alleged communistic connections. The Citizens' Committee is of the opinion that the strike will be settled on one point alone—that of union recognition. With recognition established, the leaders believe the other points at issue will quickly be disposed of.

Until the new union charter is granted the United Front Committee will continue to function to keep the strike machinery intact.

BANKS ENTER DRESS STRIKE.

Garment Men Consult Them—Union Charges Move to Influence Credit.

Merchants interested in the garment and textile industries and representatives of several banks met yesterday at the offices of the Eastern Millinery Association, 15 West Thirty-seventh Street, to discuss contracts labor unions are demanding of garment manufacturers and jobbers as a condition of settling the strike. The union leaders charged that the purpose of the meeting was to influence credit and banking interests to cut off or limit credits to cloak manufacturers who sign the union contract.

After the meeting this statement was given out: "Representatives of large companies and banks interested in the textile industry met yesterday at the Eastern Millinery Association to discuss the ultimate effect on the market of the agreements which the striking cloak and suit workers are asking of individual manufacturers.

"The discussion took into consideration the effect of the thirty-six-week contract in the seasonal garment trades. Although no definite action for relief was taken at the meeting, it was decided that a committee be appointed to call a second meeting in the near future for a continued discussion of the subject. At this meeting such remedial measures as seem proper will be discussed."

Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, expressed this opinion of the meeting:

"I do not believe that the meeting of bankers and credit men, summoned for this afternoon at the offices of the Eastern Millinery Association through the initiative of the Industrial Council of the Cloak Manufacturers, Inc., will entertain such a destructive proposal as cutting off credits from or boycotting manufacturers who sign up with the union.

"Aside from being grossly unethical from a business viewpoint, such a move is thoroughly unsound in an industrial and economic sense. It is well known to every one in this industry that we have had for many years past scres of manufacturers who would guarantee their workmen not only the fifty-six weeks of work, but forty or more, and yet their standing in the trade and the banking world has never been impaired on that account. In Cleveland the entire cloak market is operating on a guarantee of forty weeks' employment annually, and that market is prosperous and progressing."

Another picket demonstration in the garment district will be held on Monday morning, it was announced yesterday by the Cloakmakers' Joint Board which is conducting the strike. The board also announcedthat 100 independent manufacturers had settled with the workers and signed the agreement.

HITS PEACEFUL PICKETING.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—so-called "peaceful picketing" in labor strikes may be more demoralizing than the warlike variety, with little to differentiate them, acording to an opinion which has been filed by Vice Chancellor Berry, advising an injunction to prevent members of the Greek Restaurant Workers' Club from interfering with employes of the Essex Restaurant of Newark. The club is said to be trying to unionize Newark restaurants.

"Restraint of the mind is just as potent as a threat of physical violence," said the Court.

PEASANTS IN RUSSIA URGE GRAIN EXPORTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—The question of the importation of foreign manufactured goods to relieve the "goods famine" already has been raised here. The publication Economic Life says the peasants this year are showing great interest in grain export possibilities because, they say, "if grain is exported Russia will be able to buy goods abroad to meet our needs."

Economic Life admits there exists a peasant plan for solving the problem of the disproportion between prices of agricultural products and manufactured goods—a plan different from and independent of the Government program, which at present contemplates little importation of finished goods, but wants to buy machines to enable Russian industry to meet the needs of the country.

But it is no secret that a considerable time must elapse before Soviet industry is sufficiently developed to produce enough goods for the national demand, let alone the extremely high costs of production due to red tape and poor management. According to one of the last speeches of Dzerzinski, such goods as reach the peasant cost him three to four times more than before the war.

Reports from the provinces say that cooperatives and State stores are badly stocked, and, as in previous years, carry goods unsuitable to local wants.

Private traders are better stocked but prices are higher still. In view of this situation it is not surprising to read in economic life that the peasants in the leading grain centres of the Volga region refuse to do business and actually are taking back home loads of grain they took to urban centres.

Reports from Rostoff, North Caucasian region, are less pessimistic, but here, too, the Soviet press correspondents declare, the State grain purchasing bureaus are hampered by a shortage of cash and manufactured goods.

The peasants, generally speaking, have little means or desire to exercise political pressure, although it is significant that the all-Russian Soviet Congress scheduled for October has just been postponed until Spring; but a widespread tendency to withhold grain from the market would have economic effects Moscow could not neglect.

It is obvious enough that the industrial program of the Soviet Union would be jeopardized by any large-scale importation of manufactured goods unless there was a corresponding increase in foreign credits to permit the purchase of goods and machines to be carried on simultaneously, which is one more indication of the possible influence of the peasants upon the policy of the Soviet Government in regard to foreign relations.

ALL MONTHS ADVANCE ON RUBBER EXCHANGE

A general advance in all nine positions featured trading on the Rubber Exchange yesterday, gains ranging from 20 to 80 points. The May position showed the greatest strength, remaining firm at 41.90 cents all day, after the maximum gain. All other positions opened with good size gains over Friday, but later lost some of this improvement. The turnover involved 194 lots, with transactions confined to the new contracts.

The London market opened quiet, dipped slightly at midday, but then finished steady, with gains of ½d being made throughout the list. The present spot price is 19½d.

Range of prices for the active deliveries follows:

	High	Low	Close	Thursday's

RAW SUGAR MARKET ACTIVE.

Sales Amounting to 1,000,000 Bags Make Record of Year.

The raw sugar market today will close its most active week of the year, with sales approximating 1,000,000 bags of Cubas and Porto Ricos, August and first half September positions, to refiners at 2½ cents c&f Cuban basis, 4.27 cents duty paid. Refiners have been compelled to replenish their stocks since receipts have been less than meltings, and there is a constantly increasing domestic demand, the United States Sugar Association reports. Some decline has occurred in futures because of the indifference of refiners to the price.

Refined sugar is quoted at 5.70 cents for prompt by Federal and Arbuckle and at 5.80 cents by all other refiners for both prompt and thirty-day contracts. Withdrawals were the heaviest of the year, with delays in shipment varying from one to three weeks upon assortments and from a few days to a week on bulk granulated. Torrid weather and an abundance of fruits have served to stimulate the demand, which is expected to continue unabated through September.

BRINGS IN OIL WELL.

Skelly Property in Oklahoma Yields 300 Barrels First Day.

The Skelly Oil Company has brought in a discovery well in Creek County, near Kellyville, Okla., flowing 300 barrels in the first twenty-four hours from only five feet of sand, it was reported here yesterday. The well first touched the sand at 2,708 feet and will be drilled further in the next few days.

The Associated Oil Company reports that the west offset to its discovery well in the Carolina-Texas field, Webb County, Texas, is a 50,000,000-cubic feet dry gas well at 2,595 feet. The company's Usher Carson No. 1, east offset to the discovery well, bailed dry during the week and was continuing to core.

Railroad Equipment Inquiries.

The Soo Line is inquiring for ten mountain-type locomotives and the New York Central for forty coaches, thirty suburban cars, five combination passenger and baggage cars and four suburban combination passenger and baggage cars. The Kentucky & Indiana Railway ordered six switching locomotives from the Lima Locomotive Company.

WHEAT PRICES RISE, BUT DECLINE LATER

CLOSE IS WITH LOSS

Liquidation, With Support Weak, Causes Losses in Corn, Oats and Rye.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13—Wheat prices averaged higher as the result of buying 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 bushels of futures by cash interests and houses with seaboard interests, presumably as a hedge against export sales of domestic grain. The weakness in corn, however, caused an easy finish, with prices unchanged to ⅞ cent lower, September gaining fractionally on the December at times, and the bulk of the buying being in the near-by delivery.

Hard Winters at the Gulf and seaboard were reported as ½@1 cent better, as compared with futures, with export sales in all positions finally estimated at 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels, the largest in some time.

Chicago handlers sold 400,000 bushels of cash wheat to exporters at a price said to figure out 8½@9 cents over September, c. i. f. Montreal, and charters were made for 250,000 bushels to that point. At Baltimore there were sales of 300,000 bushels.

The revival in the export demand from abroad was entirely unexpected, as Liverpool broke sharply yesterday with a decided lack of interest in cash wheat, while today it ignored the weakness in America late Thursday and closed ½d higher.

Buying of New York December against sales here at 4⅜ cents difference was on and there was also buying of wheat against sales here at 4⅜ cents, which helped to create weakness in the latter grain.

There has been evidence of late of larger exports than reported, and this view, according to the bulls, is confirmed by the large clearances of nearly 18,000,000 bushels in the last two weeks.

With the outlook for the new crop no longer a factor in the market except as far as weather conditions are concerned for harvesting, the trade is anxiously looking for some new influence to make a decided trend one way or the other.

Primary arrivals today were 2,729,000 bushels; week ago, 2,954,000; last year, 1,301,000. Shipments were 1,282,000 bushels; week ago, 1,213,000; last year, 912,000.

Liquidation was on in corn, oats and rye, and with a lack of aggressive support prices declined rather sharply. Stop-loss orders were caught in corn, at the finish losing ⅝ cent, as compared with the September, which finished at 3¾ cents under the deferred delivery. More favorable weather and crop comments from the West with the forecast for showers were the bearish influences. The selling of futures today was headed by houses recently aggressive on the buying side.

Cash demand continues slow and there is a growing belief that the carryover of old corn at the end of the season will be the largest on record.

Primary arrivals of corn today were 423,000 bushels, week ago 525,000, last year 646,000, and shipments 299,000 bushels, week ago 539,000, last year 266,000.

WHEAT MARKET HERE DULL.

Prices Show Only Fractional Changes After Early Firmness.

In a narrow, featureless market prices for wheat in the grain futures market of the New York Produce Exchange closed with only fractional changes yesterday.

The market opened with a show of firmness on strong foreign cables and looked for a time as if it were headed upward, but this was offset by weakness in Minneapolis, where there was evidently hedging pressure against the movement of Spring wheat.

Throughout most of the day prices moved fractionally up and down. September sold as high as $1.40⅝ during the forenoon, but the best bid at the close was $1.39¼. December sold up to $1.45¼, but eased off, closing at $1.44⅜ unchanged.

World Wheat Yield in the Balance.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP).—Revised estimates to date for sixteen Northern Hemisphere countries which last year produced 77 per cent. of the total Northern Hemisphere wheat crop placed this year's production at about 2,264,000,000 bushels, against 2,227,000,000 bushels for the same countries last year. In announcing the estimates the Department of Agriculture said latest condition reports from European countries not yet reporting definite forecasts indicate the crops smaller than last year, and these reductions may reduce the production for the Northern Hemisphere below that of last year.

COTTON UNDERGOES IRREGULAR TRADING

Prices Move Over Wide Range, Reaching New Lows but Closing Higher.

Prices moved around over a range of 30 points in yesterday's cotton market under the most nervous and irregular course of fluctuations this season.

After opening up quarter of a cent, the list made new low records for the week where the market encountered a degree of resistance that caused a sharp closing recovery, with final quotations 12 to 19 points higher on the day. Many private reports of insect infestation and damage were in circulation, though only slight mention of weevil appeared in the last weekly bulletin.

The effect of a much larger indicated crop than the trade had anticipated has been the dominating factor throughout the week. Lines of long cotton were liquidated and a disposition to pursue the selling side tendered to produce an oversold technical position.

During Thursday's decline, the downward movement was arrested owing to demand for October at one end and May at the other end of the list. Though both these months sold in new low ground for a few moments yesterday, with October around 16.15 and May under 16.50, the amount of cotton for sale on the decline failed to maintain the price depression. Efforts on the part of room traders to cover contracts the last half hour developed a quick rally of $1 a bale.

Week-end figures showed 114,000 bales in sight compared with 111,000 last year, making 173,000 for the season compared with 193,000 a year ago. Spinners took 201,000 compared 171,000 last year, making 365,000 for the season compared with 326,000 a year ago. The visible lost 86,000 compared with 60,000 last year, leaving 2,097,000 compared with 991,000 a year ago.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Small receipts and better demand were instrumental in advancing the hog prices sharply, with a majority of sales showing 15 to 25 cents better than on Thursday, the day's average being raised 20 cents, to $11.70, while the top was up 30 cents, to $13.70. The bulk of the 170@200 pound averages sold at $12.75@$13.60, with 240@325 pound butchers at $11.75@$12.90, and packing sows, $10.50@$11.

Packers bought 9,500 and shippers 6,000, with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 15,000, with 4,000 expected tomorrow.

Demand for fat lambs was fairly good and the market strong to 25 cents higher, with Washingtons selling up to $14.15. The bulk of natives brought $13.50@$14, with a top of $14.40. Sheep were weak, with the bulk of the sales at $6@$7. Receipts were 6,000.

The bulk of the receipts of 4,000 cattle were Western grass stock and prices were steady. Best yearlings sold at $10.15, with heavies at $9.90@$10.10, while the bulk of beef steers brought $8.50@$9.25.

Plan German Dye Stock Increase.

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP).—The directorate of the Interessen-Gemeinschaft der Farbenindustrie, the German dye industry combination, will propose at a general meeting Sept. 1 an increase in capital of 454,000,000 marks, bringing the total capital to 1,100,000,000. The new shares will be offered to existing shareholders at 150.

Retailers Are Buying Velvets.

Chiffon velvets are in active demand here at present. The indications are that the Fall will see a marked revival of consumer interest in these goods, particularly in the black and street shades. A steady increase in the call for dull-finished silks is also reported by wholesalers, who anticipated strong favor for plain weaves of this type during the early Fall. Other silks wanted for prompt delivery by retailers are canton, satin and pebble crêpes, chiffon moiré's and crêpe failles. Wine shades, pheasant brown, rondac blue, sheril rose and black are the colors most in demand.

Orders for Fall Millinery.

In millinery the demand for Soilet felts is an outstanding feature of the moment. These hats are made with very high crowns. The interest in felts of practically all types continues strong, retailers placing very good orders for them for delivery during the next few weeks. An active call is also reported for velours in the new Fall shades. Small shapes are wanted in these hats, on which self-trimmings or bands are used. In the stitched velvet hat, which is meeting with growing popularity, the soft "tam" effect in plain colors is favored.

Mufflers Selling Well Here.

A nice business is being done here in men's and boys' mufflers for Fall. In active demand are those made of radium and crêpe silks set off with embroidered dots and fancy figures on solid grounds of white, tan, gray, navy, powder blue and black. These types are being featured in both reefers and squares. Imported cashmere mufflers, wholesalers report, are being ordered in fairly largely quantities. There have been few calls for men's knitted mufflers so far, but it is expected that the demand for them will be good later in the season.

Coat Prices Are to Be Higher.

Higher prices on re-orders of women's better-grade cloth coats for Fall are inevitable, according to local wholesalers. A number of them are already advising retailers of such increases. The latter, however, are said still to be "shopping around" for merchandise at the prices they paid at the beginning of the season, before the strike got under way. Only a comparatively small number of garments is available, and it is predicted that when production is resumed the coat trade generally will put into effect a 10 per cent. increase. Manufacturers are taking some comfort in the thought that at least for the early part of the Fall there is not likely to be the overproduction which has been the bane of past seasons.

Make Suggestions on "Shortwear."

Two suggestions about short women's garments were made by retailers to Charles E. May, managing director of the Affiliated Specialists in Dresses for Short Women, on his recent visits to various stores located between this city and Chicago. One of these suggestions, which were reported by Mr. May at a meeting of the organization yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania, was that "shortwear" should be divided into two distinct classes, one of these would take in the very short woman and the other the woman who is from two to four inches under the so-called average height. It was pointed out that a garment suited to a woman 5 feet in height must necessarily differ from one intended for a woman six inches taller. The other suggestion was that more liberal allowances be made at the hip and bust lines of dresses in sizes 35½ to 41½.

Burlaps Again In a Slump.

Trading in burlaps fell off noticeably here yesterday after a fairly active period of buying earlier in the week. Cables from Calcutta reported that market 5 to 10 points higher than on Thursday, and, apparently on receipt of this information, buyers withdrew here with a view to checking a possible rise in prices. This is said to be their practice of late. Quotations in the New York market, compared with those of a week ago, show reductions of 5 to 15 points. The only exception to this is that August-September shipments of lightweights are 10 points higher than last week, the reason for which is puzzling. These are the prices quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

	8-ounce.	10½-ounce.
Spots	6.80c	8.45c
August-Sept. shipments	6.70c	8.30c
October-Dec. shipments	6.30c	7.85c

Hard Coal Outlook Encouraging.

The present condition of the anthracite trade is very favorable for this time of the year, Saward's Journal will say today, and the general outlook for the approaching season is decidedly encouraging. New York and New Jersey have been taking independent coal at a very fair rate, considering the opportunities for buying company coal, and as a result the market price is a little higher. Some independent operators, looking forward to something a little better later on, indicate that they do not want too many advance orders in hand at present prices. There is not much change in the local market for soft coal, for the circumstances that apply at the Southern ports have not had an effect here as yet.

Gray Goods Not Very Active.

The demand for gray goods quieted down again in this market yesterday, and in many cases prices were nominal. For spot delivery small sales of these printcloths were made: 39-inch 68-72s, 8½ cents; 38½-inch 64-60s, 7½ cents; 38½-inch 60-48s, 6⅝ cents, and 39-inch 56-44s, 6 cents. For 36-inch 4.70-yard sheetings buyers paid 7⅝ cents, with 9 cents the best that could be done on 37-inch 48-square, 4-yard sheetings. Not much was done in the fine yarn cloths, but in the specialties there was additional trading in 37½-inch 4.37-yard sateens at 11½ cents.

Will Show Millinery Also.

Hats patterned by famous Parisian designers will "top off" the French garments that have been brought here for the coming style show of the Silk Association of America, according to F. D. Rich, director of the association's fashion bureau. The show will be held at the Hotel Astor on Aug. 24 at 8:30 P. M., and the garments to be displayed will be suitable for all occasions. The showing will include creations by Callot Soeurs, Jeanne Lanvin, Drecoll, Philippe et Gaston, Paul Poiret, Doeillet, Doucet, Worth, Martial et Armand, Boue Soeurs and Jenny, in addition to those by other leading Paris fashion houses previously announced. Admission will be either by ticket, which may be obtained without cost from the association at 468 Fourth Avenue, or by business card.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Fewer Changes Were Seen, but Declines Again Predominated.

Although Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices showed more advances and fewer declines this week than last there was still an excess of the latter over the former. Several of the advances were in the minor items, and this was noticeably true of foodstuffs. The current list shows thirty-five declines in sixty-two changes, against forty-one declines in sixty-three revisions last week. Features were few.

The following table gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week, They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

The twenty-seven changes in the foodstuffs this week were about equally divided between declines and advances, but several of the latter took place in foods of minor importance. In the local provisions list there was a general break in flour prices. Spring patent flour broke 20 cents a barrel and a drop of 10 cents a barrel in Winter soft straights was also seen. A decline of 45 cents a barrel occurred in the fancy grade of Minnesota flour for family use.

Middle Western lard was lower here, as were hams. Bacon did not change. At Chicago advances took place in live steers and live hogs, but mess pork, live sheep and short ribs were all lower.

Changes in the local dairy products were neither numerous nor important this week. They consisted only of advances of a cent a pound in extra creamery butter and of a half-cent a dozen in fresh-gathered eggs of first quality. Prices in this part of the list continue to run lower than those of a year ago.

Save for a decline in California "40-50" prunes neither the fresh nor dried fruits in the list showed change this week. Revisions in the vegetables were more numerous than for some time. Onions led with a break of 50 cents a bag, while cabbage and potatoes each showed a rise of 25 cents a barrel for the week. In the beans a rise in choice white kidney stock contrasted with declines in the choice marrow, pea and red kidney varieties. The beverage list showed advances in both No. 7 Rio and No. 4 Santos coffees, and also in fair Formosa tea. The price of 96-degree centrifugal raw sugar rose again, but there was no change in the quotation of fine granulated sugar. In the spices the only decline was in black Lampong pepper. Zanzibar cloves, nutmegs and white Singapore pepper were higher.

Four of the five changes in the grains this week were downward. Corn advanced, but wheat, oats, rye and malting barley were all lower. Straw (long rye) was higher. The changes in the hides consisted of a rise in heavy native cows and a decline in No. 1 extremes. Leathers were quotably unchanged.

The listed building materials and lumber were without change, and revisions in the metals were few and featureless. They consisted of a rise in antimony and declines in copper, zinc and tin.

The changes in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were without feature. They totaled only twelve, of which seven were downward. Advances in resin and turpentine were seen in the naval stores, with no declines indicated.

Miscellaneous changes were fewer in number this week than for a long time. They consisted only of declines in jute and wool.

The week in the textiles was featured by the pricing of Spring lines of men's wear fancy and women's wear staple fabrics by the American Woolen Company at substantial reductions from the Spring, 1926, figures. In cotton goods the sharp break in the staple checked the upward movement of prices and caused some slight declines in unfinished cloths. Burlaps were weaker as a result of heavy shipments from Calcutta and a limited demand here.

POTTERS SIGN PAY COMPACT

Agreement Renewed for Two Years With Slight Changes.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—At the conclusion today of the biennial conference between representatives of the United States Potteries Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, the 1924 wage agreement between the two in the general or tableware branch of the industry was renewed for two years with only slight changes in working conditions and no increase in wages.

The manufacturers' association was represented by its Labor Committee, headed by W. E. Wells of Tenwell, W. Va., and the brotherhood by its Executive Board, with John T. Wood of East Liverpool, Ohio, President of the brotherhood, at its head.

The participants in the conference, which began on Wednesday last, represented fifty-six pottery concerns employing about 10,000 workers, most of whom are paid on a piece-work basis.

L. I. ROAD HEARING SET.

Transit Commission Will Determine Rights In Cut-Off Aug. 24.

The Transit Commission announced yesterday that a public hearing would be held on Tuesday, Aug. 24, to determine the rights of the Long Island Railroad in the so-called Cedarhurst cut-off, between Laurelton and Cedarhurst in Queens, which the railroad company purposes to rehabilitate after having ceased to use it for twenty years.

Rehabilitation of the cut-off for use as a siding will create a grade crossing. Those opposing the railroad's plan contend that the railroad has forfeited its franchise by failure to use the cut-off.

FORTY-FOUR WED HERE ON FRIDAY, THE 13TH

Sixty-one couples braved superstitions concerning Friday, the 13th, at the Marriage License Bureau in the Municipal Building yesterday, twenty-two of them being married on the spot. The average number of licenses issued on a Friday, generally regarded as a "jinx" day even without the "13," is about seventy-five. The average weekday number is about 150.

Among those who refused to let superstition stand in their way were John Duvall Gluck, "Santa Claus" of the United States and managing editor of The West Hudson Record, and John Davis Dun, editor of The Toledo (Ohio) Times.

Mr. Gluck, head of the Santa Claus Association of the United States, has a New York office at 289 West Twenty-third Street, and receives all letters addressed every Christmas through the United States mails to "Santa Claus."

CHARGED AS PERJURER BY LICENSE BUREAU

Man Accused of Driving Car While Intoxicated Concealed Criminal Record, It Is Said.

A perjury charge was lodged in the Traffic Court yesterday against Robert H. J. Baker, 32 years old, of 716 Lydig Avenue, the Bronx, when, on his arraignment for driving a car while intoxicated on Aug. 8, it was discovered that in obtaining a driver's license last October he concealed the fact that he had a criminal record.

Baker will be arraigned in the Jefferson Market Court this morning on the perjury charge. Magistrate Andrew Macrery held him without bail for the Grand Jury on the intoxication charge.

The police say fingerprints of the man revealed that he was turned over to the New Haven police in August, 1913, on a forgery charge; in May, 1917, he received a thirty-day sentence on a theft charge, and in June, 1925, received a suspended sentence of two years on a burglary charge.

John J. Dunn of the State Tax Department appeared against Baker on the perjury charge, saying that in his application for a driver's license, Baker swore he never had been arrested.

Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager in Homicide Court held James Gavin of 1,148 Second Avenue without bail for the killing the day before of 6-year-old Agnes Burns in front of her home at 322 East Fortieth Street with his automobile. It was revealed that Gavin had served in the reformatory at Rahway, N. J., in 1923, on a robbery charge and that he was discharged in March of this year on a burglary charge.

BRIDE ACCUSES BRIDESMAID

Young Husband Arrested With Girl From Wedding Party.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Charged with having deserted his girl wife for seventeen-year-old Mary Capozi of 231 Washington Avenue, who was a bridesmaid at their wedding, Anthony Bombace, 20 years old, of 61 First Street, son of a well-to-do building contractor here, was taken into custody last evening.

On the last Snday in July, the police say, Anthony disappeared with Mary. His wife, who before their marriage eight months ago was Helen Quatroni, immediately swore out a warrant for him, and warrants charging other offenses were sworn out by Mrs. Grace Capozi, Mary's mother.

Captain John McGowan and Detective William Mancusi traced the pair to New Haven, Hartford, Springfield, Pittsfield, Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Watertown, Rouse's Point, Montreal, Geneva and Canandaigua, and lost the trail. Then, while both the Bombace and Capozi families gave other clues, Anthony and Mary were found last night living in Port Chester as Mr. and Mrs. McCrae.

OUSTED, SUES McLAUGHLIN.

Ex-Policeman Acts After Sentence for Not Supporting Family.

William H. Lutz, a dismissed policeman, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against Police Commissioner McLaughlin to determine the validity of his removal because he had been sentenced to a year in the workhouse by Magistrate Brough for failing to pay $20 a week ordered for the support of his wife and two children. Lutz was dismissed after a trial before Deputy Commissioner Leach on March 25 last on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and violation of the rules of the Police Department.

Lutz alleged in his petition that the charges and testimony failed to show any violation of the Police Department rules, and that "no legal, proper, competent or sufficient evidence was adduced at said trial to prove the petitioner guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer."

HEBARD HOME IN SALE.

Eccles & Muir Purchase Four-Acre White Plains Residential Property.

Major Roy W. Hebard has sold his residential property in White Plains to Eccles & Muir, Inc., through the office of R. Franklin Hull.

The property involved in the sale consists of a four acre plot improved with a large residence at the southwest corner of Broadway and Main Street. It had been in Major Hebard's ownership since 1919, when he purchased it from William Reynolds Brown.

The estate of Daniel P. Hays has sold a plot on Greenmeadow Road, Pleasantville, to George Rommel. The sale was negotiated by Chauncey B. Griffen.

LONG ISLAND LOTS IN SALE.

PARK ROW TRANSFER.

Deed to Twenty-nine-Story Building Passes to New Corporation.

The skyscraper was acquired two years ago by Bernard Dorf in an exchange deal which also involved the Theodore Roosevelt apartments on the Grand Concourse. Last February the Park Row building was conveyed by Mr. Dorf's Dorben Realty, Inc., to Teresa Cipullo, who now conveys it to the Ann-Row Realty Corporation.

N. Y. Edison Company Files Plans.

The New York Edison Company yesterday filed plans for a three-story distributing station to be built on a plot 74.6 by 90.5 feet at 441-5 West Forty-third Street, at a cost of $600,000. W. Whitehill was the architect who drew the plans.

Cedar Street Office Sale.

The Bronhattan Holding Corporation sold 3 Cedar Street to Mrs. Etta M. Greenspecht. This property is on a plot fronting 21.9 feet on Cedar Street by about 45.8 deep and consists of a five-story office building.

Linsky Buys on Barnes Avenue.

Jack Linsky purchased the vacant plot, 75 by 105, on the east side of Barnes Avenue, 50 feet north of East 220th Street. Edwin M. Jarmuth was the broker.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REAL ESTATE

THREE APARTMENTS FOR DYCKMAN PLOTS

OTHER MANHATTAN DEALS

Fort Washington Flats and Private Dwellings in Changes of Ownership.

Three large apartments will be added to the rapidly growing apartment house colony in the Dyckman section as a result of two deals closed yesterday. Two of the houses will be erected on a 192d Street block front by the Strapsil Builders, Inc., at a cost of $1,100,000.

The property involved in this deal comprises the entire block front on the south side of 192d Street between Broadway and Bennett Avenue. The plot measures 200 feet on 192d Street by 171 feet on Broadway and Bennett Avenue. It was sold by the D. P. S. Construction Company through Hess & O'Brien as brokers.

The buying company, which has just completed a six-story elevator apartment house at a cost of $500,000 on the east side of Broadway near 193d Street, plans to improve the 192d Street parcel with two six-story houses.

The third project is also a six-story house, which is planned for a former holding of the Dorsett estate. This property, which comprises a vacant plot of 5,500 square feet on the south side of 213th Street, just west of Broadway, was sold by the estate through M. & L. Hess, Inc., to the Hanson Holding Corporation. The buyer expects to file plans for the new improvement in the immediate future.

During the past week trading in the Dyckman section has been one of the marked features of a rather sluggish market. A number of other deals involving apartment improvements, to cost a total of several millions of dollars, have recently been announced. In addition to these there have also been several long-term leases of improved business properties.

Another deal of considerable importance in the northern section of Manhattan was also closed yesterday, when the Nelmort Realty Corporation sold two flats in the Fort Washington section to an investing client of Louis Canter & Co.

The properties are built on a plot 100 by 100 feet, forming the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 187th Street. They comprise two five-and-one-half-story tenements, housing fifty-two families and showing an annual income of $32,000. Just opposite, on the east side of Amsterdam Avenue, the new $6,000,000 Jewish Yeshiva is now under course of construction.

Other Tenement Deals.

The two four-story tenements at 64-66 East 106th Street have been sold through George S. Runk for the Jacmin Realty Company. The houses have a frontage of 60 feet. Mr. Runk also sold for Barnett Danto 52 East 107th Street, a five-story flat adjacent to the corner of Madison Avenue, and the five-story tenement house at 2,515 Eighth Avenue to Anna B. De Kay.

The Loretta Realty and Finance Corporation has sold to Martin L. Drayton the five-story tenement at 248 West 133d Street, 37.6 by 99.11 feet, and the same company has purchased from Martin L. Drayton the five-story tenement at 2,027 Seventh Avenue, 37.6 by 92 feet.

Private House Sales.

Mrs. Allene T. Burchard has sold through Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., Inc., 57 East Sixty-fourth Street, a five-story American basement dwelling with elevator, on a lot 25 by 100.5 feet. The purchaser will occupy. Pease & Elliman represented the buyer.

The two three-story private dwellings at 230 and 238 East Forty-eighth Street, each on lot 18.8 by 100 feet, have been sold by James Kyle & Sons in conjunction with Douglas L. Elliman & Co., for Robert L. Niles Jr.

MORTGAGES PLACED.

Loan of $150,000 for Bronx Theatre on Webster Avenue.

J. Clarence Davies placed a building loan of $150,000 for the erection of a theatre to seat 1,700 persons on the northwest corner of Webster Avenue and Ford Street, a plot 100 by 125 feet. The builders are the Hiram Feldman Construction Company.

The Duross Company placed a loan of $20,000 on the property at 536 and 538 East Eighty-second Street.

Henry S. Niewenhous has placed a $40,000 first mortgage, five years at 5½ per cent., on the Bronx property at 353 Beekman Avenue, Rameri Evangelista.

Louis Canter & Co. have obtained a first mortgage of $210,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on the northwest corner of 159th Street and Broadway for the Daniel Scocozza Corporation. Sol Fienberg was a co-broker.

David N. Mintz has negotiated for the Pedine Realty Corporation a first mortgage of $65,000 for five years on the new factory at Glendale, L. I.

The same broker also placed a temporary building loan of $50,000 for Riley & Riley, Inc., on the southwest corner of Foster Avenue and East Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, a four-story apartment; and a building loan of $30,000 for the Gritsch Realty Corporation on a new apartment house being constructed on the north side of Reservoir Oval and Putnam Avenue, Bronx.

Hospital Contract Awarded.

The contract for the construction of an isolation pavilion for the Willard Parker Hospital at the foot of East Sixteenth Street has been awarded, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports. The contract for the general construction work has been awarded to the Eastern Construction Company on a bid of $137,000.

West Side Residenc Leased.

The H. E. Kent Realty Company, in conjunction with Pease & Elliman, have leased the three-story dwelling at 308 West Seventieth Street for Miss Minnie Petty to Mrs. Joseph Skrinjar.

Sale on Staten Island.

Real Estate Notes.

The H. E. Kent Realty Company, Inc., has moved to larger quarters in their present building at 153 West Seventy-second Street.

Vivian Green Assembles Plot In Greenwich Village Section

Vivian Green, operator and builder, who is assembling a plot facing Abingdon Square, has purchased from the William S. Dempsey Company the three four-story houses, with store, at 15 to 19 Abingdon Square (Eighth Avenue), occupying a plot 67 by 104.8 by irregular.

Earlier in the week Mr. Green bought from Fred Mushekian the two abutting six-story apartment houses at 73 and 75 Bank Street, on a plot 50 by 100, formerly an "L" around the corner. Last week Mr. Green bought the five-story apartment at 8 Bethune Street, across the square from his latest purchase.

The sellers acquired the three Abingdon Square houses last February from Theodore Scholtz.

VOLUME OF RENTALS SHOWS BIG DECLINE

Thursday's Abnormal Activity Accentuates Slump—Market Is Healthy, Brokers Say.

Business space was an active factor in the Manhattan real estate market yesterday. Although there was a sharp falling off over Thursday's demand, the condition of the leasing market was reported healthy. Brokers explained this by pointing out that the demand Thursday was almost double the normal volume at this time of the year.

Another factor to which attention was called was that whereas Thursday's rentals were confined to a small area of Manhattan, east of Fifth Avenue and north of Madison Square, the demand yesterday was more evenly spread out over the city.

Max D. Cosel has leased, in conjunction with Roy Scherick, for the Mayday Realty Corporation, the tenth floor at 70 West Fortieth Street, facing Bryant Park.

Charles B. Van Valen rented for the Molan Realty Corporation offices in 50-4 John Street to Charles A. Snyder, and for the 123 William Street Corporation, offices in the Underwriters Building to Frank V. Cooper.

Spear & Co., Inc., have leased the store and basement at 152 Bleecker Street to L. Bergonzi & Co., importer of groceries, and offices at 220 Fifth Avenue to Frederick W. Warriner, jewelry.

Maurice Schwarz leased for Pauline Tynberg the store at 1,329 Madison Avenue, between Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Streets, to Daniel Reeves, Inc., chain grocery stores, for a term of years.

Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc., leased for the F. W. Woolworth Company space on the fourth floor at 366 Fifth Avenue, to the William F. Johnston Company, to be used as sales and executive offices; also in the same building, space on the seventh floor to M. S. Rodenberg Company, Inc., for executive offices. The same brokers also leased for Centurian Building, Inc., Hugo Hoffman, President, space on the twelfth floor at 1,182 Broadway to Jacob Bernstein.

Harriet Bruce Reid leased to Charles A. and David Mayorkas the four-story building at 679 Madison Avenue, on a lot 16 by 63 feet, between Sixty-first and Sixty-second streets, for twenty-one years.

Joseph Trey leased for twenty-one years from Bine Engelman, the three-story tenement with stores, at 592 Eighth Avenue, on a lot 15.2 by 64 feet, located between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets. The lease calls for a net annual rental of from $3,000 to $4,000.

Isidor Weiss has leased for the Sil-jour Realty Corporation (Jourmire Silverman, President) in 535 Eighth Avenue the entire fifth floor to the Lawrence Cloak Company. The same broker has also leased a floor in the same building to Lehr & Mold. The leases are for a long term of years.

ACTIVITY IN BROOKLYN.

Coney Island Avenue Deal Reported —Home-Site Buyers.

The James B. Fisher Company sold two lots on the west side of Coney Island Avenue, between Ditmas and Eighteenth Avenues, for Harriet Loomis Aydelotte of Akron, Ohio, and Fanny Loomis Morris of Montclair. The lots are part of the Kensington Park development of the Kingsboro Realty Company, one of the Wood-Harmon corporations. Harry Washer was co-broker.

J. Lacov & Son have sold for H. Matson the dwelling on lot 20 by 100 feet at 1,933 East Twenty-third Street.

Louis S. Schwartz, attorney, purchased for a client the dwelling at 1,042 East Twenty-third Street, and also for a client for investment twenty lots at Cornell Park, Jamaica.

The Harmon National Real Estate Corporation announces sales at its new development at Nassau Shores, near Amityville, L. I., to Charles C. Andrews. William A. Preston, William F. Dorskind, Frederick A. Diemer, Christopher Bagley, N. and M. Kushner, W. J. Kane, James M. Siegel, Mary E. Bertram, Charles B. Slate and Edward W. Montele.

BRONX SALES FEATURE MULTI-FAMILY HOUSES

Brokers Report Aetive Demand for Tenement Properties—Blockfront in Deal.

Real estate brokers who deal extensively in Bronx holdings yesterday reported one of the most active demands for improved properties during the past six weeks. The bulk of the sales centred around multi-family houses, although several deals involving taxpayers, dwellings and plots were also closed.

Paulfred, Inc., sold to a client of Ernest E. Califano the two five and one-half story flats, each built on a plot 50 by 125 feet, at 2,847 and 2,849 Webb Avenue. The properties bring in a total return of $40,000 a year.

The five-story flat on the northeast corner of Harrison Avenue and 180th Street, built on a plot 55 by 100 feet, has been purchased by the Baljo Realty Corporation, Herman J. Ballin, President. The Heidseig Realty Company, represented by Julius Fine, was the sellers.

Caroline Reus has purchased the eight-family flat, on a plot 31 by 100 feet, at 1,985 Daly Avenue. The property brings in an annual return of $5,150. It was sold through the office of Lawrence Gross.

Ralph Obedin and Hyman Bloom purchased the five-story apartment house at 1,017 Simpson Street from Samuel Strassfield. The property rents for $12,000.

Angelo L. Frumento sold a three-family house, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, at 2,115 Clinton Avenue, and also for Charles McDonald a plot 44 by 172 feet on Crotona Avenue, near 181st Street.

The 180th Street Leasing Company, Clement H. Smith, President, has purchased the two-story dwelling at 1,750 Walton Avenue, near 175th Street.

The Clearance Realty Company sold through C. J. C. Muller the one-story taxpayer on the southeast corner of Mount Eden and Inwood Avenue, built on a plot 100 by 75 feet, to the Holwick Realty Company, Henry Wicke, President.

The same brokers also sold for Frederick Schierhorst the block front on the south side of Mace Avenue, between Tiemann and Lodovick Avenues, consisting of eight lots, to Claus H. Muller, operator, who immediately resold his contract to an investor.

BRONX BUILDING PLANS.

Rochambeau Avenue, east side, 81.54 feet south of Van Cortlandt Avenue, six-story brick tenement, 50 by 86.3 feet; D. U. R. A. Realty Corporation, owner; S. J. Sheridan, architect; cost, $150,000.

Barker Avenue, west side, 100 feet west of Mace Avenue, two two-story brick dwellings and garages, 20 by 65 feet; Hillcrest Construction Company, owner; A. D. Bartholomew, architect; cost, $24,000.

Taylor Avenue, west side, 330.03 feet south of Westchester Avenue, two-story brick dwelling, 20 by 52 feet; P. J. Gaffney, owner and architect; cost, $14,000.

Two Hundred and Twenty-ninth Street, north side, 155.10 feet east of Carpenter Avenue, two-story frame dwelling, 20.6 by 47 feet; Frank Zaccardo, owner; Charles W. Van Kernen, architect; cost, $10,000.

Sanatorium Leases Buildings.

The Parkway Sanatorium has leased for a term of years from the Roymont Realty Corporation, E. L. Crans, President, the two five-story tenements at 22-24 East 103d Street. After extensive alterations the building will be occupied by the Sanatorium, specializing in pulmonary diseases.

NEW JERSEY LEADS SUBURBAN MARKET

Country Estate of the Late Fritz Achelis, in Rumson, Is Sold for $150,000.

WOMAN IN TWO DEALS

Mrs. Chandler W. Riker Buys Residence and Adjoining Plot—Sales on Long Island.

New Jersey properties, which have played an important part in the suburban market during the past two weeks, proved the feature of the real estate market. One of the most attractive properties in Rumson was involved in a change of ownership yesterday, when the residential tract of the late Fritz Achelis was purchased by William H. La Boyteaux through the office of William H. Hintelmann for $120,000.

The estate consists of 48.5 acres of landscaped ground, improved with a twenty-seven-room mansion, two employes' dwellings, a ten-car garage and numerous outbuildings. It has frontages of 800 feet on Rumson Road, 1,200 feet on the west side of Bingham Avenue and 1,200 feet on South Shrewsbury River.

It adjoins the country estates of J. Horace Harding, Thomas F. Vietor, Rufus C. Finch and Manton B. Metcalf Jr. One of the features of the property is a chain of three lakes.

Mr. Hintelman also sold in Rumson to Mrs. Chandler W. Riker a large residential property on the Avenue of Two Rivers for $50,000. The property comprises about one acre, with a frontage of 210 feet on the east side of the Avenue of Two Rivers. It is improved with a sixteen-room residence and three-car garage with chauffeur's quarters. It was sold by Mrs. Alfred J. Hintelmann, who had previously leased the property to the buyer for a term of three years.

Mrs. Riker rounded out her residential plot with the purchase of an adjoining strip fronting 50 feet on the Avenue of Two Rivers and running back 405 feet to a frontage of 50 feet on Ridge Road. The property was sold for John Achelis through Mr. Hintelmann's office.

The residence at 160 Park Street, Montclair, has been purchased by George L. Hallock of Bloomfield from Thomas A. Curtis. It was held at $45,000. The James Mooney firm acted as brokers.

Mrs. Elwood W. Vine of Manhattan has purchased for occupancy the home of Miss Ellen O'Neill, called "The Oaks," located on West Franklin Avenue and Heights Road, Ridgewood, N. J. The plot fronts over 500 feet on West Franklin Avenue and 237 feet on Heights Road, in the finest section of Ridgewood. S. S. Walstrum-Gordon & Forman were the brokers in the transaction.

Max L. Weil sold for Harry Wolfson to a client a large private residence on Woodmere Place, Woodmere. The same broker also sold to a client for the Westwood Homes Corporation the recently completed residence at the corner of Westfield Road and Greenfield Road, Woodmere.

Deals on Long Island.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for Paul A. Spitler a plot on the south side of Cowdin Avenue, Edgemere, adjacent to the new railroad station at Beach Twenty-fifth Street to Joseph Gertner.

The Dalis Company has sold for the Seyport Realty Corporation at their Central Park Plaza development, Central Park, a corner plot at Central Avenue and Sheridan Avenue, 100 by 100 feet, to Charles, Paul and Max Roy, and eight lots to Sled & Borden.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold a plot 84 by 100 feet, on the southeast corner of Merrick Road and 222d Street, Queens, for Margaret Trout to a client for improvement.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The disturbance that was near Hudson Bay Thursday night is over Eastern Quebec (Father Point 30.00), with a trough extending southwestward to Kansas. (St. Joseph, Mo., 29.88.) Pressure is high from the Canadian Maritime Provinces, (Sydney 30.20), southward to Bermuda (30.26), and thence westward to the South Atlantic States (Savannah 30.14). Pressure is also high over the Canadian Northwest and Northern Plains States (Prince Albert 0.30, Rapid City 30.24), with an extension eastward to Lake Superior (Marquette 30.12).

The outlook is for local showers and thunderstorms Saturday and Sunday in most of the States east of the Mississippi River. Temperature changes will be unimportant.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours, from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. FLOOD OF TREATIES AS FOIL TO LEAGUE

SEAT PROBLEM UNCHANGED

And Mussolini's Strong Utterances Are Said to Be Driving France Into Germany's Arms.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Quietly, in most cases secretly, and in all cases without public confession of their motives, all those countries in Europe that live in fear of war, either from without or from within, are declared to have been since Spring preparing themselves against the possibility, some say the expectancy, of a break-down of the moral authority of the League of Nations in September.

That is the explanation given here by observers of the succession of treaties which have been and are being negotiated, of which the two most important are the Italo-Spanish treaty and the treaty between Rumania and France. A third, which is not yet concluded, is projected between France and Yugoslavia.

The formation of these treaties, whatever explanations may be given to the effect that they are within the spirit and letter of the Covenant of the League, is regarded here as a preparation of a second line of national defense against the eventuality of a breakdown of the League.

The movement began immediately after the special session at Geneva, when Germany was to have been admitted as a permanent member of the Council.

See Little Chance for Solution.

Despite the efforts which have been made to modify the attitude which the various nations took at that time, it is admitted in diplomatic circles that the situation has changed little since March and that next month's Assembly meeting will have to face the same problem with apparently little prospect of a solution.

Now that Brazil is out of the League it is Spain which presents the greatest obstacle. General Primo de Rivera, the Spanish Premier, has publicly taken an attitude from which it is difficult for him to retreat, and there is too close a connection between Spain's new treaty with Italy and her position with regard to the League for the French at least to be able to regard them as not to some extent the effect and the cause.

It has been no secret for a long time that Signor Mussolini's attitude toward the League is not any too warm.

When one comes to examine France's position and attitude, there is a difference, but this is a difference of caution rather than of faith.

To the protection of the Covenant she has added her treaties with Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, and is now seeking another with Yugoslavia. In a large scale Locarno may be added to the list.

All these treaties are "within the spirit of the League," but the fact that they are considered necessary impresses persons here as implying more faith in concrete alliances than in the Covenant.

Italian Deal Stirs Paris.

In the development of this situation the second stage to be considered is the effect which the Italo-Spanish treaty made on the position of France as a Mediterranean power. France has herself signed an arbitration treaty with Spain, but this is not of the same character as that between Spain and Italy and contains no neutrality clause.

This is not the moment when it is to any Frenchman's interest to spread alarm. At the same time, coming as it has done after the recent declarations of Premier Mussolini on his spectacular trip to Tripoli and at a time when the Italian emigration problem in Tunis and Southeastern France has become acute, it is a matter to the French Government of considerable importance.

A third aspect of this new development is the result which may be expected from Germany's application for election as a permanent member of the League Council. The campaign for the attachment to that application of something like complete evacuation of the Rhineland has not yet had any response.

France to Cut Rhine Army.

During September there will be, it was stated today at the Quai d'Orsay, a further reduction of the French forces on the left bank, bringing the French total down from 58,000 to 50,000 troops. This will leave a total of 62,000 allied troops in the Rhineland, a number which is believed to be about the equivalent of the military force maintained there by Germany before the war.

This reduction will be the second since the beginning of the year, about 10,000 men having already been withdrawn.

For the French Government, of which the head is Raymond Poincaré, it will be difficult to make any striking departure from this policy of gradual reduction of the occupation forces.

The general situation has been so modified by the recent expressions of Italian foreign policy that many Frenchmen are turning strongly toward a policy of cultivating German friendliness, even at the cost of important concessions.

Silently and woefully the whole foreign situation has in these past months changed greatly. It is far from being a dangerous situation. On the contrary the changes may produce greater stability than there has been in the immediate past. But whatever its ultimate effect, there can be no doubt that the current of these changes is, owing largely to Italian influence, away from the League of Nations.

TREATY DEFENDED IN SPAIN.

Foreign Minister Says Italy Suggested Neutrality Plan.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Aug. 13.—Don José Yanguas, the Foreign Minister, gave out this afternoon the terms of the treaty of friendship recently signed with the Italian Government.

The signatories undertake to submit any differences which are not solved within a reasonable time by ordinary diplomatic methods first to a conciliation commission, and, if that fails, to the Hague Tribunal, or some other arbitrator.

The conciliation commission will consist of five members, one named by each Government, the other three by common agreement.

Article 13 provides that "if one of the contracting parties, in spite of its pacific attitude, be attacked by a third power, the other contracting party will observe neutrality during the whole duration of the conflict."

Don Yanguas explained that this clause was proposed by Italy and was accepted by Spain as a proof of her spirit of friendship and neutrality.

The new treaty will be in force for ten years, provided it is not denounced by either party in the last six months of that period, it will be automatically renewed for periods of five years, at the end of any of which it may be terminated.

The Foreign Minister denied that the new treaty was contrary to the spirit of Locarno.

FRENCH RUSH THROUGH ARMS STUDY PROPOSAL

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 13.—The Franco-Italian effort to work out a common thesis on international control and supervision of armaments, leaving out phases which are objectional to Italy, Britain, America, Japan, Argentina and Chile, has come to naught, and once more the Military Commission of the Preparatory Disarmament Conference has seen the French proposition steam-rollered through by France and her seven satellites.

The French proposition, which is bitterly opposed by Italy, provides not only for the collection and publication of statistics on armaments, but for opinions as to the aggressive or defensive trend of armaments, it being provided that Governments have the right to reply to such opinions.

It was adopted by 8 to 3, with 8 abstensions.

The French paper contained three other methods of control and supervision, each stronger than the preceding one.

The fourth method provides for permanent League representatives in various countries for signing disarmament conventions.

In view of the opposition it seems scarcely probable that the French will try to steam-roller through any of these other methods.

The British have announced that they will submit a minority report, while the Italians have declared that they will register their dissention along with the French proposal.

MELLON CAN'T VISIT LEAGUE.

His Time Is All Taken Up—Volpi Says Italian Advance Pleased Him.

GENEVA, Aug. 13 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who arrived yesterday from Rome, spent the day resting and shopping with his daughter, Mrs. David Bruce. This afternoon he received Hugh Gibson, chief of the American delegation to the Preparatory Disarmament Conference.

Professor Manley O. Hudson of Harvard, who is attached to the legal section of the League of Nations, invited Mr. Mellon to visit the headquarters of the League, but he was unable to accept the invitation as his time is fully taken up.

ROME, Aug. 13 (AP).—Secretary Mellon expressed keen satisfaction on Italy's political and financial condition previous to his departure for Geneva, Finance Minister Volpi told The Associated Press today.

"Although Secretary Mellon's trip was strictly private, his visits to Premier Mussolini and myself being personal courtesies," M. Volpi said, "it is easy for every one to suppose that finance was discussed without, however, any precision or decision. He was able to see with his own eyes the solidity of the political situation, the activity and disciplined productivity and the strong coordinated and constructive sense, which I described during my Washington negotiations, and he did not hide his keen satisfaction."

COOK MAKES PEACE MOVE.

British Miners' Leader Virtually Asks for New Coal Parley.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—What is described in some quarters as an S O S to the Government to initiate new negotiations with the miners was issued tonight by A. J. Cook, the miners' Secretary.

"Let the Government invite the miners' leaders to meet them," he said, "declaring definitely against enforcing longer hours and accepting the principle of a national agreement and a national minimum wage and being prepared to recognize the necessity for reorganization of a drastic character. Then peace is possible in the mining industry."

Serious disturbances have taken place in connection with the return to work of a number of South Derbyshire miners. Large forces of police had been called today into the area as a preventive measure.

The President of the South Derbyshire Miners' Association was attacked today on his way to a meeting with his colleagues. He was battered about the face with stones and so badly hurt as probably to be unable to attend Monday's conference in London of delegates from the mining districts.

BIG BRITISH STAMP FRAUDS.

Millions of Dollars in Defective or Forged Paper Circulated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Sensational frauds in connection with the postage, health insurance and inland revenue stamps to the valu of millions of dollars are being investigated by Scotland Yard at the request of the British Postoffice, says the Westminster Gazette. Enormous quantities of stamps believed to be either defective specimens or forged, have been sold in big batches "at reduced prices" by a gang for whom search is being made.

The total value of such postage stamps in circulation is about $250,000, while the value of health insurance stamps which have got into the hands of the traffickers is about $1,000,000. The traffickers are offering them at a discount of 10 per cent. to merchants who carry out mail order campaigns or to firms interested in circularizing.

DECLARES QUACKS BANE OF INDUSTRY

Dr. McDowell, in Labor Message, Says It Is Time for Church to Work for Peace.

SEES TOO MANY PROGRAMS

Asserts the Power of Christ Should Rule in the Shop as Well as the Church.

The time has come to get rid of the industrial quacks, the Rev. Dr. John McDowell, a secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, 156 Fifth Avenue, declares in his annual Labor Day message to the 10,000 pastors of Presbyterian churches in the United States. The message was sent yesterday to the pastors with a request that it be read to their congregations Sept. 5 next, which will be Labor Sunday.

Dr. McDowell, when a boy of 14 years, lost an arm while working as a breaker-boy in a coal mine in Pennsylvania.

"We shall never win for our Master the allegiance of the strong men of this world until we show them that He has the power and the purpose to rule the shop, the factory and the counting-house as well as the church and the home," said Dr. McDowell.

"If Christianity has a message for industry, now if ever it ought to be fearlessly proclaimed by the churches. If in the face of our industrial needs the churches remain dumb, the working world, which is in thorough earnest today but is still willing to listen, will turn away.

"To meet this inescapable challenge of industry the churches must offer something more than an industrial program or an industrial creed. Industry is not suffering today from the lack of programs or creeds. Practically every religious body and every commercial and political organization has issued an industrial program or an industrial creed in recent years. If programs and creeds could solve our industrial problems they would have been solved long ago."

Dynamic Drive Needed.

The message, which makes several thousand words, has been summarized by Walter Irving Clarke, director of publicity of the Presbyterian Church, in the following "nuggets":

"The time has come to get rid of industrial quacks and to go directly to the greatest of all doctors on industrial ills, Jesus Christ.

"When Christ's law of love is put into all hearts, our industrial problems will be solved.

"There is no message to bring industrial peace save that heard twenty centuries ago from the profoundest of all social philosophers and promoters of peace, Jesus Christ.

"Industry is challenging the Church as never before.

"The challenge and opportunity of this crisis should be fearlessly and frankly met by the churches.

"The churches must make clear that they have a mission in industrial life and a message for industrial unrest.

"Industry is suffering today from the lack of an adequate dynamic to drive out of the hearts of the individual, the corporation and the labor union the devil of self-interest.

"Every form of industrial organization based on force or selfishness has failed. Love, and love alone, can solve our industrial problems and usher in a period of industrial peace and prosperity based on industrial justice.

"Christianity has but one law for all conduct, shop, store, factory, mine, railroad, employers' association, labor union; the law of love based on the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Love God and love thy neighbor.

"Love will contend that the fruits of industry must be guaranteed alike to employer, employe and consumer.

"There is no room in this country for either the tyranny of an employers' association or the tyranny of a labor union or the tyranny of a consumers' association."

CUFF LINKS TWICE AT POLE.

Made Trips by Josephine Ford and Norge—Owner Gets Them Back.

Gold cuff links, which twice visited the North Pole, were returned yesterday to their owner. The links are the property of Thomas B. Mulroy, of 1,004 Union Street, Brooklyn, chief engineer of the ship Chantier, of Commander Richard E. Byrd's polar expedition.

Just before the Josephine Ford, Byrd's plane, "hopped off" for the Pole, Milroy took off his cuff links and secreted them in the plane. After the flight he removed the links. The next day, as the Norge was about to leave for her flight, Mulroy lent the links to Lincoln Ellsworth of the Norge party, telling Ellsworth he would wear no cuff links until they were returned.

Mr. Ellsworth yesterday returned the cuff links to Mulroy through Henry Woodhouee, President of the Aerial League of America. The exercises incidental to their return were held in the League's headquarters, 280 Madison Avenue.

'KITCHENER BODY' ARRIVES.

"Power," Whose Real Name Is Freeman, Brings Coffin to London.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The publication by The Daily Express and other newspapers of the details of an alleged sham funeral staged at Stavanger, Norway, by Frank Power, the author of the sensational rumors about the manner of Lord Kitchener's death, which have been denied by the Admiralty, has been followed by the revelation that Power's real name is Arthur Vectis Freeman.

It is reported that he has already brought to London a coffin containing the alleged body of Lord Kitchener, and that he intends to ask that the body be identified. It was stated at his home in Kensington tonight that he was away.

COLLIER MADE SAFETY HEAD

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Barron Collier of Pocantico Hills has been appointed chairman of the Public Safety Bureau of the Westchester County Chamber of Commerce, it is announced today. He succeeds Major General John F. O'Ryan, wartime commander of the Twenty-seventh Division, who was chairman since the inception of the bureau two years ago.

General O'Ryan will serve the bureau as vice-chairman, while Colonel Carl F. Hartmann, U. S. A., retired, will continue as director.

TOPICS TO INTEREST THE CHURCHGOER

Stony Brook Bible Conference Begins Aug. 22—Two London Pastors to Be Speakers.

TENT EVANGEL TO CARRY ON

Will Hold Services Through Aug. 30 —Dr. Coffin to Address Christian Workers at Closing Session.

The seventeenth annual Bible Conference of the Stony Brook Assembly, Stony Brook, L. I., will begin Sunday, Aug. 22, and continue through Aug. 29. The Rev. Dr. John H. Carson, President of the Board of Directors, is expected to preside. The Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer, 80 years old, pastor of Christ (Undenominational) Church, London, will speak. Another speaker from abroad will be the Rev. Dr. H. Tydeman Chilvers, pastor of the Tabernacle, London.

The services under the auspices of Old Tent Evangel of New York City, Inc., which have been held this Summer in the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway, just above Seventy-sixth Street, will be continued three times each Sunday and each evening through Aug. 30. It had been announced for two weeks in the services that the meetings would end last evening.

The speaker tomorrow morning in the auditorium at East Northfield, Mass., will be the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, President-elect of Union Theological Seminary. It will be the closing day of the forty-fourth session of the General Conference of Christian Workers, which will have been in session sixteen days.

The Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, assistant chancellor of the Archdiocese of New York and assistant secretary to Cardinal Hayes, is spending his vacation at Whiteface, on Lake Placid, N. Y.

Next Thursday the fourth party for this season of 300 underweight and anemic mothers and children will go to the Sarah Schermerhorn Fresh Air and Convalescent Home, Milford, Conn., which is maintained by the New York City Episcopal City Mission Society.

The Rev. Dr. Minot C. Morgan, retiring pastor of the Fort Street Presbyterian Church, Detroit, Mich., will begin his duties Oct. 3 as co-pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Manhattan. On Oct. he will be received into the Presbytery of New York.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Emerson Burton, Secretary of the National Council of the Congregational Churches, is Chairman of a committee composed of representatives of the Departments of Evangelism of the denominations affiliated with the Federal Council of Churches, to urge a program for community evangelistic movements in cities throughout the United States from this Fall until next Easter. Other members are the Rev. Dr. George C. Mahy, Secretary of the Presbyterian Commission on Evangelism, and the Rev. Jesse M. Bader, of the Disciples of Christ. Ex-officio members are the Rev. Dr. William Horace Day of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Goodell, Chairman and Secretary respectively of the Commission on Evangelism and Devotional Life of the Council.

The twentieth anniversary of the organization of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Fourth Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn, and the twentieth anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. Charles Daniel Trexler will be celebrated on Oct. 3.

The Rev. J. Garland Hamner, for the last decade pastor of the historic Reformed Church, Belleville, N. J., is now minister in charge of the Presbyterian Chapel, West Caldwell, N. J.

This Fall the Young Women's Hebrew Association of the Bronx will conduct a campaign to raise $500,000 to build and equip a home or community centre. For the best display poster making an appeal to the public to contribute to the campaign, first prize of $60, second, $30, and third, $20, will be awarded. All posters should be approximately 16 by 22 inches. For the best essay on "What the Young Women's Hebrew Association of the Bronx Should Aim to Accomplish," prizes of $50, $30 and $10 are offered. Posters and essays should be sent to the Y. W. H. A., 890 Cauldwell Avenue, Bronx, not later than 6 P. M., Aug. 31.

BOY DROWNS IN THE BAY.

Two Swimming Companions Try to Save Him—Four Bodies Found.

John Hassard, 15 years old, of 44a East Forty-fourth Street, Bayonne, was drowned yesterday afternoon in New York Bay. With two other boys of his own age—Peter Farmer of 15 East Fifty-first Street and Arthur Fewkes, 50 East Forty-fourth Street, both of Bayonne—he was swimming from a rowboat about 300 yards off the Robins Reef Yacht Club at the foot of East Forty-sixth Street.

When Hassard shouted for help Farmer jumped overboard to his aid, and Fewkes, who was swimming several feet away, also went to assist. Farmer grasped the drowning boy by the hair, but was unable to reach the boat with him. The two rescuers were exhausted when they were saved by some men in a launch.

Policemen of the Marine Division recovered the unidentified body of a youth about 17 years old from the North River off 110th Street yesterday afternoon. That the youth died while swimming was indicated by the fact that the body was entirely without clothing. The young man was 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds.

The body of Ronald K. Rodriguez, 22 years old, 201 West Ninety-fourth Street, a clerk in a Wall Street brokerage house, who was drowned on Aug. 8 at Breezy Point, was found yesterday morning and was identified through a card in a pocket.

The police recovered the body of William Ullrich Jr., 29 years old, a salesman, of 119-28 Long Street, Jamaica Park, near Howard Beach, last night. He was drowned on Thursday.

A man believed to be Richard Whalen, 46 years old, a member of the crew of the tugboat E. C. Adams, was drowned Thursday night when he fell into Newtown Creek about 1,000 feet west of Greenpoint Bridge on the Long Island City side. The body was recovered last night by a patrolman.
